3 DEAD, 10 HURT IN 5 AUTO AND CAR ACCIDENTS

Alexandria Girl Killed and Companions Injured as Motor Car Hits Tree.

CONTRACTOR STRUCK DEAD BY TROLLEY

Hunter's Skull Is Fractured as Machine Plunges Into Ditch and Upsets.

Traffic accidents yesterday in Washington, nearby Virginia and Maryland took a toll of three dead and ten injured. Automobiles figured in four of the accidents and a trolley car in the other.

The dead are:

Harwood E. Read, 48 years old, 1675 Columbia road northwest.

Archie Simpson, jr., 30-year-old Washington contractor, residing in Clarendon, Va.

Miss Perkins was killed instantly and three other persons suffered serious injuries when the automobile in which they were riding hit a tree on Columbia Pike, near Barcroft station, and plunged down a 25-foot embankment.

Three Youths Injured.

The injured in that accident were:

Walter Fairfax, 20 years old, of 415 South Patrick street, Alexandria, at Emergency Hospital, with fractured bones in the face, a fractured arm and ribs.

Fred Sisson, 18 years old, of 509 King street, Alexandria, at Georgetown Hospital with severe cuts on the head.

Claude Violetti, 16 years old, of Green street, Alexandria, possible fracture of the skull and other injuries, at Georgetown Hospital.

Sisson told attaches at Georgetown Hospital he was driving, but he was unable to give any details of the accident.

Fairfax told reporters that he had been visiting Miss Perkins when the other two boys came to the house and offered to take him to Washington. Miss Perkins accompanied the party.

Girl's Neck Broken.

Surgeons at Emergency Hospital who examined her body attributed her death to a broken neck.

Read suffered fatal injuries when the automobile in which he and his son, Wayne C. Read, 17 years old, were riding, ran into a ditch and turned over on the highway near Bryantown, Md., yesterday afternoon.

The son, who according to police, was driving, was blinded by the sun when one mile from Brayntown en route to Washington. He lost control and the machine careened into a ditch.

Read's Skull Fractured.

The father's skull was fractured in the upset. He was caught between a door and the floor jamb, and was removed to Providence Hospital in a passing automobile. Dr. A. J. Kushiner gave him emergency treatment. He died shortly after 4:10 o'clock.

No charge was placed against the son. They had gone into Maryland early yesterday morning for a Sunday hunting trip and were returning to Washington at the time of the accident.

The dead man had been employed as inspector with the Potomac Electric Power Co. He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Harwood E. Read, and two sons, Wayne and Howard Read. They live at the Calverton Apartments, No. 404, 1673 Columbia road northwest.

Simpson was killed instantly last night shortly after 6 o'clock when struck by a car on the Washington & Old Dominion Railway at Scotland Heights, 2 miles from Bluemont.

The place where Simpson was killed is a flag station and the inference was that he was standing on the tracks attempting to flag a Washington-bound trolley.

Simpson had been on a visit to his children who live with their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Thomas, at Rand Hill near Scotland Heights. The children have resided at the Thomas home several weeks, their mother having died a short time ago of pneumonia.

In addition to his children, Simpson is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Archie Simpson, sr., of Oklahoma, and several brothers and sisters.

Five Injured in Crash.

Five persons were injured late yesterday afternoon when the automobiles in which they were riding collided at Illinois avenue and Webster street northwest.

The injured are: Mrs. Anna Spiess, 54 years old, of 1506 Meridian place northwest, fractured left shoulder; William H. Drager, 50 years old, of 1488 Meridian place northwest, broken nose and cuts about the body; Mrs. Minnie Drager, 49 years old, wife of William H. Drager, sprained right wrist, bruised right knee and cuts about the body; James M. Martin, 50, of 648 F street northeast, cuts on face, and Mrs. Grace Martin, 40 years old, fractured left wrist and cuts about the body.

Mr. Drager was driving one of the cars and Mr. Martin the other. The Martin car ran onto the sidewalk and

Fried Says Merchant Ships Need Abler Men

Hero, Speaking Here, Issues Call to 'Youngsters on Farms.'

The greatest need of the American Merchant Marine is men—enough men and the right men—Capt. George Fried told 22 guests at a dinner tendered him and Mrs. Fried last night by Clem Gerson, manager of the Carlton Hotel. Among the guests were officials of the Shipping Board and the United States Lines.

He attributed what he termed the failure of the Government Merchant Marine largely to inability to obtain sufficient men of the right type to man its ships. As a measure of relief he advocated the early establishment of recruiting offices for the merchant service throughout mid-Western States.

"Recruits from the Midwest are young fellows from the farms" he said, "ambitious young men who have never seen the sea and who are enthusiastic and capable. The Navy gets them with its recruiting stations in the Middle West, but we are forced to take men from the Eastern States, of which there are not always enough or of the type we need."

The heroic commander of the America, who rescued the crew of the Italian freighter Florida, also urged that officers of the United States Government merchant ships be placed on a basis leading to eventual retirement with pay. The English merchant officers, he said, can retire after a certain length of service and live comfortably, while the American officer must stick to his bridge or be "out of luck."

Among the guests at the dinner were T. V. O'Connor, chairman of the United States Shipping Board, and Mrs. O'Connor; Samuel S. Sandberg, Shipping Board commissioner, and Mrs.

CHEST LEADERS SEEK MILLION BY NOON TODAY

Senator Couzens' $12,000 Gift Swells the Total to $845,166.

POSTERS BEING MADE FOR "100 PCT. GIVERS"

More Than $500,000 Is Still Needed to Round Out Official Budget.

Hopes for the fulfilment of the "Million by Noon Monday" week-end slogan of the Community Chest orkers mounted steadily yesterday when officially audited figures showed $833,166.61 in actual pledges received at chest headquarters. This did not include the gift of $12,000 from Senator Couzens, which brings the unofficial total to $845,166.61. Senator Couzens' gift will be reported with others at the report meeting of the special gifts committee at the Willard at noon today. The Metropolitan unit, as usual, will hold a report meeting at the Mayflower at 12:30 o'clock.

Yesterday's audited total was divided as follows: Special gifts committee, 757 pledges, totaling $604,011; group solicitations unit, 2,438 pledges, totaling $24,240.38; governmental unit, 1,182 pledges, for $12,656.08; Metropolitan unit, 9,920 pledges, for $187,553.28; committee on colored coordination, 364 pledges, for $4,705.87.

After riding in police patrols and fire trucks, the winning team of the Metropolitan unit will experience a big change today, shifting to an old-fashioned hay wagon, which will convey them to the "chestometer" at the District Building, where the winning captain will paint in the rise of the "mercury."

Posters Being Prepared.

Posters are being prepared for the 100 per cent establishments through the group solicitations unit and will be sent to each firm which registers 100 per cent in giving through this unit.

With more than $500,000 necessary to officially round out the budget, the chest officials are urging the workers to renewed efforts in obtaining more and larger subscriptions. "Even conceding that we reach the million mark by noon tomorrow," John Poole, campaign chairman, said yesterday, "it will leave us with the problem of raising more than $150,000 daily for the next two days in order to attain the goal of $1,343,348.98 necessary to provide for the budgets of the 57 agencies affiliated with us. It must be impressed upon the people of Washington that this campaign is for 57 organizations and not one, as many seem to think.

"Even with larger gifts than they are now making, many of the subscribers would still be giving less than they usually give throughout the year, if they take into consideration their unrecorded gifts, made through the purchase of tickets, tags, &c., on the streets and to dances and parties for the benefit of various organizations. We are trying to get before the people that the Community Chest is the logical, economical way to give and that it does not remove the personal touch in that the contributor can designate the agency to which he desires the money to go."

Complaints Answered.

Complaints again came in yesterday from workers that many people were criticizing the Chest, claiming that commissions are paid on its collections. "We pay no commissions," Elwood Street, director of the Chest, declared. "The Community Chest is organized by Washingtonians; its officers are Washingtonians; its workers are Washingtonians, who are giving, not only their time and work, but large contributions as well, in order to forward the work. No outside organization gets a penny of the money collected. All our work is done in Washington; the agencies supported by the Chest are all in Washing-

NEW UPRISING ROUSES SPAIN; BLOOD IS SHED

Valencia Battle Scene; Martial Law Is Put Into Effect.

KING AND DE RIVERA CONFER ON SITUATION

Chief of Civil Guard Is Sent to Scene With Power to Depose Officials.

Paris, Feb. 3 (A.P.).—Information which eluded the Spanish censorship at a dozen different points today disclosed that the revolt against the dictatorship of Premier Primo de Rivera has broken out in the City of Valencia, with resulting bloodshed and the proclamation of martial law.

The Paris Journal received word that part of the Valencia garrison attempted to liberate former Premier Jose Sanchez Guerra from the military prison where he has been held incommunicado since he surrendered to the authorities following collapse of the general revolt several days ago. These troops were opposed by others, with resulting bloodshed.

Premier de Rivera today conferred for 2½ hours with King Alfonso regarding the new developments. His majesty signed several decrees to tighten governmental control. By one of these a special temporary court was created under the jurisdiction of the ministry of the interior, but presided over by an army officer in order to establish closer relations between the police and the military on questions affecting members of the army and civilians.

Spy System Proposed.

Another decree provides for employment of patriotic unions for surveillance and gathering information. The press of the country is compelled by another decree to maintain at the disposition of the government one-sixteenth of its pages for the insertion of official and semiofficial communiques and appeals to public opinion.

Lieut. Gen. Sanjurjo has been sent to Valencia with unlimited powers to remove all civil and military officials and appoint others in whom he has confidence. The revolting troops were said to have been subdued by neighboring garrisons and to be closely confined to barracks.

The premier, according to advices from Madrid, did not appear greatly perturbed by the latest turn of events. He attended mass this morning with the royal family. He said he was less concerned with the actual events than he was about general tendencies in the country. He believed the measures adopted, vastly increasing the dictatorial powers, would be able to smooth out the situation.

By piecing together the narratives of travelers who reached the frontier at various places today, together with the reports smuggled out of Spain by telephone and other means, a general picture of the tense situation in Valencia was obtained, but it was lacking in many details.

First Uprising Suppressed.

Last Tuesday a revolt, which apparently had been planned for simultaneous action in several of the larger cities, especially in the south, resulted in the capture and retention for about twelve hours of Ciudad Real by the First Artillery Regiment. This was suppressed without bloodshed when the

MRS. BLALOCK COMING HERE TODAY; BLANTON WITH PALMIST, CLAIM

FIGHTING NEW REVOLTS IN SPAIN

PREMIER PRIMO DE RIVERA.

MORE PAPERS OFFERED AUTHORITIES, REPORT.

City Heads Are Waiting for Texan's Return, and Burlingame.

CAPTAIN MAINTAINS SILENCE UNCHANGED

Score of Anonymous Letters Received, Attacking Him on Similar Charges.

Further sensational developments in the case of Police Capt. Guy E. Burlingame were forecast last night when it was learned that Representative Thomas L. Blanton, of Texas, had passed his day of rest "out of town." The indications were that he passed another day in Baltimore, obtaining further evidence from Mrs. Helen Blalock, the palmist who has accused Capt. Burlingame of threatening her life and her property.

It was reliably reported last night that Mrs. Blalock would come here today, but what she would do if she did come was not made known. At the same time, it was learned that the woman has been in Washington several times in the past two weeks, despite her statement that she was afraid of Burlingame.

The District Commissioners are ready to receive any additional evidence against Capt. Burlingame that Blanton may care to present, Commissioner Sidney P. Taliaferro said last night.

That Blanton has something additional is indicated in a telegram which he has sent The Washington Post, saying that if the Commissioners are not "satisfied," there is "abundant more evidence available."

Sent From Baltimore.

The telegram was sent Saturday from Baltimore, where, evidently, Blanton talked to Mrs. Blalock. The woman has been in hiding ever since she went to Texas to tell her sensational story to Blanton.

In the meantime, Blanton himself is hiding—that is, when he is not at the Capitol. He is keeping his home address a secret in order to escape the score of persons who have been trying to see him or telephone him.

Captain's Reply Awaited.

The Commissioners have decided to do nothing more about the sensational case until they receive a written reply from Capt. Burlingame with regard to Mrs. Blalock's charges.

The big police officer was directed to submit such a reply by Tuesday at a meeting of the Commissioners Saturday. In calling on him for one, they sent Burlingame a copy of the affidavit Mrs. Blalock directed at him and also copies of the now celebrated "Heartsore Daddy" letters which she said he wrote her.

"I have nothing to say," was Burlingame's stock but polite reply to all questions yesterday.

Tomorrow Is Deadline.

Maj. Edwin B. Hesse, superintendent of police, and other police officials expect that Burlingame will have his reply in by noon Tuesday, the "deadline" set by the Commissioners.

If Blanton comes through with more allegations and more documents from Mrs. Blalock it is probable that Burlingame will have some further explaining to do. At present the nature of Blanton's additional evidence can only be surmised.

Anonymous letters, containing charges against Burlingame, even more serious than those of Mrs. Blalock, have been pouring in at the Capitol since the spectacular hearing last Monday when Blanton confronted the police captain with the woman's affidavit and letters.

DOCTOR FALLS DEAD MINISTERING TO BOY

Max A. Helfgott Is Stricken With Heart Disease at Patient's Home.

LEADER IN ZIONIST WORK

Dr. Max A. Helfgott, 47 years old, of 4621 Ninth street northwest, widely known physician in Jewish circles and one of the leading members of the Zionist movement here, died of heart disease at 6 o'clock last evening while treating Sidney Terlitzky, 6 years old, son of Benjamin Terlitzky, grocer, at the latter's home, 824 Allison street northwest.

Dr. Helfgott had just treated Sidney for a minor illness when he collapsed. Mrs. Terlitzky summoned Dr. Edwin B. Behrend, of 1854 Biltmore street northwest, and Dr. Edward A. Cafritz, of 1513 Sixteenth street northwest. They pronounced Helfgott dead from heart attack.

He had recently been troubled with heart disease, relatives stated last night. He conducted a class at George Washington University Medical School and had lived in Washington for the last four years.

He maintained offices at the Farragut Apartments, Seventeenth and I streets northwest. His widow, Mrs. Ida Helfgott, and a son, J. Leon Helfgott, 14 years old, a student at Central High School, are survivors.

The body was turned over to the Bernard Danzansky undertaking establishment, 350! Fourteenth street northwest. Funeral arrangements have not been completed.

The death of Dr. Helfgott follows closely that of Dr. A. W. Boswell, who died a little more than a week ago while he was preparing to operate on a patient in Sibley Hospital.

Driver Dies as Burning Bus Crashes, Overturns

Redding, Calif., Feb. 3 (A.P.).—A blazing passenger bus, which caught fire suddenly while operating between San Francisco and Portland, Oreg., crashed and overturned 4 miles north of here at 2 o'clock this morning.

The driver, E. F. Hoffman, was burned to death and several passengers were injured.

FRIEND, PALLBEARER, NOW HELD AS SLAYER

Accused Deputy Sheriff Stood Guard an Hour After Murder.

NOT AT FIRST SUSPECTED

Williamantic, Conn., Feb. 3 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—Deputy Sheriff Trenor Rice, close friend of William E. Jackson, murdered Windham County detective, who yesterday was one of the pall bearers at his funeral, tonight was formally charged with the murder and lodged without bail in the Brooklyn, Windham County, jail.

Rice was placed under arrest after a long grilling by the special investigators who have been in charge of the mystery killing which occurred last week in the kitchen of Jackson's home. The deputy sheriff had been acting as special guard at the home since the murder to keep the curious away from Jackson's widow and his 24-year-old daughter, Juanita.

That Rice had been under suspicion had been admitted by the deputy sheriff himself, who told newspaper men that he expected to be arrested "as a suspect." From the first some of the investigators had linked Rice's name with the killing, although County Detective Edward J. Hickey, who was in general charge, remained silent and did not question Rice until after Jackson's funeral.

Jackson was murdered Tuesday night between 6 and 6:30 o'clock while Mrs. Jackson was driving into town to bring home their daughter who conducts the Quality Shop for her mother.

Stimson Next Secretary Of State, Dispatch Says

New York, Feb. 3 (A.P.).—The New York Times in a special dispatch from Washington tomorrow will say that it was learned today from unquestioned sources of authority that Henry L. Stimson, of New York, now Governor General of the Philippines, has been offered and has accepted the position of Secretary of State in the Hoover Cabinet.

Elihu Root and Charles E. Hughes, former Secretaries of State and both New Yorkers, are understood to have been foremost among those who urged the President-elect to place Col. Stimson at the head of his Cabinet.

26 MEN DROWNED AS GALE SINKS SHIP

German Steamer Deinester Is Cut to Pieces on Rocks in River Douro.

BRITISH VESSEL ASHORE

Lisbon, Feb. 3 (A.P.).—Twenty-six members of the crew of the German steamer Deister were drowned today when the vessel sank in the Douro River after being driven on the rocks during a violent gale.

A huge hole in the side of the vessel caused her to founder immediately. The crew assembled on the top deck, but before they could equip themselves with life preservers or lower a boat the enormous waves hurled 21 of them overboard.

Five others clug to the rigging and went down with the ship.

Craft had hardly more than started for the foundering vessel when she was seen to disappear. Not a man was seen in the swirling waters when the rescue boats arrived at the scene.

The British freighter Mairesfield is ashore on Palaski Reef, in the Dry Tortugas, south of the Florida Peninsula, the Coast Guard cutter Tallapoosa advised headquarters yesterday.

The cutter said it was standing by the Mairesfield, which was in no immediate danger, although a heavy swell and a stiff breeze was coming up.

The tug Richmond has a line aboard the freighter and will attempt to haul it off the reef at high tide, the Tallapoosa radioed.

CANAANITES' ALTAR FOUND BY AMERICAN

DATES BACK 3,500 YEARS

Philadelphia, Feb. 3 (A.P.).—A report from Alan Rowe, director of the University of Pennsylvania expedition to Palestine, made public today, says a great stepped altar at which the Canaanites worshiped their god Mekal nearly 3,500 years ago has been found in Beisan, the biblical Beth-Shan.

The altar, built of bricks resting upon a foundation of undressed stones in the Mekal temple, is approximately 17 feet wide and 12 feet deep, and is the most remarkable structure of its kind ever found in western Asia, the report said.

Many other objects of great archeological value also were uncovered. They include three gold pendants, one of which bears the figure of Goddess Ashtoreth; bronze arrowheads, an ivory spindle whorl, and several Syro-Hittite cylinder seals, whose presence, Mr. Rowe said, appear to indicate a northern influence in Beth-Shan in the time of Thothmes III.

The discoveries we have made in the eastern section, together with our previous discoveries, reveal that the temple of Mekal consisted of a great courtyard, an inner sanctuary with a stone altar for meat offering and a brick-stepped altar for cult objects, and a small room south of the inner sanctuary," Mr. Rowe reported.

"Further, it included a room east of the sanctuary which contained a great

Senate Held to Favor Time Clause in Cruiser Measure

Supporters Unmoved by Strong Opposition of Pacifists and Alien Propagandists; Hoover Message Ignored as Gesture to Keep From Clash With President.

By ALBERT W. FOX.

National defense lines are intact on the eve of the vote on the cruiser bill, and unless there is unexpected weakening today the action of the Senate will go down in history as a twentieth century triumph for Americanism against seemingly overwhelming odds.

Despite veiled threats from foreign anti-Navy propagandists, organized efforts of pacifists and internationalists and unfortunate circumstances which have aligned President Coolidge against the time clause, which constitutes the heart of the bill, it looks as if the supporters of the Navy program are about to achieve a memorable victory.

The vote on the time clause decides the issue. If it is kept in, the fifteen cruisers and one airplane carrier will be actually constructed within a definite period, for work must begin on all of these ships within three years.

If it is stricken out the victory belongs in reality to opponents of the Navy, for it is conceded that this means ships of paper instead of steel and an ultimate crippling of the whole program. A vote to eliminate the time clause will mean that the elements opposing adequate national defense have gained the whip hand and will be in a position to bring about a hopeless deadlock with the House and pave the way by one means or another to prevent actual construction of cruisers.

President Coolidge's desire to see the time clause eliminated has not changed any votes during the past few days, because senators are convinced that the President's announced purpose with respect to the cruiser-building would be relegated to the scrap heap by carrying out the President's desire respecting the time clause. Mr. Coolidge wants to send in a budget recommendation for beginning construction of the ships if the time clause is stricken out, but this plan would not work out in practice, it is explained, because the House would not agree to it if the Senate did agree, and because the elimination of the Extends an invitation to the women of Washington to attend a FREE COOKING SCHOOL to be held Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, February 5, 6, 7, 8, 2 to 4 P. M. at the AMBASSADOR THEATER, 18th Street and Columbia Road.

It will be conducted under the direction of MRS. FRANCES T. NORTHCROSS, nationally-known dietitian.

Chicago Gangster Killed in Ambush

Lieutenant of Imprisoned Leader Shot Trying to Escape Detective.

Chicago, Feb. 3 (A.P.).—Joe Pietch, lieutenant of Joe Saltis, Chicago gangster, was shot and killed in a police trap today.

Police detailed to break up the Saltis gang, whose leader was sent to jail recently, were stationed at a hotel apartment house rendezvous for the gang. Pietch was shot by Detective John Kelle, when he jumped through a window in an attempt to escape.

A few days ago another member of the gang, Steve Kuczaski, known as "the bull," was killed in a saloon by one of his former partners.

Senators Major Generals When Moving With Army

Representatives Have Rank of Brigadier Generals Under Same Circumstances; Military Men Have Priority Under War Department Rules.

For purposes of inexpensive travel on Army transports to distant points during recesses of Congress, a senator, under a War Department regulation, has the relative rank of a major general of the Army, while a representative ranks with a brigadier general.

Officers of the Army, traveling under orders for change of station, have priority. After them the priority goes to the "senator major generals" and the "representative brigadier generals." They may travel to the Panama Canal Zone and return, take a longer jaunt to Hawaii and back, or even stretch the cruise as far as the Philippines and China. The expense is the uniform charge of $1.50 per day per person.

Maj. Gen. B. F. Cheatham, quartermaster general, told the Senate appropriations committee when it had the Army appropriation bill under consideration that senators and representatives traveling in this way "are assumed to be under orders and on Government business and are placed on board under that priority." The general said that the War Department regarded this as a perfectly proper procedure, since members of Congress had their trips and had an opportunity to see American foreign possessions and Army posts.

Senator Copeland suggested it might be well to eliminate this matter from the committee, "or we will be encouraging a whole lot of people to take these trips."

Senator Reed, of Pennsylvania, asked whether any idea could be given as to the number of such trips taken by senators and representatives and their families last year. Gen. Cheatham indicated that if the committee desired to put this information on record it could be furnished. The inquiry was not pressed.

subcommittee that opened the investigation, has received several such letters. As a rule they are signed "A Friend," and give instructions as how to "get the goods" on police officials.

Letters Are Ignored.

Since he and his colleagues started investigating police affairs, Gibson has received scores of anonymous communications. He has made it a rule, however, to more them.

The office of the District Attorney which was originally assigned to investigate the Burlingame-Bialock case, now is marking time, waiting to see what the Commissioners are going to do.

If the Commissioners fail to take action, District Attorney Leo A. Rover and his assistant, William H. Collins, plan to present the case to the grand jury.

Department of Justice agents have called on Collins to inquire about his plans for a nation-wide search for Mrs. Bialock, but Collins has not yet given them the word to start. Moreover, he doubts whether a search will be necessary.

Coal Exhausted, Town Keeps Warm on Liquor

Cascade, Iowa, Feb. 3 (U.P.).—Shut off from rail communication for seventeen days by heavy snows and with coal supplies exhausted, citizens of this town managed to keep warm on alcohol and moonshine until Federal agents paid a surprise visit last night.

While the narrow gauge railroad was making a desperate effort to cut through the drifts, 25 dry sleuths on trucks ploughed through the roads and raided the town.

They got several thousand gallons of alcohol and "mountain whisky."

The agents had maps of the town and knew just where to go. Three "soft drink parlors," a tire shop, bakery and grocery were raided and the proprietors arrested.

Spain May Run Tunnel Under Gibraltar Strait

Madrid, Feb. 3 (A.P.).—In the course of the present year Spain plans to build a tunnel across the Straits of Gibraltar if the project is feasible, it has been learned on good authority. Geologists are to make an examination on the proposed site and decide whether the plan can be carried out.

The director of the Geological Institute believes the capes of the strait are not entirely impassable and can be perforated for a tunnel. Tariffs would be selected for the Spanish side if the tunnel is built. The African point has not yet been chosen.

Fatal Shots End Card Game of U. S. Soldiers

Honolulu, Feb. 3 (U.P.).—Sergt. Arthur Coon, 35 years old, was killed and Private James F. Burke, 22, seriously wounded in a shooting here today at Schofield Army Barracks after a card game.

Sergt. Virgil Richardson, 25 years old was arrested and charged with the shooting. He was said to have become dissatisfied with the outcome of the game and to have attempted to retrieve money lost. Army officials said Coon's home address was Scammond, Kans.; Burke's, 213 St. Anne avenue, Brooklyn, N. Y., and Richardson's, 520 West Broadway, Louisville, Ky.

Poincare Still Urges "Ballots for Women"

Paris, Feb. 3 (A.P.).—Premier Poincare continues to be a determined and convinced advocate of votes for women. The hostile attitude of his colleagues in the ultraconservative senate does not influence him.

He recently has restated his views in a letter replying to one from Mme. Le Vert Chotard, president of the National Union for Women's Votes.

The premier writes: "I have the honor to inform you that I have not changed my opinion and that I will continue to do that which is within my power to favor woman suffrage."

Russia Removes Duty From American Coal

Moscow, Feb. 3 (A.P.).—The Russian trade commissariat ordered customs officials to admit United States coal free of duty.

The basis of the order was a decree by the Russian government exempting from import duties coal from countries which have no duty on Russian coal.

COLLEGE EDUCATION PLEA BRINGS SUICIDE

Man Whose Business Failed Shoots Himself Clutching Letter From Daughter.

BODY IS FOUND BY WIFE

New York, Feb. 3 (A.P.).—Harry Smolen, said by members of his family to have lost $100,000 in business reverses in Los Angeles recently, committed suicide by shooting himself in the head today in the bathroom of his Brooklyn home. He was 40 years old.

The body, with a bullet wound in the right temple, was found by Mrs. Smolen, who heard the report of the shot. Police said that clutched in the man's left hand was a letter from a daughter, Florence, now in Los Angeles stating that "much as I would like to go to Vassar, I would be content to go to New York University."

Mrs. Smolen explained to police that her husband had written to the daughter in the West, stating that because of his financial reverses her educational hopes and those of three other children would have to be limited.

Police said Mrs. Smolen told them her husband had been in the shoe business in Los Angeles and that they had come to New York only about two weeks ago.

Prince Kuni Is Buried After Lengthy Rites

Tokyo, Feb. 3 (A.P.).—In a series of Shinto rites lasting six hours, the funeral of Prince Kuni, father of Empress Nagako, was solemnized today and interment made in the imperial family cemetery, just outside Tokyo.

Chopin's funeral march was broadcast over a nation-wide hookup as the procession left the Kuni mansion, and at the cemetery the ceremonies also were broadcast.

All theaters voluntarily closed and radio stations eliminated from their programs all music except that of mourning.

Neither the emperor nor empress attended, they having made their mourning visit to the Kuni mansion on Friday.

Ohio Turkey Gives Up 18 Pennyweight of Gold

Sisterville, W. Va., Feb. 3 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—Gold in the amount of 18 pennyweight was found by Mrs. V. M. Mercer, of this city, while she was cleaning a ten-pound turkey. The deposit was found in the gizzard of the fowl, and Mr. Mercer, custodian of the First Tyler Bank & Trust Co., took it to a local jeweler, who pronounced it gold.

The turkey had been raised on a farm at Antioch, Ohio.

Lower Rate Asked By Fruit Growers

Shenandoah and Cumberland Valleys Charge Discrimination.

Martinsburg, W. Va., Feb. 3.—Apple and peach growers of the Shenandoah-Cumberland Valley apple belts will make a concerted appeal to the Interstate Commerce Commission at a special meeting scheduled in this city on February 28 for adjustment on fruit shipments, now alleged to be discriminatory in favor of New York and Northwestern shippers.

A plan of action was agreed upon at a conference of fruit men from Virginia and West Virginia with counsel here at the recent State convention. R. M. Gilland, of Washington, was retained as counsel. Corporation counsel from both Virginia and West Virginia were present. Funds for the appeal will come from the two States and the growers.

Separate objections will be made to the rates on apples and peaches to points west of Cumberland, Md., and principal terminal points north and south.

LADY HEATH APPEALS FOR NEW FLYING TEST

Protests to Department of Commerce Against Delay in Getting License.

ASKS IMMEDIATE ACTION

New York, Feb. 3 (A.P.).—Lady Mary Heath, British aviatrix, who failed to pass a nontechnical examination for a transport pilot's license, today wired a protest to the Department of Commerce and requested the examination be repeated immediately.

"Beg to protest against my theoretical examination transport license," her protest read. "Am stranger here and request full particulars from you. Was merely told to report myself for tests without being informed that less than 70 per cent on your nontechnical regulation meant deferring whole application three months. I will be attending international aviation conference then in Europe. Meanwhile my livelihood is taken from me on account of technical interpretation. Beg favor repeat examination immediately."

Lady Mary's flying ability met with the requirements of the department, but she was disqualified because she was unfamiliar with the questions regarding navigation and with the department's aircraft regulations. She has had 1,300 hours of flying experience and holds an international commercial pilot's license honored in 34 countries.

200 Bucharest Reds Held In Uprising Against King

Bucharest, Feb. 3 (A.P.).—Two hundred persons were arrested here today after a communist meeting staged violent demonstrations against the royal family. Pictures of the boy king Michael, Dowager Queen Marie and her late consort, were torn and trodden underfoot.

Sacrifice Kidnapers Bring Panic in India

Boys Reported Sought by Pathans for Boroda Ceremonies.

Bombay, India, Feb. 3 (U.P.).—A "kidnaping scare" gripp Bombay today as the result of rumors that a number of Pathans (members of a Moslem tribe) had been sent here to seize boys for sacrifice in connection with ceremonies in the City of Baroda, capital of a native state.

Some schools were closed because parents refused to permit their children to leave home.

Several men suspected of being kidnapers were attacked by mobs.

The rumored "sacrifice" was said to have been planned in connection with the opening of big public works in the Baroda district. Groundless rumors often have been current in India that workmen kidnap and bury boys in the foundations of new buildings.

Despite the lack of confirmation of any of the rumors, the native sections of the city were greatly alarmed.

Former Fraud Preventer Held on Larceny Charge

New York, Feb. 3 (A.P.).—A former member of the Bureau for the Prevention of Business Frauds was arrested today on a charge of grand larceny.

The arrest was made on complaint of Mrs. Mary Fergeson, 67-year-old widow, that Jerome F. Collins, real estate operator and former member of the fraud prevention bureau, had defrauded her of between $18,000 and $28,000 in the purchase of stocks and bonds.

Collins, who said he was a cousin of the late Michael Collins, assassinated leader of the Irish Free State, was charged with having sold Mrs. Fergeson stocks and bonds at prices far above their actual value by misrepresenting them. The arrest was made after an investigation by Assistant District Attorney Ryan, of the Bronx.

Samuel Zirkin's Funeral Today

Treasurer of Capital Firm, Who Died Saturday, Was Prominent Mason.

Funeral services for Samuel Zirkin, 35 years old, secretary and treasurer of the firm of H. Zirkin & Sons, who died Saturday after a year's illness, will be held at 2 o'clock this afternoon at the residence, 1211 Eighteenth street northwest. The services will be conducted by Rabbi Rosenblum. Burial will be in the Fort Lincoln Cemetery. Members of the LaFayette Lodge, F. A. A. M., and LaFayette Royal Arch Chapter also will conduct services.

Mr. Zirkin was prominent in business circles of the city and also in Masonic activities. He was a thirty-second degree member of the Scottish Rite, Almas Temple of the Shrine, the Grotto and the LaFayette Chapter of the Royal Arch. He also was a member of the Cosmopolitan Club and the Board of Trade.

Surviving him are his widow, Mrs. Louise Zirkin; an infant daughter, Joan Sally Zirkin; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Hyman Zirkin; four sisters, Mrs. L. B. Nelson, of Baltimore; Mrs. Lawrence Beatis, of New York City; Miss Estelle Zirkin and Miss Lisbeth Zirkin; three brothers, Dewey Zirkin, Schley Zirkin and Harold Zirkin, of this city.

Mrs. M. A. Connolly Dies at Her Home

Wife of the Representative From Philadelphia to Be Buried Wednesday.

Mrs. Mary A. Connolly, wife of Representative James J. Connolly, of the First District, Philadelphia, Pa., died after a considerable illness in Philadelphia on Saturday afternoon.

Funeral services will be held on Wednesday morning at the residence, 2615 East Clearfield street, Philadelphia, with a solemn high requiem mass at the Church of the Nativity at 9:30 o'clock. Interment will be in Holy Sepulchre Cemetery, in Philadelphia.

Mr. Connolly and four children survive. The Philadelphia member has been a member of the lower House of Congress for four terms and has been reelected to the next Congress. He is financial secretary of the Republican city committee of Philadelphia, and a member of the rivers and harbors committee of the House.

C. L. Shepherd Succumbs at Asheville; Burial in Arlington Tomorrow.

Charles Liebermann Shepherd, nephew of the late Alexander Robey Shepherd, former Governor of Washington, died yesterday at Asheville, N. C., according to word received here last night by friends.

Mr. Shepherd was a native of Washington, being a son of Thomas and Elizabeth Shepherd. He died at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Page Johnson Secrest, of Asheville. His widow is Mrs. Lulu Barker Shepherd.

The body will be brought here for burial in Arlington National Cemetery at 12:30 o'clock tomorrow afternoon.

BUCKLEY TRIAL JUDGE CLEARS NINE OTHERS

Mentioning of Big Names Is Mere "Sales Talk," He Declares.

COOPER, FESS INCLUDED

Columbus, Ohio, Feb. 3 (A.P.).—The following statement was issued here last night by Federal Judge Benson W. Hough, who presided at the trial of State Treasurer Bert B. Buckley, after the jury reported:

"In the course of this trial the names of many prominent individuals were injected, including United States Senator Simeon D. Fess, Gov. Myers Y. Cooper, State Finance Director Harry D. Silver, District Attorney Haveth E. Mau, his assistant, William B. Bartels; H. P. Wolfe, Columbus publisher; two Cincinnati judges, myself and others.

"The mention of the names was nothing more or less than sales talk. This Court wishes to be understood distinctly that there was nothing to show that any of these men were in any way connected with the case and that the Court considers these men to be above reproach.

"My own part in the case was as testified, that John F. Eckhart, acting assistant prohibition administrator for the Ohio-Indiana district, reported to me his conversation with Buckley October 13. He came to me after being unable to reach his chief, Mr. William N. Woodruff, and attempted to reach the assistant district attorney. I told him that what I or any judge would have told any person coming to him with such information, to take note of his conversation and report the matter to his superiors."

Dying Gangster Asks Police for "Little Drink"

Philadelphia, Feb. 3 (U.P.).—Frank ("Big Head") Mulligan, a gangster, tried to live up to gangland traditions even in death.

He died yesterday after gangsters had ambushed and shot him. When police arrived he refused to name his attackers and grinned with a dying request, "Please give me a little drink."

Dr. Noyes to Leave Capital on March 1

Noted Psychologist to Become Head of Rhode Island State Hospital.

Dr. Arthur P. Noyes, widely known psychiatrist and executive officer of the medical staff at St. Elizabeths Hospital, will leave Washington March 1, to take the position of superintendent of the Rhode Island State Hospital, at Providence.

Dr. Noyes was offered the post as head of the Rhode Island State Hospital several days ago, following the death of its superintendent, whom police believe was slain.

Coming to Washington in April, 1920, Dr. Noyes' reputation as an expert in the diagnosis and treatment of nervous and mental diseases soon became Nation-wide. Best known among the writings is his textbook of "Psychiatry," written especially for the aid of social workers.

$530 in Jewelry Loot Of Week-End Robbers

Thieves netted a total of $530 in two jewelry robberies Saturday night, according to reports reaching police yesterday.

Howard O. Koontz, of 59 T street northwest, told police his store had been entered through a trap door in the roof, and jewelry, valued at $180, taken. He described the stolen articles as a gold wrist watch, two gold pins and a gold pendant. Isadore Shah, of 907 F street northwest, reported that he found his show window broken yesterday morning and jewelry, which he valued at $350, missing. The articles listed by him are five white gold watches and a pen and pencil set.

New Yorker, Authority On Welding, Succumbs

New York, Feb. 3 (A.P.).—Samuel Wylie Miller, consulting engineer of the Union Carbide and Carbon Research Laboratory, and widely known in the United States and Europe as an authority on welding, died today at his Hollis (Long Island) residence. He was 61 years old.

Mr. Miller was said to have been one of the first engineers to visualize the possibilities of oxyacetylene welding.

His close study of the metallurgical aspects of the process won him recognition in the United States and abroad as an authority on the subject.

VIRGINIAN BOOSTED FOR CABINET PLACE

Hoover Invites Anderson to Return for Conference at Miami Beach.

JARDINE'S STOCK DROPS

By CARLISLE BARGERON.
(Staff Correspondent of The Post).

Miami Beach, Fla., Feb. 3.—The Cabinet stock of Col. Henry W. Anderson, of Virginia, took a decided boost today when it became known that after he attended President-elect Hoover's dinner party arrangements were made for him to come back for a conference.

Just when this conference is to take place is not known. The colonel is stopping at Palm Beach and it would be no inconvenience for him to run down tomorrow or Tuesday before the President-elect gets away on another fishing trip.

At the same time, the rather distinct impression was gained that Secretary of Agriculture Jardine's chances of retaining his post are doubtful. Charles H. Barrett, retiring president of the Farmers' Union, called upon Mr. Hoover today to urge Jardine's retention. There are very clear indications he got little encouragement.

Of course, it may very well be that Mr. Hoover only wants Anderson's advice on ways and means of consolidating and holding the Republican gains in the South, but even if the colonel simply talks with him on this subject he is bound to leave his impress, as well as a strong argument, that a Southerner must be named to the Cabinet. It is quite likely this Southerner would be from Virginia.

Virginia is the only one of the Southern States carried by Hoover to have a State election next fall. The Republicans, inspired by their recent success, are now hopeful of electing a governor, if not other officers on the State ticket.

This is the State where the first test is to come on whether the Republicans made any permanent Southern gains in the recent election or whether the South just voted against Smith because it didn't like him.

The outcome means a lot to the Republicans. If the Democrats come back with anything like the majorities they have had heretofore then the Republicans will have little upon which to base any hope that the recent split will be permanent. It will tend to show the Democrats have buried their hatchet and are united once more against the common foe. And as long as they are united the Republicans may save time and money by not coveting the South.

On the other hand, should the Republicans make a good showing in Virginia in the fall, the Democratic morale, already low and uncertain, will suffer considerably.

Now Anderson does not believe that Tammany, prohibition and religion were the controlling factors in his State. And whether he is right or wrong he had sincerely brought himself to this conviction because he has long been a crusader for upstanding Republicanism in the South.

Twice Named for Governor.

In his State he has been nominated twice for governor and on one occasion took his candidacy seriously to the extent of campaigning all over the State and crying out against the present Democratic oligarchy. It is his contention that the Democrats in disenfranchising the negroes have also disenfranchised a lot of whites, to such an extent, in fact, that the machine has a strangle hold on the State.

The Democrats, of course, retort that the colonel really has no concern for the disenfranchised whites but wants to vote the negroes for the good of the Republican party. That is a matter between Anderson and the Democrats.

The point is that the colonel has always given a tone to the Republican party in Virginia and is the most outstanding Republican in the South. He is one of the few Southern Republicans, in fact, that gives the impression that patronage means nothing to him; that he is interested in the principles.

While his persuasive eloquence has never succeeded in getting him the Virginia governorship, it has made him a worthy foeman in lawsuits, particularly in the fight of the minority stockholders of the Chesapeake & Ohio Railroad against the Van Sweringen interests. The Van Sweringens probably wish the colonel got some public office to get him out of the private practice of law.

Change in Views Noted.

Now he is prepared to tell Mr. Hoover when he talks with him, when there are not so many people around that there has been a social and political revolution on in Virginia for a long time, highly accentuated by the World War which sent the youngsters out in the world and brought them back thinking they knew more than their fathers and determined that the old order was wrong. In Virginia, as Col. Anderson sees it, this uprising of the youngsters means that they will not follow their elders in accepting the Democratic party as the last word in government; that they will insist upon the two-party system.

He believes this social and political uprising against what he calls the Democratic oligarchy had just as much to do with the Republicans carrying Virginia as anything else. He also believes the South does not look upon Hoover as a Republican, but as Hoover, the liberal. There is a lot to this.

The chances for the Republicans to hold their Southern gains depend, he declares, upon just how Mr. Hoover measures up to this picture, whether he will deal with the South upon the old patronage basis, or whether he will kick out the old liners and place the party upon a real competitive political basis.

At any rate, the outcome of the fight in the fall in Virginia must not be minimized. The Republicans have been fumbling around in an effort to put up their strongest man for governor. This strongest man would be Col. Anderson, but he feels he should not be asked to run again, and there is reason to believe he feels that the party owes him higher honors.

Independent Urged for Office.

There is a strong feeling in his party, he said, to run an independent, some one neither Republican nor Democratic, of the class in which the Virginians, he says, consider Mr. Hoover.

Man, Given Choice at Trial, Quits Home to Be With Dog

Parents Complained That Mongrel Pet Kept Them Awake; Argument Led to Arrest of Son, 33, on Charge of Disorderly Conduct.

Orange, N. J., Feb. 3 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—William Mohr, 33, and Billy No. 2, of undetermined age, are looking for a home. William Mohr is a public service trolley operator. Billy No. 2 is a mongrel dog. Now William loves dogs, especially mongrel dogs.

On the other hand, William's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Mohr, with whom he has dwelt here in peace and tranquility all his life, do not love dogs, especially mongrel dogs.

When William appeared with Billy No. 2, therefore, domestic clouds began to gather and it was after Billy No. 2 had shattered sleep in the Mohr household with his mongrel noises that the storm broke.

John Mohr and his son had words—harsh words. William stoutly defended Billy No. 2; John Mohr cursed the mongrel. Friday night John Mohr had his son arrested, charged with disorderly conduct.

Saturday the feud was resumed before Police Judge Davis in the Orange police court.

William told his story. Eight years ago, he told the court, he had had a dog, a mongrel dog. He had kept it in spite of the objections of his parents, until its death two years ago. He had called it Billy—Bill, No. 1. Since Billy's death, William has yearned for another to take the mongrel's place, hence, Billy No. 2.

John Mohr told his side—lost sleep, long nocturnal canine howlings.

Police Judge Davis pondered. At last he addressed William:

"Wha, your father says goes in his house, Mr. Mohr. You will have to choose between Billy No. 2 and your parents."

"Then," said William Mohr with a sigh, "Billy No. 2 and I will be looking for a new home."

And he walked sturdily out of the courtroom, a little brown and white dog romping at his heels.

Tale of 30 Marines Slain, Called False

Rebel in Nicaragua Tells of Clash, but Officials Doubt Story.

San Salvador, Feb. 3 (United Press). Jose de Paredes, a member of Gen. Augustino Sandino's rebel band in Nicaragua, arrived here today and described an alleged skirmish between the rebels and United States Marines in which, he said, 30 Marines were killed. The report is regarded as baseless, as similar ones in the past have proved to be. De Paredes, who was with a band operating in the Segovias district, said the encounter took place December 17.

According to his story, a group of Sandino rebels under command of Carlos Salgado, who holds the rank of general, clashed with Marine forces at Cuje. The skirmish lasted two hours, he asserted, and the Sandinistas captured three pack mules carrying ammunition, rifles and two machine guns.

De Paredes said he was en route to Mexico, carrying "important documents."

By doing this, the Republicans would hope to hold a vast percentage of the Hoover following in the recent campaign.

Now, as to Col. Anderson's Cabinet chances, to reckon with them at all would seem to place Col. William J. Donovan in the War Department instead of the Department of Justice. And in this connection the impression here has been that the question of whether Donovan would have the War or the Justice portfolio has been definitely settled in favor of the latter. But this may not be so. The representations that Donovan would not take anything but Justice are not accepted as true.

Anderson is a lawyer above all else. There is the impression, in fact, that he would have gotten the Justice portfolio from President Harding had not Daugherty insisted upon it instead of the Postmaster Generalship.

Guests in for Surprise.

There is a suggestion that Mr. Hoover is chuckling over the speculation as to his Cabinet in the knowledge that with the exception of one or two guesses, Mellon and Donovan, the guessers are in for one of the greatest surprises of their guessing lives.

Besides Anderson, dinner guests today were Mrs. Alvin T. Hert, vice chairman of the Republican national committee; Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, John Hays Hammond and others; but Col. Anderson, so far as known, was the only one for whom arrangements were made to come back.

The dinner conversation largely revolved around Lindbergh and aviation. There have been reports that he is to be Assistant Secretary of Commerce for aviation. He may be this, in addition to his multiple other jobs.

Charles S. Barrett, retiring president of the Farmers Union, called earlier and urged the retention of Secretary Jardine.

TARIFF BODY NAMED BY HOUSE IS URGED

Representative Garner Will Make Fight to Remove President's Power.

HOOVER'S IDEA TO DECIDE

Declaring that the Tariff Commission organized as it is, subject to the whim of the President, has been "made a political football," Representative John N. Garner (Democrat), Texas, who will be floor leader of the Democratic minority in the next House, announced yesterday that he will seek to bring about a change whereby the commission personnel will be appointed by the Speaker of the House.

The Texas Democrat stated that the proposed change has met the approval of Senator George H. Moses (Republican), New Hampshire, and is being favorably considered by other Republicans and Democrats. As yet, however, it has not received indorsement of Republican House leaders, although the final attitude toward it probably will be dictated by President-elect Hoover.

Garner said the commission is a creation of the House and should be used by it. He credited it with serving some useful purposes, but stated that under the present organization its effectiveness has been hampered.

Suggests New Method.

"In my judgment, the Tariff Commission should be appointed by the Speaker of the House, say four Republicans and two Democrats, or any other ratio that might be decided upon," said Garner. "They could be paid out of the contingent fund.

"The constitution provides that all revenue raising legislation must originate in the House, and therefore it is proper the commission should have its origin in the chamber and its responsibility fixed there.

"Such a system would make it possible for the commission to report its findings from time to time, and the House could act upon its reports as to facts. This would make it possible to revise the items and schedules from time to time as they would be needed. There would be no necessity to wait until a general revision, while the rules that could be adopted would prevent any danger of disturbances of business by too many changes in the tariff. There would be no more danger of this kind of disturbance that there would be under the present flexible provisions of the tariff.

Should Be House Employes.

"I regard my plan as one of the most important tariff reforms that could be inaugurated. The objection that the appointive power should not be taken from the President would not rest in this case as the commissioners would be employes of the House, who responsibility in fixing revenue legislation is fixed by the House.

"It would not be my purpose in this legislation to have tariff revision acted upon by schedules. Rather, they would be acted on by paragraphs or by items, depending upon such action as the commission would recommend. Its fact finding would be reported to the ways and means committee, and with that information before it the committee could recommend such changes to the House as altering economic conditions would warrant."

GIRL PLANS APPEAL; JAILED FOR ATTACK

Kentucky Mountain Dweller, Convicted of Shooting, Once Slapped Minister.

DEFENDED BOBBED HAIR

Whitesburg, Ky., Feb. 3 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—If a 30-day jail sentence is the penalty for slapping a minister, what punishment should be meted out for firing two ineffective bullets at the head of another woman?

This neat algebraic problem is being mulled over by Miss Martha Bates, fair and somewhat primitive Kentucky mountain girl of 24 summers. She has just been sentenced to three years in the penitentiary for attempting to shoot Mrs. Lizzie Lucas, wife of a merchant, at Thornton Creek, near here French Hawk, her counsel, is preparing to appeal and Miss Bates has announced that she is "going to fight the case to the bitter end."

She won newspaper fame nearly two years ago for slapping a minister who had attacked bobbed-haired girls in his sermon—the Rev. Arlie Brown, itinerant mountain preacher of the Baptist persuasion. In the little church at Thornton Gap, in Letcher County, he preached a sermon in which, among other things, he characterized bobbed-haired damsels as "lewd."

When the services were over Miss Bates, whose hair is bobbed, stationed herself at the church door, called the minister a "black liar" when he uttered a denial and slapped him firmly on the cheek. He turned the other cheek, and she slapped that, too.

He carried the biblical injunction no further, but went before the grand jury and the young woman was indicted. Upon conviction she was sentenced to 30 days, but former Gov. Fields pardoned her ten days later, after he had been flooded with appeals from ministers, teachers, lawyers and barbers.

A short while later at Hazard, Ky., she was acquitted of shooting and severely wounding Henry Pratt, who had broken his engagement to marry her.

TROTSKY BELIEVED ON BLACK SEA SHIP

Storm-Bound Vessel Reported in Shelter of Littoral; Movement Secret.

HIGH WINDS DESTRUCTIVE

Constantinople, Feb. 3 (A.P.).—A raging blizzard combined with a terrific Black Sea storm has paralyzed inland traffic and forced hundreds of boats to seek shelter, including the Soviet "Krasnyflot," aboard which, rumor here says, is Leon Trotzky, exiled former commander of the Red army.

Agents of the owners of the boat announced the craft, which sailed from Batum on January 29, had found refuge in a Black Sea litoral, but declined to name it, as well as to confirm or deny that Trotzky is aboard. They also declined to express an opinion as to when the ship would arrive here, and all information on the subject was refused by both Turkish and Soviet officials.

The storm was the most severe in many years, the snow falling to a depth of two meters in some parts of Stamboul. Many houses were unroofed by the wind. Many shops and all theaters were closed and officials ordered all schools closed for three days. Numerous distress calls from unidentified vessels on the Black Sea were picked up but relief agencies were helpless to attempt any rescue.

King George Enjoys Another Restful Day

London, Feb. 3 (A.P.).—King George passed another good day without appreciable change in his condition, it was announced at Buckingham Palace tonight. Lord Dawson of Penn paid his usual morning and evening visits, but the presence of no other physician at the palace showed that there is no anxiety as to the condition of his majesty. The warning last Friday that the royal patient must not be considered convalescent was only to guard the public against excessive optimism. It is probable that no medical bulletin will be issued until tomorrow evening.

UPRISING IN SPAIN FOUGHT BY TROOPS

troops returned to their barracks after promises had been dropped from airplanes that the government would prosecute only the leaders. This revolt was alleged by the premier to have been plotted abroad, and other sources said the plans were laid in Paris.

No further overt acts were reported and an official communique stated peace had been restored throughout the country. Other arrests were made, however, including the detention of a naval officer, which was taken to mean that the revolt had a broader foundation than the mere dissatisfaction of the artillery branch of the army, as was first supposed.

The return of former Premier Sanchez Guerra from France and his surrender to the authorities indicated the interest of prominent citizens in the affair.

Energetic Steps Taken.

Madrid, Feb. 3 (A.P.).—An official note passed by the censor today said that in view of the conflicting reports of grave disturbances in Valencia, the government has decided to take energetic means to control the situation.

The note said the first step was the conferring of the inspector generalship of the third region, which includes the Valencia district, upon Director General Sanjurjo, chief of the civil guard.

The powers invested in Sanjurjo give him authority to depose or substitute persons now in civil and military posts. The note said:

"Loyalty of the garrison at Valencia is excellent, and the forces on duty are obeying the government's orders. This faithfulness is believed to be a correct interpretation of the general feeling. It is felt necessary to take these steps to insure not only order, but public tranquility, which is so necessary at this time.

"It is deemed best that the public be completely informed of all developments so as to thoroughly understand the situation. At present, however, the government has nothing more to say."

Situation Believed Grave.

Spanish Frontier, Hendaye, France, Feb. 3 (A.P.).—Reports of serious trouble at Valencia, Spain, with clashes that resulted in loss of life have been trickling across the frontier by the way of Barcelona for several days. The action of the Spanish government in dispatching Lieut. Gen. Sanjurjo to Valencia with extraordinary powers is regarded in some quarters as official corroboration of the reports that the situation is grave.

Information reaching the frontier indicated a large percentage of the garrison at Valencia was in open rebellion, while some remained apathetic and a few actively loyal.

King and Premier Confer.

London, Feb. 3 (A.P.).—A Reuters' dispatch from Madrid says Premier Primo de Rivera held a 2½-hour conference with King Alfonso this morning, after which he received newspaper men and informed them he believed measures already taken would soon clear up the situation in Valencia.

A dispatch said the premier was less concerned about what had taken place at Valencia than he was of general tendencies, a series of occurrences which he termed isolated but yet important. As evidence that he was not unduly alarmed, the premier said a football championship game to be played at Valencia would not be interrupted.

The premier announced that King Alfonso had signed several new decrees, including one creating a special temporary court presided over by a military official under control of the department of the interior to establish closer relationship between the police and military officials in questions affecting civilians and soldiers. Another decree orders all newspapers to place one-sixteenth of their space at the disposal of the government for official notes and government propaganda.

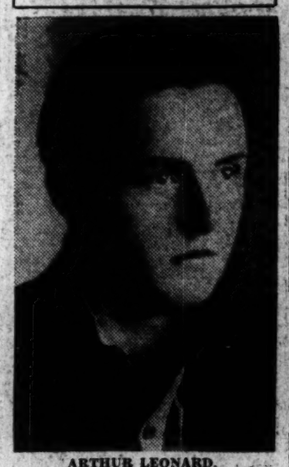
Martial Law Reported.

Toulouse, Feb. 3 (A.P.).—An eminent Spaniard who has just reached here from Barcelona says martial law has been proclaimed in Valencia and serious clashes between a mutinous portion of the garrison and police and loyal troops have occurred.

The informer said troops were patroling the streets and martial law became effective immediately upon the arrival of Lieut. Gen. Sanjurjo, who promptly dismissed all civilian and military authorities, placing some in jail.

He did not desire his identity to be known, the informers said, as he "intends to return to Spain some time." He said the situation at Valencia was decidedly grave.

ON TRIAL FOR LIFE



ARTHUR LEONARD, 23, who will go on trial today at Towanda, Pa., charged with the murder of Mrs. Samuel Jones, widow. Authorities say Leonard confessed to the crime and declared he was actuated by the fact that Mrs. Jones had testified against him when he was sent to a reformatory for chicken stealing.

overturned after the collision. Mrs. Spiess, who is the mother of Karl O. Spiess, of the Sixth Police Precinct, was thrown from the machine in which she was riding. She was taken to Garfield Hospital by police of the Tenth Precinct. Others in the accident refused to go to the hospital, and were treated at their homes.

Woman, 70, Suffers Shock.

Mrs. E. M. Fuller, 70 years old, of Stoneleigh Courts, Connecticut avenue and L street northwest, was injured in an automobile collision yesterday afternoon at the Fourteenth street entrance to the Speedway, in which a colored woman, Maggie Twitty, 34 years old, of Arlington, Va., was also hurt.

Mrs. Fuller, whose car was operated by William Boggs, colored, 34 years old, of 1316 Florida avenue northwest, was taken to her home and treated for shock and bruises by Dr. James Hawfield. Her conditoin is not believed to be serious.

The Twitty woman was treated at Emergency Hospital for minor lacerations to the face and went home. Her husband, Harris M. Twitty, 45 years old was arrested by the police of the Fourth Precinct and charged with reckless driving.

Crowds Attend Moscow Rites for Paxton Hibben; Sing Revolutionary Hymns.

EULOGIZED BY LEADERS

Moscow, Feb 3 (A.P.).—The body of Paxton Hibben, American newspaper man, who died in New York on December 5, 1928, was buried this morning at Novodevitchi Monastery. Several thousand Russians gathered in Red Square before the mausoleum of Lenin and listened to eulogies delivered by Anatole Lunacharsky, commissar of education, and Leon B. Kaneneff.

The body yesterday was escorted from the railroad station to the House of Columns, where it lay in state during the night. Boy and girl pioneers and Red Cross detachments were prominent in the procession today, marching behind bands playing Chopin's funeral march and revolutionary hymns.

The newspapers Pravda and Izvestia this morning published an obituary of Hibben, calling him an American of sterling idealism and rare intellectual attainment who, although not a communist, gave up social advantages and became the butt of persecution and hatred by openly avowing sympathy for the new social ideal.

Paxton Hibben was a native of Indianapolis. After several years in the diplomatic service, he served as foreign correspondent in Europe for various American publications. In 1922 he was made secretary of the Russian Red Cross Commission in America. Among his written works was "The Famine in Russia."

CAPT. GEORGE FRIED HONORED IN CAPITAL

Sandberg; S. E. Redfern, Washington manager of the United States Lines; George Mabee, assistant general manager of the United States Lines; Representative and Mrs. George R. Stobbs, of Worcester, Mass., Capt. Fried's home and Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence G. Moore. Mrs. Moore acted as hostess.

Despite several demonstrations from his irrepressible admirers, Capt. Fried contrived to spend a comparatively quiet Sunday. Early in the afternoon he was presented with a life membership in the Wheel of Progress and his name was inscribed on the honor roll. The only other person to have his name placed on the roll is Col. Charles A. Lindbergh.

Later he was serenaded by the Washington Independent Boys Band, which marched into the lobby of the Carlton, formed and played until he came down. This same band was his composite guests last year on the America, and tendered yesterday's concert partly by way of paying a party call.

Addresses Boys Band.

After they had played, Capt. Fried made a brief address in which he thanked them and pointed out the advantage of service in the Merchant Marine.

When he asked them what careers they expected to follow, the entire band shouted, "Sailor!"

Today at noon Capt. and Mrs. Fried will visit President Coolidge at the White House, after which they will return to the Carlton for luncheon in time to board a 3 o'clock train for New York. He will be accompanied to the metropolis by Gerson and Mabee.

From New York, he is expected to begin his tour, going to Boston on Wednesday, and Worcester, Mass., and Providence, R. I., on Thursday and Friday. He will visit Philadelphia the Following Monday. It has not been definitely decided when he will rejoin his ship, as he expects to visit Cincinnati, his wife's home.

IN MEMORIAM.

ELLIS—In memory of our darling daughter, LILIA A. ELLIS, who departed this life one year ago today, February 4, 1928.
Just one year ago today
Since our dear Lilia passed away.
No human tongue on earth could tell
How you suffered but mother, who knew you well.
It was your silent tongue who fooled them all
But God was ready for His heavenly call
With the angels I hope this very day
And with them, dear Lilia, you will stay MOTHER.

ZIRKIN—In my departed noble and brother, SAMUEL ZIRKIN.
In paths of good fellowship we met,
But the lingering hours bring to us regret,
Of one we love who did his best,
Until Our Maker called him to rest.

JOHN D., JR., BACKED BY WALSH'S LETTER

Senator, in Opinion Sent to Banker, Claims Stewart Owes Interest.

HOLDS MONEY DUE FIRM

New York, Feb. 3 (A.P.).—Frank D. Brewer, president of the Glen Ridge (N. J.) Trust Co., today made public a letter from Senator Thomas J. Walsh, of Montana, in which the senator said he felt Col. Robert W. Stewart should be called to account by the stockholders of the Standard Oil Co. of Indiana for interest on the unclipped coupons of the Continental Trading Co. bonds.

Mr. Brewer, who is a stockholder in the Indiana Co., had written the Montana senator asking his opinion of the merits of the effort of John D. Rockefeller, jr., to oust Col. Stewart as chairman of the board of directors of the company.

Walsh Headed Inquiry.

Senator Walsh was chairman of the Senate committee which made the inquiry into the Teapot Dome oil leases, during the course of which Col. Stewart's connection with Harry Sinclair through the Continental Trading Co. became known. The bonds he refers to were the profits from that company's sale of the oil from the Teapot Dome lands to various oil companies. The share of Col. Stewart was turned over to the Standard of Indiana, but for some time the coupons had not been clipped as they matured. It was following the Senate inquiry that Mr. Rockefeller asked Col. Stewart to resign, and on his refusal started the campaign to remove him at the regular meeting March 7.

The letter from Senator Walsh to Mr. Brewer follows:

Mails Copy of Report.

"I can best answer your letter of January 25 by sending you a copy of the report of the committee on public lands of its investigation of the transactions of the Continental Trading Co A copy of the testimony has also been sent you.

"It has been a matter of surprise to me that some stockholder of the Standard Oil Co. has not before this brought suit to compel the payment by Col. Stewart of what I conceive to be due from him to the company over and above the amount he has turned in.

"It will be recalled that the coupons falling due in June and December, 1923, were exchanged for Liberty bonds of equal amount, but that thereafter none of the coupons were cashed. Had they been cashed the amount thereof could have been invested in other securities or utilized in the business of the company, which presumably borrows and pays interest.

"In any event, it seems impossible to escape the conclusion that Sol. Stewart is indebted to the company to the amount of interest at the legal rate in the State of Illinois on the coupons not so cashed, from the time they came due until he eventually turned them over to the company. It seems equally sound that he was never invested with any authority by the company to turn into Liberty bonds the coupons he actually cashed, and that he is answerable for the difference between the amount of the interest thereon at the legal rate and at the rate carried by the bonds.

Large Dividends Paid.

Mr. Brewer said that in his letter to Senator Walsh he had called attention to the large dividends that had been paid by the Standard of Indiana during the chairmanship of Col. Stewart, and that he told the senator it placed the stockholders in a difficult position.

Mr. Brewer would not say whether the letter from the senator had caused him to make his decision, but he announced that he was giving his proxies to Mr. Rockefeller to vote at the March 7 meeting, when the showdown with Col. Stewart will take place. He said he owned only a small amount of stock.

3 Held in New York Dice Lottery Raid

Trio Charged With Operating $1,000,000-a-Year Policy Ring.

New York, Feb. 3 (A.P.).—Three men were held in $1,000 bail today on a charge of operating a $1,000,000-a-year policy ring of dice lottery, and one was charged with attempting to bribe the officers who raided the alleged ring's headquarters.

Three detectives testified that Samuel McCall offered them $1,000 each when they entered the uptown apartment from which the ring is alleged to have operated, if they would not arrest him. He was held in $1,000 bail on the charge of possessing policy slips and was remanded to jail for a hearing Tuesday on the bribery charge.

The two other men arrested, Louis Menella, lessee of the apartment, and Whitfield Lovell were held under $1,000 bail on a charge of possessing policy slips. McCall and Lovell are negroes.

ton. The 6 per cent deducted for expenses, which is less than half of what these collections formerly cost, is used to pay modest salaries to the small administrative group at Chest headquarters and to finance the printing, clerks, &c., necessary to carry on the campaign.

"The Community Chest is only a holding company. It simply raises the money and turns it over to the same charitable and welfare organizations which have been doing their various works in Washington for many years. We do not do any direct charitable or welfare work.

"Some organizations are not in the Chest. Some few were not deemed eligible by the board which passed on these matters. Others refused to come into the Chest. We have nothing to do with these. We simply work for the 57 member agencies that are members of the Chest and we are saving the people of Washington the trouble of responding to 57 different appeals by concentrating them into one campaign."

VICTORY FOR CRUISER TIME CLAUSE LIKELY

Hoover's Telegram Ignored.

President-elect Hoover's telegram to President Coolidge denying reports that he was opposing the President on the bill has likewise changed no votes and for two reasons.

First, it is not understood that Mr. Hoover has wished to enter the Senate battle in any way and it is not believed that the President-elect desires to interfere in matters of legislation at this time. The general view is that Mr. Hoover's denial of reports that he was opposing the President was made necessary to avoid placing the President-elect in a false position and that the Hoover telegrams must therefore be taken in conjunction with the circumstances which caused it to be sent.

Secondly, it is not believed that it would be helpful to Mr. Hoover's incoming administration to strike out the time clause and thrust all the responsibility for the cruiser program on Mr. Hoover. The construction of every cruiser would then have to be fought out again in the Congress. And the pacifist organizations would swarm down on the White House demanding that the new administration eliminate actual building of the ships.

Advantage Would Be Discerned.

Last, but not least, any efforts which Mr. Hoover may feel called upon to make in the interest of an arms limitation agreement with Great Britain would be doomed in advance to failure, it is contended. Foreign powers, realizing that the cruiser program had developed into a paper bluff and realizing further that the pacifists had the American Navy hamstrung, would never agree to any arms limitation while such a situation gave them all the advantage at the expense of Uncle Sam.

Thus, there is a preponderent opinion in the Senate that in fairness to the incoming administration the Navy program should be definitely disposed of by voting the time limit provided in the bill.

Debate today will begin under the 30-minute time limit and at 4 o'clock the time limitation will be ten minutes for each senator, with no senator speaking more than once on any amendment, nor more than once on the bill.

There will be a whole raft of amendments, but it is believed that as soon as a decisive vote is taken the rest will be smooth sailing. Once the vote on the time clause is recorded the remaining votes will mean little or nothing, though it is possible that the final vote may not come until tomorrow morning. Usually, however, the Senate finishes the job when the issue is settled by a decisive vote, and there are prospects for the final vote before today's adjournment.

SCHOOL OF COOKING TO OPEN TOMORROW

The Post Has Provided Music for Hour Preceding Talk by Mrs. Northcross.

CLASSES ON FOUR DAYS

The doors of The Washington Post Free Cooking School, to be held four afternoons this week in the Ambassador Theater, will be thrown open tomorrow afternoon at 1 o'clock.

The lecture and demonstration which Mrs. Frances T. Northcross will give are to start at 2 o'clock, the hour preceding being given to music which The Post has provided. This schedule will be followed the remaining three days—Wednesday, Thursday and Friday.

Mrs. Northcross, famous cooking and home economics expert, has made final selections from various stores and shops to complete her kitchen and dining room exhibit. The stage at the Ambassador Theater is all set for the opening.

Large Attendance Expected.

From the city-wide interest shown, the audiences are expected to be large and enthusiastic. Many inquiries have been made relative to reserved seats, and every effort will be made to provide seats for every one, but it will be impossible to arrange for reservations, because admission will be free and no tickets required.

There will be no set program for each day's proceedings. Mrs. Northcross will conduct her talks in a conversational way, answering questions while demonstrating.

She will include in each day's lecture a discussion of several phases of cookery, such as salads, pastries, broiling, &c. Those attending the school will be given printed recipes and samples of the dainties prepared.

Questions Will Be Answered.

The lecturer will conduct a question forum of which the housekeepers and wives are expected to take advantage, to secure expert advice on any of the problems confronting them. Blanks will be supplied all present for questions on cookery and home economics.

From inquiries received, it apparently is not clear to everyone that no merchandise will be sold at the cooking school. No prices will be mentioned, nor any attempt made to sell anything. The Post has invited Mrs. Northcross to conduct the school as a public-spirited contribution to women of the city and vicinity in the hope that everyone attending will be benefited by the lectures. Those attending will not be under obligation to anyone.

No Untried Theories Given.

Mrs. Northcross has had a wide experience as a teacher before women's clubs and similar organizations and has tested in her own home every idea she will present. There will be no untried theories presented, no revolutionary ideas about refurnishing a kitchen, nor any thought of teaching the housewives how to cook.

The cooking school is based on the principle that any woman who is engaged in the complex occupation of running a household, preparing three meals a day for a hungry family and trying to keep that family contented, has a big job to handle and any suggestions to make that work easier and more interesting will be welcome.

The budget idea for the home has a fine advocate in Mrs. Northcross. The multitude of departments in a household call for a business program, with expenditures definitely scheduled. Of course, planning menus and economical buying of foods constitute a large part of budget operation and ideas on marketing will be thoroughly explained from time to time during the week.

LINDBERGH RETURNS TO AIR MAIL TODAY

Will Open International Service From Miami to Canal Zone City.

HONDURAS STOP LISTED

Miami, Fla., Feb. 3 (A.P.).—At dawn tomorrow Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, who left an air mail cockpit to become the first man to cross from New York to Paris in a nonstop flight, will fly the mail again, this time in inaugurating an international service.

In a Sikorsky plane, accompanied by a mechanic and a radio operator, Lindbergh will leave Miami and turn the nose of his craft toward Havana on the first leg of his flight to extend air mail service from the United States to Panama.

From Havana the flying colonel is to head southwest across the Caribbean to the tip of the Yucatan Peninsula, thence following the coast line to Belize, British Honduras, where he will stop overnight.

Is Familiar With Route.

As technical adviser to the Pan-American Airways, a subsidiary of the Aviation Corporation of the Americas, Lindbergh will blaze a new air mail trail, yet will course over a route already familiar to a great extent, because of his good-will flight to the Latin Americas about a year ago.

Following the habit that has marked his previous experience as an air mail pilot, and which has characterized all his flying, the colonel has carefully plotted his route.

From Belize, it lies to Managua, Nicaragua, with stops at Tela, Honduras, and Puenta Arenas, Costa Rica. Lindbergh plans to leave Managua Wednesday morning, stopping at David, Panama, and is scheduled to arrive at Cristobal, Canal Zone, at 4 o'clock that afternoon, completing a journey of 2,327 miles. The inaugural plane will carry 200 pounds of mail.

The schedule calls for a four-day stay in Panama, after which the colonel will take off for the return trip to Miami on February 10. He is due back here on February 13, bringing mail from South and Central America.

Predicts Early Expansion.

Discussing the possibilities of new air traffic between the North, South and Central Americas, Col. Lindbergh said he believed that within another year the United States will be only a week distant from any point in South America, where the present modes of transportation require one week to more than a month. The distance from Belize to Puenta Arenas alone, he said, will be covered in seven hours by planes where two to three weeks now is necessary.

Embarkation of Lindbergh on the new air mail route brings the extension of the Pan-American routes from 110 miles, just eleven months ago, to 4,214 miles of international lines. Of these airways, that to be opened by Lindbergh is the longest. The Miami-Porto Rico route, over which service began last month, represents 1,440 miles, while the Miami-Havana distance is 261 miles and the Miami-Nassau 186 miles.

Lindbergh said he would not attempt to fly over any of the contemplated extensions of the air mail lines through the South American continent during his stay in Panama. He declined today to discuss future plans or any ideas he may have about South American air lines, except to say that he would like to fly over the whole of that continent.

Wife Ends Life While Husband Talks to Police

Chicago, Feb. 3 (A.P.).—The telephone rang last night at Central police station:

"My wife has just gone out to commit suicide," said the voice of Frank E. Jones, an actor. Asked for details, Jones declared he and his wife were divorced last November.

"Today she came to see me and we quarreled again," he continued. "She ran out saying I would never see her alive again. I believe she meant it."

Almost as Jones was talking another call came, saying that a woman had thrown herself in front of an automobile near Jones' residence and was killed. It was Mrs. Jones.

Plane in Forced Landing On Mississippi Sandbar

St. Louis, Feb. 3 (A.P.).—An airplane, believed to have been piloted by John McMillan, St. Louis, accompanied by one passenger, was reported to have made a forced landing on a sandbar near Garbaret Island, in the Mississippi River, about 3 miles above St. Louis, late today.

NEW WORLD DICTIONARY

Based on the Original Webster Entirely New.

Many of our readers presented their Dictionary coupons yesterday and were delighted with the new book. A number expressed wonder that so valuable a volume could be handed out at such a low price. A large number of orders are being received by mail from our out-of-town readers. Every reader of this newspaper should clip the coupons at once and present or mail them early. You will be disappointed if you do not get it.

It is new and up-to-date in every particular. Its scholarship is of the highest class. More words are correctly defined than in any similar volume. In addition to the larger vocabularly all in alphabetical order, it contains a complete summary of English grammar and has an enlarged list of synonyms and antonyms, also Dictionary of foreign words and phrases, commerce and law, and many other educational features. It is handsomely bound in dark green, textile leather with gold lettering, the most durable binding known to the trade.

Clip the Dictionary coupon printed elsewhere in this issue. Mail orders will be filled when postage is added, as explained in the coupon.

circular oven for roasting the animals sacrificed, a well to supply water to the temple; a southern corridor on a higher level than the courtyard and containing a stepped altar; a small room apparently used by the guardian of the temple, and another small room in which was the Mazzebah, or sacred conical stone emblematic of Mekal.

"Chief among our new finds in the courtyard, which is of great and imposing proportions, are a number of cones with hollow tops, a crude cylindrical incense altar of basalt, a flat gold pendant with a tang at the top twisted so as to form a loop for suspension, a gold lotus-shaped pendant with a loop of gold wire attached, and another gold pendant with a suspension loop

"The first named of these pendants bears the figure of a woman who holds in her left hand a war scepter which indicates she must be the goddess Ashtoreth.

"In the southern corridor of the temple was found a great stepped altar of bricks which rests upon undressed stones. It contains four steps, the lowest being much wider than the upper one, and there is a balustrade on either side.

"The width of the altar is 16 feet 10 inches, its depth 11 feet 10 inches, and its height about 3 feet. This structure is by far the most remarkable of its kind ever found in western Asia, and that it was connected in some way with the cult of Mekal is quite evident, for the mazzebah and stele of that diety were found in 1927 at the other end of the long corridor in which the altar is situated. Moreover, we have just discovered in the small room behind the altar a baetyl, of small conical stone, which also is emblematic of Mekal.

"Immediately adjoining the great altar we uncovered a small room which has two doors, the one leading into the great courtyard of the temple, and the other leading directly to the flight of steps connecting the courtyard with the southern corridor.

Guardian's Room Found.

"Running along the north hall and part of the east wall of this room is a low mastabah, or seat, and in the southeastern corner of the room is a sloping socket which once contained a wooden peg. It seems fairly obvious that the room was intended for the use of the temple guardian, whose duty it was to prevent laymen from mounting the steps to the corridor, and who, doubtless, had a fierce hunting dog to help him in his work, the dog perhaps having been tied to the peg in the corner.

"Every year's work at Beth-Shan brings forth new surprises. There has been no season on the site that has not furnished much new information of all kinds—information which is slowly but surely enabling us to draw from the mists of antiquity a great deal of the ancient history and religions of the land of Canaan."

With the conclusion of the season's work in Beisan, Mr. Rowe left for this city and is expected here in a few weeks.

Italian Mayor Assassinated.

Rome, Feb. 2 (A.P.).—News dispatches from Palermo, Sicily, today said that Signor Perricone, mayor of the town of Vita, was assassinated on the street last evening. Two men ambushed him and several friends at an angle of the principal thoroughfare. Seven bullets hit Perricone. He had been mayor since 1924.

Foreman's Illness Ends Murder Trial

Dismissed Jury Deadlocked Over Fate of Man Held in Policeman Slaying.

Kansas City, Feb. 3 (A.P.).—The circuit court jury which heard evidence in the trial of Tony Bonello, charged with the murder of Patrolman James H. ("Happy") Smith following the robbery of the Home Trust Co. here last June, was discharged this afternoon when its foreman, Wilbert Haines, suffered a heart stroke.

Shortly after it was called in today the jury reported to the court that Foreman Haines was seriously ill. Three physicians were quickly summoned and the jury was dismissed. After being treated by the physicians, Haines was taken to his home. His condition was reported not critical.

Both prosecution and defense attorneys indicated that they were ready for retrial of the case this week. Bonello was the fourth man to go to trial for the murder of Smith. John Messino, Tony Mangiaracine and Carl Nassello, previously tried, have been sentenced to death for the crime.

GOVERNOR TO FIGHT IMPEACHMENT CASE

Oklahoma Executive Says He "Can Not Lose," Denies Plan to Resign.

NEW CHARGE CONSIDERED

Oklahoma City, Okla., Feb. 3 (A.P.). Determined that he "can not lose, no matter what the outcome," Henry S Johnston, suspended governor, today was busy with plans for the defense battle he intends to wage against eleven articles of impeachment, before a senate impeachment court. Meanwhile legislators spent the day at their homes, taking stock of evidence from which they have been considering the voting of an additional charge against the executive.

John Head, chairman of the house investigating committee, revealed consideration of an additional charge yesterday. He said no action had yet been taken by the committee toward drawing up another article of impeachment, although such a step had been discussed by the committee members.

Johnson was in good spirits today, scoffing at the idea that he might resign, or in any way seek to escape appearance before the senate impeachment court February 11.

"I am anxious to get into the merits of the case," he said. "I can not lose, no matter what the outcome may be."

A general peep into the records of the State school lands department, which was begun shortly before the house investigating committee went into the week-end adjournment, will be continued this week, committee members said, with other developments being considered as they appear. The investigating committee, however, will not interfere with legislative activities of the house, and the various committees will begin consideration of a multitude of bills which have been introduced and referred to them.

The senate's law-making machinery has been clicking away since the conclusion of its own investigation resulted in exoneration of a number of senators who had been charged, in rumors and published newspaper reports, with corruption in connection with the sudden dispersal of an attempted impeachment session in December, 1927.

Senate and house committee members have indicated an interlocking schedule has been arranged which will dovetail committee activities with the legislative program, so that this branch of work would not be neglected for the inquisitorial program.

Policemen to Hear Simmons.

SLAYER SAYS WIFE 'WASN'T DOING RIGHT'

Defiant "No!" Is Weymouth Man's Answer to Queries About Remorse.

INJURIES STILL SERIOUS

Miami, Fla., Feb. 3 (A.P.).—Expressing no remorse for the deed, Christopher Cullen, of Weymouth, Mass., today, according to E. W. Melchen, Miami chief of detectives, reiterated to police the story of how he slew his bride of five days because "she was not doing right."

Because Cullen has been in a semi-stupor, regaining consciousness only at intervals, since being found unconscious on a railroad loading platform here Friday, police have made no effort to obtain a written confession from him. Such a statement will be prepared and presented to Cullen for his signature as soon as his condition permits, Melchen said.

"There is no doubt but that his confession will be sufficiently strong to withstand any efforts that might be made to disqualify it from the standpoint that he was not mentally alert when he signed it," the detective said.

Talking freely to Melchen and his police guard, Cullen today went over details of his wife's slaying several times but when asked whether he felt any remorse for his action answered simply: "No."

Police said the man's story, as told today, corroborated his original confession, obtained yesterday after a lengthy police grilling. He originally denied the slaying, and asserted that he was not married, though admitting his true identity. Hospital attendants stated that Cullen's condition had shown no improvement throughout the day. His injuries from a fall from a freight train are considered serious, but not critical.

ECONOMY VS. SECURITY.

The rumor has been put in circulation that President Coolidge will do his best to induce senators to eliminate the time limit from the cruiser bill by giving his consent to the construction of four or perhaps five cruisers in the first year, leaving the others to be constructed or not, at the pleasure of the next President; and that, if senators should pass the bill requiring the construction of fifteen cruisers during the next three years, he will veto the bill rather than create a deficit.

It is impossible to accept the latter portion of this rumor as truth. There is no evidence whatever that Mr. Coolidge has any thought of vetoing the bill providing for fifteen cruisers. But it is well known that he does oppose the time limitation in the bill, and he is said to have suggested a compromise whereby four or five cruisers would be provided for, on condition that the time limit be dropped.

Apparently President Coolidge hopes to confine the construction program of the United States Navy to four or five cruisers and one airplane carrier. He is said to be so anxious to avoid a deficit at the end of his term that he is willing to eliminate the cruisers which he has frequently said were necessary for replacement of old ships.

The public has been confused by contradictory utterances purporting to emanate from the White House. It is well known that Mr. Coolidge has said that the proposed fifteen cruisers, when built, will still leave the United States with a smaller cruiser tonnage than it is entitled to have under the 5-5-3 ratio, and to which it would be entitled even if another naval limitation agreement should be reached. The country was surprised, therefore, when the President suggested that the time clause in the cruiser bill be eliminated. His reference to the great expense of national defense, immediately following his recommendation for elimination of the time clause, is a good indication that he opposes authorization of fifteen cruisers solely because of the expense involved. This position seems to have been taken only recently.

The prevailing sentiment in Congress seems to disagree with Mr. Coolidge on the proposition that the national defense shall be impaired for the sake of avoiding a possible deficit. The total sum that would be expended upon the fifteen cruisers during the next fiscal year would be only $12,000,000. This sum can be provided without an undue strain upon the Treasury. By suitable discrimination in future expenditures Congress can easily provide the sums that would be needed to complete the fifteen-cruiser program, without creating a deficit. If fear of a deficit had been acute it is hardly likely that both Congress and the President would have favored the Boulder Dam bill and other projects that are less urgent than the maintenance of national defense.

Opponents of the cruiser bill are not helping their cause by starting a rumor that Mr. Coolidge will veto the bill if it contains the time clause. The pressure from the public in behalf of constructing fifteen steel cruisers during the next three years is unmistakable. The people want cruisers—fifteen of them—and they want a definite program put into effect, beyond the power of any one to suspend the work. The bill as it stands represents the will of the vast majority of the people. They are not alarmed by the scarecrow of a deficit, in view of the fact that the annual revenues are greater than all estimates. But if a small adverse balance should result from the construction of cruisers, what of it? Congress, by quitting for a few minutes the wasteful appropriation of money, could wipe out a deficit 50 times as large.

Mr. Coolidge will never be criticized by the American people for a little deficit, if the deficit is caused by the construction of warships to make the United States and its commerce safe against aggression; but it is conceivable that the saving of a few millions, to be followed by disastrous consequences, would provoke a whirlwind of criticism and make the word "economy" a hissing and a reproach.

RESPONSIBILITY IN BUILDING ACCIDENTS

Assistant Engineer Commissioner Davison has decided that the District building inspector and his staff are not to blame for recent fatal accidents in the building industry. The investigation, which resulted from criticism of existing practices in the building inspector's office, has brought out that under the law the inspectors are only responsible for seeing that structures are erected in accordance with officially approved plans. According to Maj. Davison the District inspectors have no control over methods by which building is carried on.

"Building inspectors are not responsible for construction methods followed by contractors," he said. "Their task is to see that proper materials are used and are placed where the approved plan shows they should go. Responsibility for the safety of workmen is up to the superintendent of construction, whose methods should be checked by the engineer inspectors of the casualty companies underwriting workmen's risks."

Thus the hands of the District government are washed of responsibility for preventing building accidents. Inspection of materials and their proper placement will guard against future collapse of buildings, but it affords no protection of workmen engaged in construction.

It is well that a definite position has been taken. The building inspector should not be criticized for lack of inspection when he has performed his full official duty. However, the report should be regarded as a definition of responsibility and not as a solution of the question involved. If the building inspector has nothing to do with regulation of construction methods, wherein has the workman any protection? Can the responsibility of preventing accidents be safely intrusted to the superintendent of operations employed by the builder and the casualty companies insuring them? If it is not the duty of the District inspectors to see that only safe methods are used, then the responsibility should be fixed somewhere else. It may be that the law governing building methods is in need of revision. The problem should not be dropped by simply absolving the inspectors from blame.

FOOTBALL AS BIG BUSINESS.

President William Mather Lewis, of Lafayette College, holds that football coaches should not be allowed to direct their teams from the sidelines during games. When college games, he says, "are played by robots, whose every mechanical move is dictated from the bench, the zest of the sport will disappear. If the claim that football develops self-reliance, quick thinking and leadership is to stand, the game must be played by two teams and not by two coaches. Good coaching consists of inculcating the principles, technique and strategy of the game, so that the players can meet the exigencies of the contest without direction from the sidelines."

Dr. Lewis is a very admirable and highly capable man. As president of George Washington University he commanded the respectful attention of all. His Washington friends, and those interested in college football everywhere, unquestionably will agree in principle with his theory that the game should be directed solely by student captains. But there is about as much chance of relegating the football coach to a role of mere spectator as there is to sell a copy of the Congressional Record to a senator.

Football is more than a game calculated to build self-reliance, the ability to think quickly in emergencies, and the qualities of leadership in students. These are merely the excuses for football offered to those who criticize the great emphasis that has come to be put upon it. Football is big business today and, like all big business, it is operated on the principles that are best calculated to make it successful. Winning teams pay handsome dividends. The most satisfactory way of assuring a winning team is to put its operation in the hands of a professional. For this reason the position of coach as directing head of his team is secure, at least until the dawn of that happy day when colleges will have no operating deficits to be met from the proceeds of football spectacles.

TETON NATIONAL PARK.

Senator Kendrick's bill for creation of the Teton National Park in Wyoming has been reported out of the committee on public lands and is now on the Senate calendar. Unless more important measures create a jam in Congress, the measure stands a good chance of becoming law at this session. It would add to the list of national parks one of the most sublimely beautiful regions on the continent.

Creation of the Teton National Park was recommended by the President's coordinating commission on national parks and forests which visited the section in 1925. If the present measure should be enacted it will end a fight of more than 20 years for preservation of the renowned Jackson Hole country. The new park would include the majestic Mount Moran, the Teton peaks, rising more than 13,000 feet above sea level; Lake Jenney and Lee Lake, and 100,000 acres of forest and mountainous land as wild as any that may be found in America. A number of "dude ranches" which attract thousands of tourists each year are within the area. With the exception of these ranches and small areas of private property, the land is already owned by the Government and administered under the Forest Reserve system.

The committee has shown wisdom in reporting out the Kendrick bill rather than Senator Nye's bill, which provided for alteration of the boundary of Yellowstone National Park as well as creation of the new park. There are a number of controversies on the Yellowstone boundary which have not been settled, and there is no reason for delaying action on the new national playground while these are being adjusted. Senator Norbeck has drawn up a bill which provides for readjustment of the northwestern, northeastern and eastern boundary lines, and Senator Nye has a resolution before the Senate asking for appointment of a commission to study the proposed alteration of the southeast, southwest and southern boundaries. The controversy over the southwestern boundary involves the proposed construction of a reservoir to irrigate Idaho land, which is strenuously opposed by those who are trying to conserve the park.

Interest in the national parks is growing every year and there is a popular demand for preservation of regions famous for their natural beauty as public outdoor playgrounds. Creation of another national park among the Tetons, just south of Yellowstone, will meet with general approval. As for the Yellowstone boundaries, Congress should allow nothing to detract from the scenic and recreational value of this famous vacation land.

TRANSOCEANIC RADIO.

The American radio audience listened Friday afternoon to the first successful broadcasting, on a large scale, of a program originating in England. The symphony concert played in Queens Hall, London, was heard by radio listeners from New York to San Francisco. The experiment in rebroadcasting a foreign program was the first attempted since 1924 and showed remarkable progress. Never before has a British program been broadcast through an extensive network of stations in this country.

The music, which was heard in hundreds of American homes, went through an intricate process. From London it was transmitted by telephone to Chelmsford, 30 miles to the northeast. Then it was broadcast over 3,300 miles of water and land to Riverhead, Long Island, picked up by the experiment station of the Radio Corporation of America, telephoned to a broadcasting station in New York, and broadcast over a network of 33 stations. Because of a storm on the Atlantic the broadcast was only 50 per cent perfect, but other tests conducted recently without rebroadcasting have reached 90 per cent perfection.

The achievement heralds the era of international broadcasting. Americans will be enabled to listen to programs rendered in England, France, Germany and other parts of Europe, and Europe will have access to American radio distribution. Whether the nations will become better friends through this improved communication may depend upon the quality of the programs.

EINSTEIN THEORY EXPLAINED.

The professor has in the past endeavored to show one can reach a uniform theory of gravitation (the law of I faw down) by attributing distant parallelism as an attribute to four-dimensional continuity as of the last fiscal year, regardless of Vitamins A and B. This makes him a ten-goal man if he never swings another mallet, but he goes on from this point, viz:

PART I.

I use the symbols approved by Prof. Flitzenbaum, Knute Hansen and the Delaware & Lackawanna directors. The v-components or fauna of the s-th leg of the n-leg will accordingly, unless there is an objection (and I hear none) be labeled as a subscript h-k-l raised to the power of V, while the appertaining fixed power determinants will be labeled as superscript S, J until further notice*

The local n-legs are all placed parallel, and equal vectors are such as have—with reference to their local bees knees—equal coordinates or A batteries (See foot note No. 1).

This parallel disarrangement of a vector will be given by the formula

$$8x \frac{\text{A (: :;) 0 0}}{\text{I}} \text{ zO x—$4 at 3\%}$$

the comma being used to indicate receding horizons, assuming everything comes out the right way and according to f-o-b the Slovakan curvature tensors formed out of

by adding hot water and the yolk of one egg.

PART II.

(The curtain will be lowered fifteen minutes to denote the passing of a flat-wheeled trolley car and two men in squeaky shoes who are not interested anyway.)

We are now passing Cedarhurst. Last call for breakfast.

We next raise the subscrip mu:sigma (the clerk will mark it Exhibit A) to power alpha subscript by means of the Merrick Dredging Corporation. Late last night divers said she could be raised if there was no groundswell.

This gives us a new return of more than 8% on our original investment.

PART III.

You now lay the tensors in a row, taking care not to mix them with the oblique indices, and are ready for the inventory, which, unless there has been a mistake, should come out o equals lki plus lki

0 equals Lkim plus Limk

which, when played on flute or organ is very similar to "I can't give you anything but love, baby." (Footnote 2.)

The equation now stands, with 26 counties still missing, 10 yards to gain:

$$\frac{\text{O f ob—5}}{\text{etaoinetainshrdlushrdlu}}$$

The non-symmetrical components containing starches are thus eliminated and a firm stand taken against sweets.

The Patient Passenger. —Houston Post Dispatch.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Guest of the Government.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I read with deep interest what was received here of Prof. Einstein's latest scientific discovery or theory, and regret very much that the cable balked at being a party to its transmission in full to a waiting New World. After carefully perusing what we did get of it, I must say that it reminds me somewhat of a question propounded to a friend of mine by a gentleman, a Washingtonian, who had just returned from a tour of the Far West. He said: "Did you ever notice, in these large Western towns, where there are more men, women and children than there are inhabitants, that the population is greater than in smaller Eastern towns of the same size, where there aren't near so many people?"

I regret to say that this gentleman shortly after became a guest at a well-known Government philanthropic institution on Congress Heights, and is still there.

JOHN P. REED.

Fake Republicans.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Gov. Reed of Kansas is quoted as saying that the successor of Senator Curtis will be a Progressive Republican. Let us see what manner of man a Progressive Republican is. There are several in Congress sailing under that cognomen. In the Congressional Directory their names appear in Roman, thus designating them as Republicans. In committee assignments they are also classed as Republican. These things would seem to fix their political status, especially as in seat assignments they are among the Republicans. Now let us turn to the Congressional Record and follow the voting through its various stages. A question is up on which the voting is on party lines. Look for the names of these Progressive Republicans. You will find them in every instance voting with the Democrats. They are not Republicans in any true sense of the word, and a high sense of personal honor would lead them to discard the name Republican altogether. If the new Senator from Kansas is to be like the Progressives now in Congress, he will be at heart a Democrat sailing under false colors, when he calls himself a Republican.

A TRUE BLUE.

Slaughter House Near Arlington.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: May I take advantage of your large circulation in Arlington County to say a few words about the application to locate a slaughter house and cattle pens near Relee on the Columbia Pike?

I think few will dispute the fact that residents of Arlington County residing in the Jefferson magisterial district, where the proposed slaughter house would be located, are 100 per cent opposed to granting the license. By its very nature such an industry is a nuisance. Trains loaded with cattle are bound to smell. Pens where hogs and cattle are kept are bound to be an offense to nose, eye and ear. The location is close to the terminal of the Memorial Bridge and the beginning of the memorial boulevard to Mount Vernon. It seems to me to go without saying that such environs should be zoned as park and residential. The "gateway to the South" should not have to border on cattle pens and slaughter houses.

But Arlington County has two other magisterial districts which elect two other county supervisors. In these districts there are evidently some people who think the matter does not closely concern them, and are listening to the argument that "industries will help pay our taxes." I think these people are short-sighted. The interests of the county are really one. The imposition of a slaughter house in the Jefferson district will be a blow to the whole county. The taxes which will be lost by keeping away prospective residents and driving out present residents, will affect the prosperity of the other districts. Outsiders will not differentiate between one part of the county and another. They will say "Arlington County? Yes, that is where they have started the slaughter house business. That is where the cattle yards are. No, we don't care to locate there." The loss to real estate values and to the future of all county business will be incalculable. GERTRUDE L. CROCKER.

Children Playing Grown-Ups Affect a Manner Unknown in the Adult World.

By ROBERT QUILLEN

Do you enjoy being entirely frank? Calling a spade a spade? Taking the thing apart to see what makes it tick?

Then let us discuss the popular definition of culture.

When an author desires to establish his character among the social elect, he drags in a second person to make conversation and clinches the matter with seven words: "They discussed books and music and art."

That sentence, with its manifold variations, has been printed and reprinted until endless repetition has established it as an article of faith.

And now, wherever two or three middle-class Americans are gathered together they begin, grimly and dutifully, a discussion of books and music and art—a discussion no more vivacious or spontaneous or inspired than the business of taking castor oil.

"Culture" is dragged in by the ears, and all who witness the performance are soothed and uplifted by the knowledge that they are being refined—just like regular swells, by gum!

The sad truth is, the "upper class" discusses itself and its neighbors, its servants, clothing and liquor. Only the middle class talks about "culture," for only the middle class feels the need of it.

Just why should anybody talk about books or music or art? Writers and fiddlers and painters are entertainers—court fools—luxury makers for the rich. They ply their trades to amuse the world.

Art is for artists. When they talk shop among themselves, their speech is natural. Two trombone players or two composers of jazz might find discussion of their technique both entertaining and profitable.

But why should the laity discuss such things? Not one in a thousand is sufficiently well informed to say anything that will profit his hearers. Listen to the next conversation of this character that occurs in your vicinity and note how much of it could be summed up in the one word: "Blah."

The rose is to enjoy, not to dissect. Is the circus more enjoyable to those who discuss its machinery?

Few books are worth knowing. The great works of art and the great musical compositions are relatively few. All the average individual knows or cares about them could be expressed in five hundred words.

Continued conversation, merely for the sake of "cultured" discussion, is a silly affectation and affords proof of nothing more worthy than a consciousness of inferiority.

Intelligence ends where affectation begins. The quality of culture, like the quality of mercy, is not strained.

Superior people are those who dare to be themselves. They talk about soap making, sin or seamanship, as they choose, with never a self-conscious thought of displaying their social worth or lack of it.

ORATOR OR AUTHOR?

The bicentenary of Edmund Burke has brought some expressions of regret that there were no phonographs to preserve for us the utterances of the great orator, but it is more than possible that such records would mean disappointment, says the Manchester Guardian. For Burke's greatness lay rather in his matter than his delivery.

His contemporary, the third Marquis of Lansdowne, when asked if he ever heard Burke speak, replied: "Yes, but only once; and his utterance was most disagreeable. He emptied the house, and I went away utterly bored. A few days later I asked my bookseller if he had anything new, and he said, 'There is Mr. Burke's last speech—I have only one copy left.' It was the same speech to which I had vainly tried to listen, but when I read it I was completely carried away."

Contemporary opinion may have been influenced to some extent by the great orator's Irish accent, which, according to Wraxall, remained as strong to the last as if he had never quitted the banks of the Shannon.

PRESS COMMENT.

Real Equality.

Birmingham News: The sexes won't be equal until the prospective bride is asked if she can support the groom as well as dad has been doing it.

Perish the Thought!

Ohio State Journal: When they get to making paper towels of cornstalks, we should'nt wonder if we'd come out unequivocally against farm relief.

So That Was It.

Cincinnati Enquirer: Sunny Italy the other day experienced a temperature of 5 degrees below zero. The omnipotent Mussolini was probably trying to freeze out another cabinet member.

Especially After 10 P. M.

Boston Transcript: Question is raised in Washington whether or not the radio is a public utility. The old-fashioned man with a crabbed disposition may reply that it is a public nuisance.

Bring Her Forth.

Minneapolis Journal: A New York judge orders a man to kiss his mother-in-law. Before denouncing this as cruel and unusual punishment, one would need to see the mother-in-law.

Obliging Mr. Britten.

Louisville Courier Journal: Representative Britten is versatile, to say the least. He speaks for the State Department on disarmament and he speaks for Mr. Hoover on armament. But, after all, it is only the Illinois representative who is speaking.

Don't Be Positive.

Macon (Ga.) Telegraph: If things don't taste right and you ache all over and feel as though you don't give a ding whether school keeps or not, it's a pretty good sign you've got the flu, but don't be too sure. 'S possible somebody's got you hexed.

And Here You Are.

Louisville Courier Journal: On one day the Interstate Commerce Commission declares that the Hoch-Smith resolution authorizes it to equalize economic conditions in lake cargo production territory, and on the next the Northern railroads and coal companies deny that the commission tried to do this. Our Pittsburgh friends are like the criminal lawyer, who asked for his client's dismissal first on the ground that he did not kill the man; second, that if he did, it was in self-defense, and third, if not in self-defense, it was accidental anyhow.

A Good Story.

Philadelphia Inquirer: The biggest laugh at a recent presidential breakfast, which is said to have been an innocently hilarious affair, developed from the Senate Chaplain's story of the mouse which, after imbibing generously of cognac, stood up on its hind legs and said, "Now bring on your cats." We can sympathize with the party in its enjoyment of that yarn, because we've always maintained it's a good one. The first time we encountered it the story-teller made a cat spit in a bulldog's eye, and we laughed loud and long. It was also amusing when we heard of a rabbit, generously lighted, cuffing a wolf's ears. And the other variations have always been amusing. We'll say it's a good story, and we're sorry Chauncey Depew was not there to hear it.

FASHION NOTES ON THE NEW FABRIC MODE

—really mean Fashion Notes on COLOR, for color is truly the fashion theme of the 1929 Fabric Mode. Smart distinction in solid colors depends upon a new opaqueness or, in contrast, a marked brilliance, while prints bring out more striking color combinations. To women who fashion their own clothes—Woodward & Lothrop offers a collection of fabrics—fashion-right in color and weave—outstanding in quality.

Piques and Linens
For sports and "that inevitable smartness"—Prints in smart confusion; clear, fresh colors; newly-important pastel shades that blend so perfectly with suntan. Fashion notes from abroad approve new piques from England—and linens from Liberty-of-London.

Silk Sports Fabrics
For Spectator Sports—Cheney's New "Debonair" fashions many new jacket frocks. Cleverness is smartly achieved in the new basket weaves—and modernistic, stitched effects.

Daytime Silks
For innumerable daytime occasions—Flat Crepes lead in smartness of weave—color takes fashion honors. "Kesand" (a new tan), "Beanieblu" (a new bright blue), "Foliage" (a new green) and "Fandango" (a new orange)—outstanding colors introduced at the New York Spring Fashion Show.

Novelty Weaves
For those essential pajamas—"Polar Prints," a modern treatment of colors in a new silk-and-rayon weave. A distinctive group of prints, which use Arctic scenes as their motifs.

Fluttering Chiffons
For evening—New arrivals from France are here exclusively in Washington. Soft, subtle shades—exquisitely sheer weaves—and distinctive patterns.

With Mr. and Mrs. Lester G. Wilson in their box will be Representative and Mrs. Clay Stone Briggs, Capt. and Mrs. Emett G. Gudger, Mr. Frank Zeitlin and Prof. Walter Henry Hall, of Columbia University.

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Anthony are entertaining Dr. and Mrs. Tomas Cajigas, Miss Helen Buckman and Senor Don Benjamin Chiriboga.

Preceding the concert, the Columbia Alumni Club of Washington will entertain at dinner in honor of Prof. Dixon Ryon Fox, of Columbia, who is coming from New York for the concert.

Members of the executive committee of the General Alumni Association of George Washington University, who are holding their monthly meeting at the Mayflower earlier in the evening, will adjourn early to attend the concert.

The President of the Arts Club and Mrs. Coville will be the hosts at the Arts Club dinner tomorrow evening. The guest of honor will be Dr. L. O. Howard, who will also be the speaker of the evening. His subject will be "Is This the Age of Man?"

Arrangements have been completed for the benefit card party to be given Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the City Club, 1320 G street, under auspices of the Americanism committee of the District, Daughters of the American Revolution. Mrs. Calvin Coolidge heads the list of patronesses.

Miss Janet Richards, who lectured last week in Philadelphia, at Town Hall in New York, and for the Woman's Republican Club of Boston, on world problems, at her weekly talk this morning on "Public Questions" will give foreign affairs first consideration, beginning with German reactions to the former kaiser's recent birthday celebration, also the new type of German cruisers and the political significance of both; the alleged "pernicious activity" of Mussolini in Greece and the Balkans, and Poincare's dilemma with the "autonomista" in Alsace. Brief mention will also be made of the present political and Congressional situation in Washington. The lecture will be given in the Masonic Temple, Thirteenth street and New York avenue, at 10:45 o'clock.

The Private Office of F. Highlands Burns

President, Maryland Casualty Company

THE business of handling huge sums of money and the intricate details involved in the operation of casualty insurance and surety bonds, demands office machinery that functions with unusual accuracy. It is therefore significant that the Maryland Casualty Company, with resources of $46,000,000 and operations throughout the United States, Canada, Canal Zone, Cuba, Porto Rico, Dominican Republic, Hawaii, Virgin Islands, Mexico and Alaska, is one of the many great organizations which use Shaw-Walker Equipment and trained service in steadily increasing volume.

A THREE DAYS' COUGH IS YOUR DANGER SIGNAL

Coughs from colds may lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.
Of all known drugs creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for coughs from colds and bronchial irritations. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.
Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of coughs from colds, bronchitis and minor forms of bronchial irritations, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

BRAMWELL BOOTH QUITS HIS SICKBED

Salvation Army Chief Leaves Seaside Cottage and Returns Home.

MOVE SURPRISES ENEMIES

London, Feb. 3 (A.P.).—Gen. Bramwell Booth, whom the high council is attempting to remove as head of the Salvation Army, caused general surprise by making an unexpected journey by road from his seaside cottage at Southwold to his home at Hadley Wood. Not long ago the aged general was hardly expected to recover from the serious illness from which he had suffered for months.

Today was a beautiful sunny day although quite cold. The general did not appear to have suffered by his journey. Commissioner Kitching, one of the leading supporters of Bramwell, told the Associated Press tonight that it was only after anxious consultation between physicians that they consented to his removal. The general expressed pleasure at finding himself at home again after his long convalescence at the seashore. His health has shown a decided improvement during the last few days.

It is understood on good authority that Gen. Booth has sent a reply to the high council accepting its invitation to be represented before them. As the result of his show of strength today there is even the possibility that the general may appear personally, provided that the council will agree to fix the date for the meeting some time ahead so as to give him time to recuperate his strength.

Commissioner Hay, president of the high council, had heard nothing tonight, however, of any request on the part of Gen. Booth to be given further time in order to appear personally before the council.

HIDE-AND-SEEK FATHER IN COURT

Orator F. Woodward, millionaire food manufacturer, is shown in court in connection with charges by his mother-in-law, Mrs. Mary A. Davis (inset). She accuses him of kidnaping his two children from a Paris school and charges he is unfit to care for the boy and girl.

YOUR INCOME TAX

WHO? Single persons who had net income of $1,500 or more or gross income of $5,000 or more, and married couples who had net income of $3,500 or more or gross income of $5,000 or more, must file returns.

WHEN? The filing period ends March 15, 1929.

WHERE? Collector of internal revenue for the district in which the person lives or has his principal place of business.

HOW? Instructions on Forms 1040A and 1040.

WHAT? One and one-half per cent normal tax on the first $4,000 in excess of the personal exemption and credits. Three per cent normal tax on the next $4,000. Five per cent normal tax on the balance of net income. Surtax on net income in excess of $10,000.

Thousands of inquiries have reached the Bureau of Internal Revenue relative to changes in tax legislation. The purpose of the bureau is to answer these questions in a series of newspaper statements, based on the revenue act of 1928, approved May 29, 1928.

The rates of income tax and surtax applicable to individual income, and the personal exemption of individuals and credits for dependents, remain unchanged. The normal tax rate is 1½ per cent on the first $4,000 in excess of personal exemption, credits for dependents, &c., 3 per cent on the next $4,000, and 5 per cent on the balance. The surtax rates apply to net income in excess of $10,000. The maximum rate is 20 per cent, which applies to net incomes in excess of $100,000.

The rate of tax on the income of corporations is reduced from 13½ per cent to 12 per cent. The same rate applies to the income of insurance companies, reduction with respect to this class of taxpayers being from 12½ per cent to 12 per cent. The credit allowed a domestic corporation, the net income of which is $25,000 or less, is increased from $2,000 to $3,000.

What the Elementary Schools of Washington Are Doing Educationally

A Series of Brief Articles Prepared Under the Direction of Superintendent Frank W. Ballou.

XV. OPENING EXERCISES.

Every morning at 9 o'clock thousands of children gather in the public schools of Washington for opening exercises and assemblies. The rules of the Board of Education provide that at this time there shall be the reading of a passage of Scripture without comment, the saying of the Lord's Prayer, the pledge of allegiance and the singing of a patriotic song.

In addition to this, frequent programs are arranged which sound the keynote for the day's experiences. Quite varied they are, and include recitation of poems, singing of songs, informal talks or reports by the children on matters of current interest. Plays, too, are presented by them. All of these are outgrowths of the school work and emphasize such lessons as preservation of wild flowers, thrift, health, fire prevention, safety, patriotism. Incidents from history are frequently dramatized and the great national holidays, Thanksgiving, Christmas, Memorial Day, as well as the birthdates of our heroes, Washington, Lincoln and others, are celebrated with appropriate exercises. The children themselves work up these programs and conduct the exercises as well as participate in them.

Sometimes the exercises are for the appreciation of beauty. Lantern slides of masterpieces of art or pictures of beautiful scenery are shown. Stories are told to them, or the best in literature or prose or poetry is recited, or people of talent come to play or sing for the children. The results of such school experience are far reaching.

Children have the opportunity to speak in well chosen English, clearly and distinctly, and these times of participation in a program help in development of self-confidence and poise. This working up program provides fine opportunity for the exercise of habits of courtesy, unselfishness, cooperation and the development of initiative and leadership. A school spirit is developed and attitudes and ideals are presented that affect the conduct of the pupils in the building, playground and community.

Of inestimable value is this opportunity to develop a group consciousness when the whole school is brought together for a common purpose to feel together the same emotions of joy and appreciation of beauty, or to feel the thrill of patriotic devotion or admiration for noble acts or reverence for sacred things. Too much value can not be placed upon this phase of school life.

In the past, Washington has been handicapped by the fewness of appropriate school gathering places for such assemblies, and it is with satisfaction we see the provision made in the five-year building program for assembly halls in the elementary schools.

New York Dry Act Is to Be Introduced

Hoover Election Is Mandate, in View of Sponsors in Albany House.

Albany, N. Y., Feb. 3 (U.P.).—New York State—listed in many quarters as one of the "wettest States"—is about to witness an attempt to pass a State prohibition enforcement act.

Some drys, who contend the election of Herbert Hoover was a mandate for stricter dry law enforcement are supporting a move for the law.

An enforcement bill will be introduced in the assembly Monday and is reported to have many friends there, but may have trouble in the senate.

Chairman Edmund B. Jenks, of the assembly judiciary committee, declared Hoover's election "is an unmistakable expression of the people that they are against the wets."

Capt. George Fried, heroic rescuer, says:

"Reach for a Lucky instead of a sweet."

"AN S. O. S. from the 'Florida'! We change our course. We on the 'America' strain to arrive in time to rescue the men on their sinking ship, 350 miles away. Through the icy, freezing storm and high seas we plunge on—all speed ahead! Then the night-time rescue, the search lights, the whirling waves, the manoeuvering to get near the 'Florida.' Finally, the 'Florida's' crew coming off one at a time, pulling themselves through the water on the line our men had thrown them.

"These 32 men, dazed, many half clothed, needed reviving after their long exposure. Hot coffee, food and Lucky Strikes—these gave new life to many of them and we on board the 'America,' crew and passengers alike, found after the strain and struggle that there was nothing quite so comforting and relaxing as the inviting, toasted flavor of Lucky Strikes.

"Playing this game with 'Davy' is ever fascinating, ever thrilling. And we who follow the sea must be ever ready for adventure. Ours is an active life, demanding nerve control and physical fitness. In my health program I have found that Luckies are most important not only because they provide a respite for frazzled nerves and an exhausted body but because whenever I crave anything which is over-fattening, I say to myself, 'Reach for a Lucky instead of a sweet.' In the toasted flavor of Luckies, I get complete satisfaction. And I find that toasting, by removing the irritants, protects my throat."

Note: Authorities attribute the enormous increase in Cigarette smoking to the improvement in the process of Cigarette manufacture by the application of heat. It is true that during the year 1928, Lucky Strike Cigarettes showed a greater increase than all other Cigarettes combined. This confirms in no uncertain terms the public's confidence in the superiority of Lucky Strike.

LANDSLIDE FOLLOWS EARTHQUAKE IN ASIA

Eleven Reported as Killed in Siberian Turkestan; Villages Are Shaken.

FELT IN NORTHERN INDIA

Moscow, Feb. 3 (U.P.).—Eleven persons were killed in an avalanche near Alma-Ata, Siberian Turkestan, according to advices received here today.

Severe tremors were reported at Tashkent Saturday. They lasted four hours but Tashkent was not damaged. Reports from Izbekistan said several villages had been destroyed but no details were given.

Karachi, India, Feb. 3 (U.P.).—Severe earthquakes were felt at Lahore, Peshamar and other parts of northern India Friday and Saturday, according to advices received here today.

The pinnacle of the largest mosque at Peshawar fell and destroyed several houses. There were no casualties.

At Lahore the population was thrown into panic and hundreds rushed from their homes into the streets, it was bitter cold and many wore only scanty night dress.

It was believed the quakes were the most severe since the Kangra Valley earthquake 25 years ago, when hundreds of persons were buried alive in villages.

YOUR BOY and YOUR GIRL

By ARTHUR DEAN, SC.D., The Parent Counselor

P.-T. A. BRIDGE WHIST.

"I HAVE been advised that if I keep at a distance from parents and their children I will get along better with them," a teacher writes. "And yet I have been folish enough to organize a Parent-Teachers Association in my district because I think it is my duty. I am not hired to be just a teacher. I am engaged to do something in this community. I am the only teacher here and it is up to me to develop the best school I can. But no teacher can build up a good school unless the parents and children cooperate. Am I wise about this—or just otherwise?"

This teacher is a busy soul. She is trying hard to make this P.-T. A. a success. But she finds that parents would rather play bridge at the P.-T. A. meetings and serve eats than discuss education. She says the men are so anxious to talk politics and automobiles that they can't stop long enough to have a good business session.

She finds no fault with the community, but in closing her letter she says: "What will the townspeople, the school board and superintendent who are watching us think about bridge and politics at our meetings? How long before they will be saying, 'Why do they call themselves the P.-T. A.? Why not a bridge club?'"

The first step in improving the schools and the children in them is to get members of the community to know each other. How quickly we stop talking about some one when we really know him. Up to the time of the organization of this "bridge club" nobody in town knew whether this teacher was capable or not, excepting by the poor medium of hearsay. But now they know they have a live and modern teacher. Very likely she has made many friends by her efforts. If the P.-T. A. in this teacher's community did nothing more than bring parents together it would still be a worth-while venture.

The difficulties this teacher is meeting in this new P.-T. A. is not unusual. The parents often are not accustomed to speaking before audiences. At first it is hard to get such people to read a paper or start a discussion. In such a situation it is helpful to start with a question box and have fathers and mothers slip in questions. These will serve to break the ice and get interest started. People really love to talk, especially when they can talk about their children and their problems.

A great help to every P.-T. A. and especially to newly organized ones, is the Child Welfare Magazine, which is the official organ of the P.-T. A. In it each month is a study program based upon current literature. This is an excellent place from which to start the discussion part of the P.-T. A.

Sorry, I haven't more space today. The rest of my story about what P.-T. A.'s may do is in the helplet on "Programs for Parent-Teacher Association Meetings." Any reader may have a copy upon request accompanied by a stamped, addressed, return envelope.

The Children

By Edith Wharton

A sparkling serial story by one of America's foremost novelists at the gleaming heights of her power.

SYNOPSIS.

Martin Boyne, a civil engineer, who has been kept busy on projects in all parts of the world, is taking an ocean trip. He is looking forward to another fortnight of solitude when the steward places a chair next to his tagged "Mrs. Cliffe Wheater." Cliffe Wheaterowas a schoolmate of his at Harvard. His wife was a friend of these days. Boyne is puzzled by the varied types of children in the entourage.

CHAPTER II.

IT was none of Boyne's business to tell his new neighbor that the chair she had chosen was Mrs. Cliffe Wheater's; the less so as she might (he decided on closer inspection) turn out to be a governess or other dependent of that lady's. But no (after another look); she was too young for the part, even if she had looked or acted it—and she didn't. Her tone in addressing her invisible companions was that of command, not subservience; they were the nurses and governesses, not she. Probably she had taken Mrs. Wheater's chair because it was one of the few empty ones left, and was well aware that she might presently be asked to evacuate it. That was just what Boyne would have liked to spare her; he didn't see Joyce Wheater—the Joyce he had known—yielding her seat without a battle.

"I beg your pradon; but in case somebody should claim this chair, I might find another for you before the whole front row is taken up."

The phrase sounded long and clumsy, but it was out before he had time to polish it. He had to hear her voice again, and also to get her to turn her eyes his way. She did so now, with perfect composure. Evidently she was not surprised at his addressing her, but only at the fact he imparted.

"Isn't this my chair?" She reached for the label and examined it. "Yes; I thought it was."

"Oh, I'm sorry——"

"That's all right. They are filling up, aren't they?"

Her brown eyes, under deep lashes like Blanca's, rested on him in polite acknowledgment of his good will; but he was too bewildered to see anything but a starry blur.

Mrs. Cliffe Wheater, then—this child? Well, after all, why not? His Mrs. Cliffe Wheater she obviously could not be; but in these days of transient partnerships there was no reason for expecting it. The Wheaters he knew must have been married nearly twenty years ago; and Cliffe Wheater, in the interval, had made money enough to treat himself to a half-dozen divorces and remarriages, with all the attendant outlay. "No more to him than doing over a new house—good deal less than running a steam-yacht;" Boyne half enviously reflected.

Yes, his neighbor was obviously a later—was the latest—Mrs. Wheater, probably two or three removes from poor Joyce. Though why he should think of her as poor Joyce, when in all probability she had moved off across the matrimonial chessboard at the same rate of progression as her first husband. . . . Well, at any rate, if this was a new Mrs. Cliffe Wheater, Boyne might insinuate himself into her field of vision as an old friend of her husband's; a sufficient pips, he argued, between passengers on a pleasure cruise. Only, remembering Terry's cool reception of his father's name, he hesitated. These modern matrimonial tangles were full of peril to the absentee. . . .

The question was answered by the appearance of Blanca, who came dancing toward them like a butterfly waltzing over a bed of thyme.

As she approached, the young lady at Boyne's side said severely: "Child! Why haven't you got on your coat? Go and ask Scopy for it at once. The wind is cold."

Blanca leaned against her with a caressing gesture. "All right." But instead of moving she slanted her gaze again toward Boyne. "He says he used to know father," she imparted.

The young lady turned her head also, and Boyne felt the mysterious weight of her eyes upon his face. "How funny!" was her simple comment. It seemed to strike all the group with equal wonder that Martin Boyne should be on speaking terms with its chief. "Not smart enough, I suppose: no Bond street suitcases," he grumbled to himself, remembering the freight of costly pigskin which had followed his neighbor up the gangway.

The latter's attention had already turned from him. "Blanca! I tell you to go and put on your coat. And see that Terry has his . . . Don't lean on me like that, child. Can't you see that Chip's asleep?"

She spoke a little wearily, almost irritably. Boyne thought but as she bent over the child her little profile softened, melting into something puerile and appealing. "Hush!" she signaled, and Blanca, obedient, tiptoed off.

Boyne, at this, invoking Uncle Edward, patron saint of the adventurous, risked a playful comment. "You've got them wonderfully well in hand."

She smiled. "Oh, they're very good children; all except . . . Zinnie—!" she screamed; and Boyne, following her horrified glance, saw a stark naked little figure with a shock of orange-colored hair and a string of amber beads capering toward them to the wonder and delight of the double row of spectators in the deck chairs.

In a flash the young lady was on her feet, and Boyne was pressing a soap-scented bundle to his breast. "Hold Chip!" she commanded. "Oh, that little red devil!" She sped down the deck and catching up the orange-headed child gave her a violent shaking. "You'll be catching cold next, you wretch" she admonished her, as if this were the head and front of the child's offending; and having pushed the culprit into the arms of a pursuing nurse she regained her seat.

"How nicely you've held him! He's still asleep." She received back the hot baby, all relaxed and slumber scented, and the eyes she turned on Boyne were now full of a friendly intimacy—and much younger, he thought, than Blanca's. "Did you ever mind a baby before?" she asked.

"Yes; but not such a good one—nor so heavy."

She shone with pride. "Isn't he an armful? He's nearly 2 pounds heavier than most children of 2. When Beechy was his age she weighed only . . ."

"Beechy?" Boyne terrupted. "I thought you called her Zinnie."

"Zinnie? Oh, but she's not the same as Beechy." She laughed with something of a child's amusement at the ignorance of the grown up. "Beechy's a step—but you haven't seen the other steps," she reminded herself. "I wonder where on earth they are?"

"The steps?" he echoed, in deeper bewilderment.

Hunger-Crazed Wolves Invade Bosnian Villages

Sarajevo, Jugoslavia, Feb. 3 (A.P.).—Hunger-maddened wolves are reported to be invading villages and terrifying the populations of various villages on the snow-covered mountain sides in this region. Huge snowfalls have marooned many cottages, adding to the horror.

Advices from the town of Bihatch, in Bosnia, state that two children were snatched from their cradles by wolves and devoured. Cases even have been reported of wolves entering homes and attacking adults.

Central Trust Company of Illinois, Chicago, and Aksel K. Bodholdt, Trustees

Mr. A. P. Barrett, Chairman of the Board of Directors, summarizes his letter as follows:

BUSINESS: Texas-Louisiana Power Company is a public utility operating Company organized under the laws of the State of Delaware in 1925. The Company upon completion of present financing will serve without competition 30,192 electric and/or gas customers and 4,052 water customers in 141 growing communities located in Texas, New Mexico, Louisiana and Kentucky and (through subsidiaries) in Oklahoma and Arizona, over 85% of its business being transacted in Texas. Artificial ice plants are operated in connection with electric properties in 14 communities and independently operated ice plants are located in the important centers of Houston, Fort Worth, El Paso and Gainesville, Texas. Through subsidiaries transportation service is furnished to Wichita Falls with interurban connections to Fort Worth, Texas.

CAPITALIZATION (Upon completion of present financing):

	Authorized	Outstanding
First Mortgage Six Per Cent Gold Bonds, Series A, due 1946 (including this issue)	*	$10,350,000
Fifteen Year 6% Sinking Fund Debenture Gold Bonds, Series A, due 1942	*	4,773,500
7% Cumulative Preferred Stock, $100 Par Value	$5,000,000	3,550,000
Common Stock (no par value)	30,000 shs.	20,000 shs.

*Limited by restrictions of the indentures under which they are issued, but not to any principal amount.

In addition there will be outstanding in the hands of the public $252,500 purchase money mortgages payable in total annual installments of $37,500, and $300,000 of funded debt and preferred stock of subsidiary companies.

SECURITY: These Bonds, in the opinion of counsel, will be secured by a first mortgage on all fixed properties of the Company now owned and to be presently acquired, subject to $252,500 of purchase money mortgages. Based upon an appraisal by Messrs. Victor A. Dorsey and Company and plus subsequent capital expenditures to December 31, 1928 and expenditures for properties to be acquired in connection with present financing, the fixed properties subject to the mortgage have an estimated reproduction cost new including going concern value, less depreciation, of not less than $18,400,000. The Company also owns all the outstanding common stocks (except directors' qualifying shares) of certain subsidiary companies, which are not pledged under the mortgage, the properties of which companies have a value, appraised as above, in excess of $2,000,000. These subsidiary companies have outstanding in the hands of the public $300,000 of funded debt and preferred stock.

EARNINGS: The following is a statement of earnings, as reported by the Company, of the properties owned including those to be acquired in connection with present financing by Texas-Louisiana Power Company and subsidiaries for the twelve months ended December 31, 1928:

Gross Earnings from all sources	$3,435,941
Operating Expenses, Maintenance and Taxes (except Federal Income Taxes) and Prior Charges	1,854,481
Net Earnings	$1,581,460
Annual Interest Requirements on First Mortgage Six Per Cent Gold Bonds, Series A, (including this issue)	621,000

Net earnings as shown above were more than 2½ times the amount required for annual interest charges on the First Mortgage Bonds to be presently outstanding, including this issue.

PURPOSE OF ISSUE: The proceeds of this financing will be used to reimburse the Company for construction expenditures, to retire existing equipment obligations, for the acquisition of additional properties and/or for other corporate purposes.

MANAGEMENT: The Company (subject to the control of its Board of Directors) is under the control of General Water Works and Electric Corporation through ownership of all its outstanding common stock. The properties are operated and supervised by men of long and active experience in public utility activities.

These Bonds are offered when, as and if issued and received by us and subject to the approval of counsel, Messrs. Chadbourne, Hunt, Jaeckel & Brown, New York and Mr. Frank B. Black, Chicago. It is expected that Definitive Bonds will be ready for delivery on or about February 11, 1929.

These Bonds are listed on The Chicago Stock Exchange.

No. 3 of a series on the Areas Served by the Associated System

Electric Power
For One-Fourth of New York State

Over 450 cities, towns, and a rural area with 34,000 farms are served in the Empire State by the Associated System. This diversified service includes:

Numerous desirable communities, free from the congestion of the large cities, offering industrial locations with distinct advantages.

1. A 35,000,000 population, including some of the world's richest markets is within 300 miles of Ithaca.
2. Trunk lines of leading railroads assure rapid transportation to the large consuming markets.

Counties with a farm and dairying productivity 1.7 times greater than the average for the country as a whole.

1. One of the finest apple-producing areas in the world is adjacent to Plattsburg.
2. The counties in which service is furnished produce 53% of the total State milk production.

Far-famed vacation resorts—the Northern Adirondacks (Ausable Chasm), the Finger Lakes Region (Ithaca), beautiful Sullivan County (Liberty and Monticello), historic Otsego County (Cooperstown of Leatherstocking Tale fame).

The value of manufactured, farm and dairy products (Government Reports) is 2.8 times greater in the New York State counties served by the Associated System than the county average for the United States. Dependable electric or gas service is available in this area on attractive rate schedules.

Our Industrial Department will gladly furnish information regarding industrial, agricultural, or summer resort locations. Write to:

WILDERMUTH IS SELECTED ON ALL-AMERICAN TEAM

1929 Contract Signed by Rice

Nat Flyhawk Can Not Resist Call of the Diamond.

With Vet Available, Griffith Claims Best Outfield.

Special to The Washington Post.

TAMPA, Fla., Feb. 3.—Sam Rice, veteran player of the Washington Ball Club, and still one of the best outfielders in the league, again will be available for any use Walter Johnson may call upon him for the coming season. This was assured today with the receipt of the signed contract of Rice, and effectually disposes of the story that Sam would retire from the game before the opening of the 1929 campaign.

Not only will this be great news for Manager Johson, as well as the fans of the Capital City, but it was particularly pleasing to President Clark Griffith, a farm personal friend of Rice and a great booster for the veteran player.

"I know Walter Johson will be tickled when he hears this news," said Griffith this afternoon. "While we both felt that Sam would not retire, as had been reported, there is always the possibility that such a contingency will arise, and we need Rice this year."

Griffith Sees Nats' Outfield Prospects as Best in League.

With Goose Goslin, Sam West, Red Barnes and Sam Rice from which to choose his outfield combination, Johnson will not have to ask any favors of any team in organized baseball. "I consider these four men about the best combination there is in baseball today. Good hitters, all of them; fast on the bases, smart players, they constitute one sweet quartet of fly chasers. Steadiness in the outfield, to offset any possible greenness in our infield combination, will be of big help to the Nationals.

"I thought Sam would be back, but the fact that he has taken care of his earnings, invested them wisely and his desire to step out of the big league picture while still a star might have been the deciding factors in his making good with his statements as to quitting. But the 'old fever' just can not be controlled."

Rice Unable to Withstand Urge of "The Old Fever."

In a letter accompanying his contract, Rice tells of his plans for the immediate future. "We (Mrs. Rice and Sam) have been having a great time in San Diego where we have been wintering," he wrote, "and we plan leaving shortly for San Francisco. After spending about ten days there, we will return to San Diego and motor directly to Tampa. I am glad the season is soon to begin. I feel the old fever coming on, and I'm just rarin' to go."

"That is what gets 'em," continued Griffith, "the old fever; the urge to stay in the game which has been their life's work and they seldom want to leave while they still are capable of playing good baseball. Rice's legs are still sound and he is capable of making any outfield in either league. With Red Barnes fighting for Rice's place Walter Johnson should have the enjoyable choice of which of two excellent players to put out in right field.

Goslin Only Nat Excelling Sam at Bat Last Season.

"If Barnes presses Rice for the position, it should be an incentive for Sam to 'bear down,' and I would not be surprised to see him repeat his 1924 and 1925 years, when I honestly believe he was about the best ball player in the league."

In 147 games last season, Rice hit for .328, topping such stars as Babe Ruth, who batted .323; Foxx, of the Athletics.

Almost the Naked Truth

By JAMES S. COLLINS.

NEW YORK, Feb. 3.—J. C. Stewart, retiring after ten years as president of the Detroit Lawn Tennis Association, deplores the shamateurism of the game. "Extravagance in entertainment and exorbitant expense accounts of players are causing the public to lose interest in the game," observes Mr. Stewart. "It is sincerely to be hoped that Mr. Stewart is wrong, and he probably is. There seems to be no tangible evidence that the public is losing interest in the game itself, although it undoubtedly is pretty well fed up on the hypocrisy, commercialism and politics with which the sport reeks.

As an instance of the commercial trend he deplores, Mr. Stewart cites the action of the California Association in demanding 50 per cent of the gate receipts for an exhibition match in which Helen Wills played in Detroit in return for its sanction of her appearance.

One might think that an amateur, playing without compensation, would have the sole right to say when and where she would play, as long as the match was played under responsible auspices, but one would be childish indeed to think so.

Nothing is said about what disposition the California Association made of the $1,750 it received for exhibiting its star performer in Detroit, but it may have gone toward the expenses of its president, Dr. Sumner Hardy, when he crossed the continent with the avowed intention of shelving Bill Tilden on the grounds of professionalism.

Hardy Once Said Tilden Made "Bums" of Young Players.

Dr. Hardy, it will be remembered, is the gentleman who remarked that Tilden's intensive instruction of Davis Cup candidates was "making bums" of younger players. The $1,750 for which the California body shook down the Detroit organization was more than twenty times as much as the latter netted for 80 tournaments after "expenses" had been paid, according to the treasurer's report. An income of only $85 on 80 tournaments might indicate that amateur tennis is a racket that would not interest an Al Capone or a boo-hoo Hoff, and then again it might not.

Schmeling Shows Rapid Strides As Master of English.

Max Schmeling, who administered the fistic coup de grace to Johnny Risko after beatings by Ernie Schaaf and Jimmy Maloney had taken a lot of the bounce out of the rubber man, has made remarkable progress in a very short time, especially in his handling of the English language. The day before the Risko fight Herr Schmeling risked a dive into a splashing sentence and nearly drowned before he finally came up at the finish with the verb in his mouth. He was so spent at the end of one round of that sort of fighting that he took refuge in German. Forty-eight hours later, after he had wrapped up Mr. Risko and sent him to the cleaner's, Herr Schmeling, we are told, spake as follows, in discussing his relations with Joe Jacobs, his manager de facto: "He has guided me satisfactorily since we became associated and I see no reason for ending that association, regardless of whether I am successful in breaking my contract with Bulow or not."

Cauliflower alley acquaintances who used to snicker at Max's linguistic tituations did not know that he had clipped and sent in that coupon. Another knockout or two to his credit and Prof. Billy Phelps' English literature class at Yale undoubtedly will have a chance to hear Schmeling lecture on Walt Whitman's works without extra tuition charge.

Risko's Defeat by Schaaf Cast A "What About It?" Aspect.

Risko's defeats by the eggshell-chinned Maloney and the inexperienced Ernie Schaaf cast a "what of it?" aspect over Schmeling's knockout of the baker boy, but the fact remains that Max is about the most promising of the championship aspirants now cluttering up the heavyweight landscape. Until he fights a man of the caliber of Godfrey, Sharkey or Stribling, it will hardly be possible to give him a definite rating, but the fact remains that he and K. O. Christner have done more to steam up interest in heavyweight goings on in two weeks than Godfrey, Sharkey and Stribling have in two years. A bout between Schmeling and Christner here this month would reconcile a lot of fans to missing that Stribling-Sharkey thing at Miami Beach.

Risko One of a Number Headed For Nowhere in Ring Game.

Johnny Risko, a good boy when he had it, as they say at the club, is, of course, out of the picture for good. Nominated to follow him by some cauliflower critics are Paulino Uscudun and Tom Heeney. Paulino, they say, has had a faraway look in his eyes ever since George Godfrey applied one of his devastating massages to the Basque's midriff. A conviction that the terrific thumping he took at the hands of Gene Tunney last summer did not do Heeney any good is strengthened by Tom's own uncertainty as to his ring future. On several occasions Tom has intimated that he is considering chucking the fight racket, and it won't take more than one more setback to convince him that he might just as well, thereby making it practically unanimous.

Clan Reaches Finals in Soccer

Beats Marlboro, 2-1, in Thrilling Game in Cup-Tie Event.

Arcadians in League Victory, 3-1, Over Gaithersburg.

By RICHARD S. TENNYSON.

YOUTH was not served nor was it aided by luck yesterday in the District Soccer Association's Cup-Tie semifinals and, as a consequence, the more ancient Clan MacLennan combination eliminated the youthful Marlboro Team from further consideration in the tourney by defeating it, 2 to 1.

Had Lady Luck elected to smile on the Marylanders, rather than frown as she did, the game would have ended 2 to 2. Marlboro fought valiantly against the more experienced Clan Club and in the last fifteen minutes of play missed putting the equalizing marker in the Clan net only by inches on several occasions.

Arcadians Keep in Running by Beating Gaithersburg.

The only league game of the day assured District fans of a real title match to decide the Capital City League championship. The Arcadians defeated Gaithersburg, 3 to 1, and next Sunday will play Rockville a match that will either put the two teams in a deadlock for the honors or make Rockville the champions. The game was postponed.

Marlboro opened the scoring shortly after it started hostilities against the Clan through a well organized and determined assault on the Scotch goal. F. Wyville beat the Clan right full back neatly and booted the only Marlboro score of the day past Staatz, Clan goalie.

The game then see-sawed with both ends of the field being visited in rapid succession and both goal keepers being tried frequently. Staatz and Buck, rival goalies, gave fine exhibitions of goal guarding and, although both forward lines drilled away, neither succeeded in registering for a while.

McLean's Goal Through Buck Knots the Count.

About midway the period, Clan MacLennan, through some neat footwork and passing by Robson and Blanche, launched a dogged attack on the Maryland uprights and after a prolonged siege in Marlboro's penalty area the venerable Dave McLean sent one of his bullet-like shots directly at Buck who got his hands on the sphere but it was coming too fast for him to hold and it bounded into the net to tie the score.

For a few minutes following McLean's goal the ball stayed near the center of the field with neither club having an advantage, but finally Johnny Malloch snagged the ball from a Marlboro forward and after a 40-yard solo run he squared one past Buck for what resulted in the winning goal.

Despite the fact that Marlboro kicked against the wind in the last half it held the victors scoreless. Reilly, the Marylander's center half, gave a brilliant exhibition throughout this period and did much toward keeping Marlboro within one goal of a tie.

Bryden's Loss Because of Roughness Weakens Clan Team.

Frank Wyville cut loose with several well directed shots early in the period but each time either Staatz made clever saves or the ball missed the objective by the narrowest of margins.

Ten minutes after the resumption of play, Referee Bluer decided that "Wee Willie" Bryden was using tactics that were too rough and ordered him from

Three Tie for Golf Lead In South Central Open

Hot Springs, Ark., Feb. 3 (A.P.).—Bobby Cruickshank, wee New Yorker, staged a great finish today to all but win the South Central open golf tournament and then faltered on the final green to finish in a 72-hole deadlock with "Wild Bill" Mehlhorn and Horton Smith, young Joplin, Mo., player. All carded 290, two strokes over par, for the long jaunt, and will stage an eighteen-hole play-off for first place tomorrow.

Tom Armour, Washington, and Burke tied for third, one stroke behind the leaders.

Bill Mehlhorn, New York, 146, 72, 72—290; Bobby Cruickshank, New York, 146, 71, 73—290; Horton Smith, Joplin, Mo., 142, 76, 72—290; Billy Burke New York, 145, 72, 74—291; Tommy Armour, Washington, 151, 72, 68—291; Tony Manero, New York, 151, 73, 68—292; Dan Williams, Westfield, N. J., 148, 73, 72—293; Al Espinosa, Chicago, 147, 72, 74—293.

James Foulis, Chicago, 147, 74, 74—295; Joe Kirkwood, Albany, Ga., 149, 71, 75—295; John Golden Paterson, N. J., 149, 76, 71—296; Frank Walsh, Appleton, Wis., 150, 73, 74—297; Jack Forester, Hackensack, N. J., 148, 76, 73—297; Henry Cuici, Bridgeport, Conn., 149, 75, 73—297; Dallas Jeffers, Long Beach, Calif., 150, 76, 72—298; Harry Cooper, Buffalo, N. Y., 149, 75, 74—298.

Rob Roy Mackey Chosen To Again Head Mohawks

At the annual meeting of the Mohawk Athletic Club, held last night, all officers except the secretary were relected. The slate names were: Rob Roy Mackey, president; C. C. Cornell, vice president; secretary, Clarence Johnson; Patsy Donovan Koont, treasurer and manager of football; sergeant at arms, Enoes McCarthy.

In addition to the officers named above, new members of the board of directors are: G. T. Woerner, H. Brown and Ponce Reese.

Tommy Hitchcock Makes Ten Goals in Coast Game

Del Monte, Calif., Feb. 3 (United Press).—Tommy Hitchcock displayed here today how he gained the reputation of being one of the world's best polo players when he scored more goals than the total of four players on the Midwick team, a squad that has gained considerable prominence on the Pacific Coast.

The noted rider played with the San Carlos Cardinals in his first appearance here and scored ten goals. The score was 19 to 7 in favor of the Cardinals.

Tony Plansky, Former G. U. Track And Grid Star, Signed by Braves

Boston, Feb. 3 (A.P.).—Tony Plansky, of Boston, former Georgetown track and football star, has signed a Boston Braves' contract and plans to train with the club at St. Petersburg, Fla., to see whether he can make the grade as a right-handed pitcher or an outfielder.

Plansky, three-time winner of the American decathlon championship, has never played much baseball. His track work always prevented him from participating in the diamond sport, but the Braves management was willing to take him South for a try-out on the recommendation of John O'Reilly, Georgetown track coach, who formerly had charge of the Blue and Gray's baseball nines.

O'Reilly told Fred Mitchell, business manager of the Braves, who signed Plansky, that his former all-around track star would have been one of the East's greatest college pitchers if he had had time to devote to baseball when he attended Georgetown.

Pegler Sees Future Champion In the Ferocious Frankfurter

By WESTBROOK PEGLER.

NEW YORK, Feb. 3.—Of all the heavyweight prize fighters now practicing, Max Schmeling, the ferocious Frankfurter, looks likeliest to prove and become in time the all-around, free-style, international nuisance, the heavy-eight champion of the world. Herr Schmeling did a tactless thing in knocking out Johnny Risko in the Garden Friday evening because his employers, the Madison Square Garden Corporation, will now find it even more difficult to explain why the customers should spend large sums for transportation and $25 apiece for tickets to their Sharkey-Stribling producton in Miami Beach. The price of admission to the execution of the fortunate Risko was $7.50 at the box office or $15 across the street, but the principal entertainers fought more in nine rounds than Sharkey and Stribling could reasonably be expected to fight in nine months.

Merely to have beaten Risko would have been no great feat for Schmeling. In fact, if he had not beaten him, the young German wou'd have been humiliated, because John had ceased to win fights, and Schmeling took the ring with the understanding that a decision victory would be par for the event. But when Max began to whip through short right-hand punches that melted Risko's legs he was scoring birdies on the back tees, and when he finally addled his man with a sharp right uppercut in the ninth he broke the course record, for Risko had not been stopped since his freshman year, and only on a technicality then.

Another Punch Would Have Given Risko Fighter's Dance.

This time he still held his feet at the close of the fight, but he was not conscious and one more punch might have induced that strange malady which the profession calls fighters' dance. In fact, if there is any antitoxin for fighters' dance it might be well for Risko to take it as a precaution, for he was dangerously exposed in the last minute.

Schmeling comes to the ring with an important handicap over the rest of the prize fighters. He is ambitious, industrious and methodical. It seems that he once sat down and estimated that the heavyweight championship would make him a millionaire and decided that even a prize fighter should be willing to study his work and practice and persevere for $1,000,000. This is a point of view that has been adopted by only one other prize fighter and that one, Gene Tunney, won the championship and made $2,000,000.

Went Back to His Lessons After Fighting Sekyra.

After his last previous fight, Joe Sekyra being his opponent, Max withdrew to a prize fighters' seminary at Summit, N. J., and ground away at his lessons. He had not done very well against Sekyra, being unable to catch him often. It remains to be seen whether he has learned how to overtake those who advance to the rear, because Risko was an opponent of a different type. Risko retreats forward constantly and Max caught him coming in. One of his right uppercuts took Risko on the chin as Johnny missed a long left swing to the body, and Johnny's jaws clopped together with a sharp report as he pitched to his knees.

Sharkey, on the other hand, has never been willing to practice or work out any problems, being a firm believer in an intimidating glare. He does not train, either, and when some one of dull imagination laughs at this glare and hits him on the ear he casts side glances at the ropes as though estimating the height and preparing to jump over them.

Max Is Now Undergraduate, But a Promising Student.

Schmeling does not hit very hard with his left hand. It is more an annoyance than a menace. But with his right he can block left hooks very deftly and deliver short clips to the jaw or rib shaking drives at the body which seem to give no pleasure. Against a right hand puncher he might find the need of more lessons.

Of course, Max is still an undergraduate in the seminary, and it would be rash for him to fight Willie Stribling, or Sharkey for a time. Stribling is very tricky after his hundreds of fights, with bums of all styles, and Sharkey, also, has too much experience for Max at his present development.

But, given another year of practice, the German prize fighter will have learned to heel and gouge, butt and wrestle himself and with that right hand pumping at the body he should be able to punch even Stribling in the clinches.

Tom Heeney's Manager Claims World's Title For Australian Heavy

New York, Feb. 3 (U.P.).—Charlie Harvey injected Tom Heeney, the softened "hard rock from down under," back into the heavyweight boxing situation tonight with a statement claiming in Tom's behalf the championship of the world.

Harvey points out how Heeney a firm believer—along, he says, with many of the "old school"—that when a champion retires his title reverts to the old titleholder.

Besides the Australian championship, Heeney's only title to date has been that of runner-up to Flat Phil Scott, champion of England. But Harvey argues that as Dempsey, the former world's champion, "shows no desire, outside of a lot of apparent ballyhoo," to try a comeback, Tom is the boy because Tunney beat him.

Harvey points out how Heeney worked himself up to the position of foil for Tunney's jabs in last year's fight, and says that unless Dempsey comes back the nominee is Heeney, "the next most logical man, who eliminated all others and through his honest efforts gained the right to fight the champion, Gene Tunney."

Therefore, Harvey concludes, "in his behalf I now claim the title for Heeney and announce to the world his willingness to defend it against all comers."

Schmeling and O'Kelly To Fight February 15

Boston, Feb. 3 (A.P.).—Eddie Mack, boxing promoter at the Boston garden, announced tonight that Max Schmeling, German heavyweight, has been matched against Con O'Kelly, of Ireland for a bout here on February 15.

Mack had hoped to match either Jimmy Maloney, who defeated O'Kelly here Friday night, or Ernie Schaaf against Schmeling but could not reach an agreement as to terms.

Controversy on Tilden's Status Splits Midatlantic Net Body

ALL is not harmonious within the Middle Atlantic Tennis Association, which governs the net sport in the District and the States of Maryland, Virginia and West Virginia, and Bill Tilden, the naughty boy who used to write for the papers against the wishes of the tennis papas of the United States Lawn Tennis Association, is the cause of it.

It seems now that there are two factions diametrically opposed to each other in the Middle Atlantic one defending Tilden and the other opposing him on the subject of his reinstatement to amateur status from which he was stripped by the U. S. L. T. A. last summer for violation of the player-writer rule.

The Middle Atlantic last Saturday in executive meeting in Baltimore, went on record favoring Tilden's reinstatement and instructed its delegate to the annual meeting of the U. S. L. T. A.—Theodore Penzold, jr., of Norfolk, Va.—to vote accordingly at the session of the national organization to be held in Boston this Friday.

Heated Debate Hinges Around Recommendation on Tilden.

Heated debate revolved about the subject of placing Big Bill back in his former status. Paul Harding, of Washington, a friend of Tilden, proposed the resolution, and after one hour's discussion, the resolution was passed.

The vote was 975 to 925, which showed the almost equal split among the delegates. The defeated contingent, the die-hards, as Harding termed them, then set out to keep news of the action from being made public. It was bad enough to do anything in opposition to the existing rulers of tennis, but it was still worse to let the public known, the losers argued.

Attempted to Withhold Notice Of Action From Press.

So they attempted to withhold from press notices of the meeting what had been done in favor of Tilden. The story they passed out merely concerned the ranking of the players of this section, but Harding and others of the Tilden supporters thwarted them and added the Tilden resolution to the rest of the material for the reporters.

By going on record favoring the lifting of the Tilden ban, the Middle Atlantic Association became the first branch of the United States Lawn Tennis Association to venture to "buck" the existing regime of the parent organization.

D. C. Colleges In 12 Games This Week

Catholic U. to Play Mt. St. Mary's Here Tonight.

G. W. and American U. in Second Battle Tomorrow.

WASHINGTON teams mix with the so-called elite of collegiate basket ball this week. The unbeaten Fordham University Five will come down from New York to engage Catholic at Brookland on Wednesday night and Georgetown will visit New York U., one of the best quintets in the metropolitan area, on Saturday night.

These games are among twelve listed for the local collegians this week. There will be seven on home floors and five out of town. Maryland will do most of the traveling, being scheduled for a trip into Virginia which opens tonight at Blacksburg, where Coach Shipley's basketers will meet Virginia Poly.

Catholic and Mount St. Mary's will inaugurate the home program tonight at Brookland. If the Brooklanders can regain something of the form they flashed in beating American U. a week ago, they will stand a good chance of trimming the visitors from Emmittsburg, Md.

C. U. Showed Lack of Accurate Shooting Against Virginia.

Saturday night against Virginia U. the Catholics showed a woeful lack of shooting accuracy, but Coach Rice is hoping that his boys were suffering only a temporary affliction. Mount St. Mary's is a fast team, rated capable of making trouble for Catholic U., even though it was no match for Georgetown two weeks ago.

The second and final game of the George Washington-American U. series will be staged tomorrow night on the American court. Burgess and Lichliter, scoring stars for the Eagles, will return to the line-up after an enforced layoff in the Navy game last Saturday. George Washington figures to give the Eagles greater opposition than when they clashed before, with American romping away to a 33 to 12 victory.

Maryland to Play Generals At Lexington Tomorrow.

Maryland will see action also tomorrow night, playing Washington and Lee at Lexington. The Terrapins will be out to turn the tables on the flying Generals, who smeared them last Saturday night here. Maryland will remain in Lexington for a battle with Virginia Military Institute on Wednesday night.

Georgetown will return to activity Wednesday night in a clash with Gallaudet on the American U. floor. The Hoya five has had a full week of rest and expects to meet little difficulty in adding another victory to its long list. Gallaudet, which holds triumphs over Catholic and George Washington, has a different idea about it.

Fordham Favorite in Game With Catholic U. Here.

A counter attraction will be held the same night at Brookland, where Fordham and Catholic will mix. Unless the dope is far off, Fordham will continue on its winning way.

Friday night will find Maryland back home with the strong North Carolina University Quintet on hand. The Old Dominion Boat Club, of Alexandria, will try to avenge an earlier defeat in tackling Gallaudet at Kendall Green, while Georgetown will oppose New York A. C. on the Gothamites' court.

George Washington will occupy the local stage alone Saturday night with Davis-Elkins as its guest. Georgetown will take its second fling at New York U. in New York the same night. The Violets is the only college team holding a victory over Georgetown this season.

TONIGHT.
Catholic vs. Mount St. Mary's, at Brookland.
Maryland vs. V. P. I., at Blacksburg, Va.

TOMORROW.
American U. vs. George Washington, at American.
Maryland vs. Washington and Lee, at Lexington, Va.

WEDNESDAY.
Gallaudet vs. Georgetown, at Amerikan.
Catholic vs. Fordham, at Brookland.
Maryland vs. V. M. I., at Lexington, Va.

FRIDAY.
Maryland vs. North Carolina U., at College Park.
Gallaudet vs. Old Dominion Boat Club, at Kendall Green.
Georgetown vs. New York A. C., at New York.

SATURDAY.
George Washington vs. Davis-Elkins, at George Washington.
Georgetown vs. New York U., at New York.

Women's Doubles Title Event Starts Saturday

To bring about harmony in the doubles matches to be staged by three of the city's best doubles pairs, bowling magnates sponsoring the clashes involving Marjorie Bradt and Marie Frere, Lorraine Gulli and Irene Mischou, and Rena Levy and Catharine Quigley have decided to follow the original plan of letting the Bradt-Frere team meet the Gulli-Mischou team. The winner has agreed to accpt the challenge of the Levy-Quigley pair.

When plans were first made for the clash Bill Wood, manager of the Meyer Davis interests, backed Marjorie Bradt and Marie Frere against the Arcadia stars, Lorraine Gulli and Irene Mischou. After all plans had been completed for the match the plans were temporarily halted when a challenge was issued by Rena Levy and Catherine Quigley, representing the Coliseum, under the direction of Lonnie Kreus.

For a while it looked like a three-cornered affair, but it is understood that some objection was raised to this, so the Meyer Davis-Arcadia representatives will meet at King Pin No. 1 next Saturday night and will conclude the match at Arcadia the following week. The winner of this pair will meet the Coliseum pair at a time to be decided later.

Greco, Ex-C. U. Boxer, To Coach Loyola Team

Don Greco, crack lightweight and captain of the Catholic University Boxing Team of 1928, has been engaged to instruct the boxers of Loyola College, of New Orleans. The Louisianans are taking up the fistic art in competition for the first time.

Greco was a mainstay of the Cardinal mitt team for three years. He also did considerable fighting in local amateur ranks.

GALLAUDET'S STAR TOPS SCORERS

Cosgrove Remains in Front; G. U. Leads Rival Teams.

FEW changes occurred in the standings of the District college basketball scorers during the past week. Del Cosgrove, of Gallaudet, held first place by a wide margin, boosting his total to 129 points, while Freddy Mesmer and Don Dutton, of Georgetown, retained second and third places, although they did not play.

Forrest Burgess, of American, had a great chance to advance at the expense of Dutton and Mesmer by playing in one game, but the Eagle star forward scored only 1 point, thus remaining in fourth place. Maurice McCarthy, of Georgetown, trails Burgess by 2 points.

Henry Draplewski, of Gallaudet, got in one game and scored enough markers to tie with Hal Meenan, of Georgetown, who was idle, for sixth place, each of this pair now boasting a total of 67 points.

Georgetown Five Leading Rivals in Team Scoring.

Dutch Schloss, Dave Lichliter and Jack LaFavre, of American U., occupy the next three positions in the order named.

In team scoring, Georgetown still is far in front with a total of 423 points for 11 contests, which betters Gallaudet's mark by 95 points. Georgetown has scored the most field and foul goals of any of the local collegiate quintets, while George Washington, which has played only four games, has scored the fewest.

Following are the statistics covering every player who has played on every team of the District group:

Golf Body Prohibits Amateur Pro Match

Palm Beach, Fla., Feb. 3.—Johnny Farrell, national open golf champion, and John Flattery, of Salem, Mass., scored an easy victory today over Charley Murray, former Canadian open title holder, and Dennis O'Connell, of Philadelphia, in an eighteen-hole match on the West Palm Beach Country Club course. The margin was 6 up and 5 to play.

Farrell was to have played George Voigt, ranking New York City star; Arthur "Ducky" Yates, former New York State champion, and Jack Butler, local champion, but the United States Golf Association ruled against the three amateurs appearing in the exhibition for a "gate" on the ground that Farrell is an employer of professionals.

De Mar Displaced by Ray; Carr Named for Pole Vault.

NEW YORK, Feb. 3 (A.P.).—With the Olympic games as an incentive to keen competition, few of America's athletes were able to win more than once place on the 1928 all-America athletic teams, selected annually for Spalding's Athletic Almanac by Daniel J. Ferris, secretary-treasurer of the Amateur Athletic Union.

Only Lloyd Hahn, Boston A. A. middle-distance ace, who retired from competition after the Olympic games; Jois Ray, sensation of the year at the longer distances, and Frank Titterton, of the Millrose A. A., New York, winner of two national championships, placed twice on the team. Claude Bracey, of Rice Institute, Texas, scored a double in the sping on the college team, and Stanley Stokes, of Baton Rouge (La.) High School, won both hurdle places on the scholastic team.

Earl Wildermuth, Georgetown sprint star, was rated first in the 60-yard run.

Ray Barbuti, America's only winner of a flat race at the Olympic games, is placed on the college team as well as the national aggregation along with Phil Edwards, of New York University; Frank Cuhel, of Iowa; Ed Hamm, of Georgia Tech; Sabin Carr, of Yale; Maynard Black, of Maine; Bob King, of Stanford and Kenneth Doherty, of Detroit City College. Frank Wykoff, California schoolboy sprint star, gained the unusual distinction of making both the all-America team and the scholastic team.

Ray Placed Ahead of De Mar In Marathon Ranking.

In nearly every case the winners of the national championships receive Mr. Ferris' nomination. Leader among those who break the reign of the title holders is Jois Ray, who was given the marathon place over Clarence De Mar, winner of the Boston marathon, national championship test. Making the first start at the long distance, Ray finished third. Later he won the Long Beach race and was the first American to finish in the Olympic marathon.

His Olympic victory as well as a consistently fine showing gave Sabin Carr the place in the pole vault although the national championship went to Lee Barnes, of Southern California. Sabin is placed on the team at 1,000 yards as well as the half mile although Ray Conger, of the Illinois A. C., won the title indoors.

John Kuck, Los Angeles A. C. star, winner of the Olympic shot put, is given the call over Herman Brix, of the University of Washington, who beat him out in the trials. Croth, of Georgetown, winner of the javelin throw title, also yields to Charles Barlow, of the Los Angeles A. C.

SCHOOL TOSSERS TO PLAY 22 GAMES THIS WEEK

High Contests Features Of Card

Tech-C. U. Frosh and Devitt-Geo. Mason Meet Today.

ALTHOUGH the local scholastic basketball season might be said to be nearing its close with the finale of the high school court series tomorrow, 22 games will keep the various teams busy this week in both the high and prep school group. Games are scheduled every day, with tomorrow Friday and Saturday the busiest.

The games which will ring down the curtain for high school series tomorrow will bring the Central and Eastern and the Business and Western Teams together at the Tech Gymnasium, beginning at 3:15 o'clock. Wednesday's Prep School League clash will bring Gonzaga and St. John's at arms in the Boys Club Gymnasium at 3:15 o'clock.

Devitt-George Mason and Tech-C. U. Frosh Play Today.

Games outside these major attractions begin today, with Devitt entertaining the George Mason High Five at the "Y" and the champion Tech High Quintet opposing the Catholic University Freshmen at Brookland.

Georgetown Prep and Gonzaga will lock horns tomorrow in one of the two games outside of the high school series clashes, while the Maryland Freshmen will entertain the Alexandria High School Five in another at College Park. Eastern will entertain the Alexandrians on Wednesday outside of the prep school clash between Gonzaga and St. John's on this day, while Tech and Woodward will clash at Tech.

One game is listed on Thursday, Georgetown Prep entertaining Mount St Mary's Prep at Garrett Park. Eight games will make Friday a busy day, with five of the games here.

Friday Busy Day, With Eight Games Scheduled.

Going down the list, Georgetown Prep and Western will meet at Western, St Albans will entertain Forest Park at St Albans, Tech and the Maryland Freshmen will play at College Park, Devitt will engage Hyattsville High at the "Y," Leonard Hall will play Gonzaga at Gonzaga in the afternoon and St. John's at night at St. John's, Central will go to Portsmouth, Va., for a game with Portsmouth High and Bliss will entertain the Cresap Rifle Company Five at Silver Spring.

COLLYER'S COMMENT on the SPORT of KINGS

By BERT E. COLLYER.

EVERGREEN QUEEN.

This is a hotsy totsy in the Sallee Stable and unless you are solid ivory from the shoulders up, you won't let her get away from you. Word comes to me via the grapevine route that the big commission houses are loaded to the guards. Second race at the Fair Grounds is the spot. Several well-rated 3-year-olds will go with her and you can look for a good price.

LUCILE is the medium of a plunge in the opening spasm. This youngster was a commission horse in its previous race, and appeared a trifle short. DOROTHY LEE, of the O'Connell entry, and the Chinaman horse, ONE LONG HOP, for what is left.

AVIATOR stands out like the Statue of Liberty on Bedloe's Island. In the third, CAPTAIN GEORGE FOSTER is showing improvement and is likely to get into the picture. The Bradley entry, BURNING SUN and BUTTERED TOAST, will be hard to beat in the fourth. MINOTAUR is best of the others. PIGEON HOLE gets the call in the fifth, but is likely to meet with a lot of opposition from BLACK BEETLE. The latter ran an impressive race last time out.

It's take your pick in the sixth. THISTLE FYRN probably figures a shade the best. SAMBO G. closed a big gap in his previous race and may find the mile route more to his liking. The seventh appears to have been made to order for HOROLOGE.

BOB SHANNON is the hot one from Miami. Starts in the baby race, fifth on the card. ALITA ALLEN seems to outclass her opposition in the sixth, with NORTHLAND the probable runner-up.

NEW ORLEANS.

1—Lucile, E. J. O'Connell entry. One Long Hop.
2—Evergreen Queen, Evelyn L., Marsuerite Willet.
3—Aviator, Captain George Foster, Old Bill.
4—E. R. Bradley entry, Minotaur, War Buddy.
5—Pigeon Hole, Black Beetle, Seagram Sable entry.
6—Thistle Fyrn, Sambo G., Genghis Khan.
7—Horologe, Bill Hare, Prishtful.
Best—Evergreen Queen.

MIAMI.

WESTS LOSE TO SILVER SPRING

Service Company in 29-19 Victory; 3 Other Games.

THE Silver Spring Service Co. Five defeated the West Co basketers, 25 to 19 in the major attraction yesterday afternoon in the Silver Spring Armory Gymnasium. Tony Stewart starred for the Springers, with five baskets for 10 points.

The Blair Reds defeated the Red Shields, 22 to 11, in one of the preliminary games with the Woodside Basketers triumphing over the Washington Loan & Trust Co. Tossers, 27 to 14, in another.

One more of the preliminary games found the Passaic A. C. winner over the Fort Leonard Wood Five by a 44 to 9 score. Lucas, Taylor and Rosenblatt were the high scorers with 10, 11 and 10 points, respectively.

The Stanleys made it 23 straight at the expense of the Mystery Five yesterday, 16 to 14, in still one more of the preliminary games in the Silver Spring Armory gymnasium.

Baltimore U. Gridmen List C. U. on October 12

Washington college teams seem to be most popular with schedule makers of Baltimore University. The Baltimoreans, who have played five basket ball games with local teams this winter, have listed Catholic University for a football game next fall, making the third Capital eleven which will meet the Oriole gridmen in 1929. Gallaudet and George Washington are the others on the Baltimore football program. The game with Catholic will be played in the Brookland Stadium on October 12

The Catholic football schedule now is complete with the exception of one date, November 9. Nine games will make up the Cardinals' card.

DE LUXE FIVE HITS STRIDE.

The De Luxe Five, in the 130-pound class, after playing mediocre basket ball for the first half of the season, has finally hit its stride and bids well to gain laurels in The Post's South Atlantic tournament next month.

The De Luxe Tossers won the second half of the Boys Club Unlimited League recently and will play the Boys Club Celtics, winners of the first-half series, next Saturday in the first of a three-game series for the unlimited championship of the Boys Club League

In preparation for these clashes the De Luxe would like to play one or two games with teams in their class. The Stanleys, winners of 20 straight games to date, are especially challenged. Phone Manager Mansuy at Lincoln 8333-W before 9 a. m. or after 5 p. m.

HARRIMAN FIVE WINS.

Falcone and Brown starred for the Harriman Co. Basketers as the French Athletic Club Tossers were beaten, 22 to 18, yesterday, in a preliminary to the Eagle-Richmond series game in the Congress Heights Gymnasium

The Harrimans engage the Kanawha Scholastics tonight at Central at 8 o'clock, and the Company F Tossers on Thursday at Hyattsville in a Washington City Amateur League game

TRAINER ALSO COACHES.

Coach Chuck Quinlan, trainer of the University of North Carolina's athletic teams, is head coach of both boxing and wrestling at the Tarheel institution this winter. Quinlan came to the university several years ago as wrestling mentor, but he soon took over the trainer's duties in the fall of 1926. He is a product of the Springfield Y. M. C. A. College, at Springfield, Mass.

ELLA CINDERS—How He Did It

Ella's still a guest of Mr. X, much moneyed man of mystery.....
NOW THAT I KNOW SO LITTLE ABOUT YOU, I'D LIKE TO KNOW A LITTLE MORE—HOW DID YOU MAKE YOUR MONEY?
IT'S A LONG STORY, MISS CINDERS—
I WAS BORN IN A FAR COUNTRY OF HUMBLE PARENTS, AND WHILE STILL A CRADLED INFANT, WAS LEFT AN ORPHAN—
THE GOOD VILLAGE FOLK BROUGHT GIFTS FOR THE LITTLE ORPHAN, AS WAS THEIR CUSTOM. WHILE THEY WERE DISCUSSING WHICH WOULD ADOPT ME, AN OLD GYPSY APPEARED.....
SHE PREDICTED MY FUTURE—SHE DECLARED I WOULD HAVE THE MAGIC POWER OF MAKING MONEY, THAT I WOULD HAVE THE TOUCH OF MIDAS AND THE WEALTH OF CROESUS—AND IT ALL CAME TRUE.....
Don't miss Mr. X's story!

Static Held At Low Ebb This Month

Government Chiefs Find Reception Is Best in Winter; Humorists to Broadcast Dialogue on Night of February 9.

Despite the exceptionally mild early winter we had in Washington, Government observers report that radio reception conditions were as good if not better than they were a year ago. Static is now at a low ebb and is expected to continue so during the month of February.

Atmospheric conditions are different at different seasons, but according to an authority consulted yesterday, we need not expect static difficulties in the District much before May 1.

The static then begins to rise, often reaching high peaks in June and August. After that it gradually subsides. Ideal broadcasting conditions are supposed to prevail between Columbus Day and Washington's Birthday.

The humorists' debate between Erickland Gillilan and Henry Edward Warner, of the Baltimore Sun, has now been tentatively set for WRC next Saturday night, February 9, at 8 o'clock. Gillilan and Warner, two newspaper men who formerly worked together in Baltimore, were the founders of the American Humorists Association.

"I don't know the exact plan for the debate," Warner said yesterday, "but we're going to divide the hour, matching to see who opens. We will alternate in ten-minute periods and sign off with our two best-known things: Gillilan's railroad classic in dialogue, 'Off Agin, On Agin, Finnegan,' and a musical reading of my composition, 'I've Got a Pain in My Sawdust.'

"Strick's Finnegan and my Sawdust were written at about the same time, about 23 years ago, and they have both joined the ranks of the imperishable, translated into many languages."

Beginning Wednesday, radio programs performed on the Pacific Coast will be available regularly to listeners in the East, according to an announcement made today by the National Broadcasting Co.

The inauguration of this latest development in transcontinental broadcasting will bring two of the best orchestras in the Far West to the receiving sets of Eastern listeners. The orchestras are the Pacific Vagabonds, to be heard regularly every Wednesday afternoon, from 4 to 5 o'clock, in a program of symphonic jazz, and the Pacific Little Symphony, which will present each Friday afternoon at the same hour a program of classified selections. The two orchestras, playing before a microphone in the company's San Francisco studios, will be the forerunners of a host of NBC entertainment units of the Pacific Coast.

The recent installation of a permanent transcontinental line linking New York with San Francisco has made possible this stride forward in the development of radio broadcasting. Heretofore only programs of national importance, requiring special wire facilities, have been brought East by the NBC.

While reversing of a broadcasting circuit appears to be a comparatively simple feat to the layman, radio engineers claim that it is a real achievement in engineering. Before the circuit can be reversed in order that Western programs may flow East, approximately more than an hour's effort in rerouting circuits is required. Changes must be made in circuits and the reversed lines must be thoroughly tested before the broadcast is transmitted. Between New York and San Francisco, a distance of 3,000 miles, if the NBC leased line is followed, there are 26 repeater stations or relay points. The coast-to-coast circuit must be tested between each of these relay points, as well as over the entire circuit before each program.

Irene Franklin, Frank Fay and Annette Kellerman will be the star attractions tomorrow night in the Radio-Keith Orpheum hour at 11 o'clock over Station WRC. Joseph Regan, an Irish tenor; Al Bernard and Billy Beard in a blackface comedy sketch; Ethel Davis, a singing monologist, and the Tremaine Orchestra also will be included in the program.

8 Features Begin Today On WMAL

Station Will Broadcast Daytime Numbers Hereafter; Julia Sanderson Will Sing Over WRC; Warner Kennedy Billed.

Station WMAL will start the week right by broadcasting the first of its daytime features, beginning at 10 o'clock this morning with the Topaz Trio. As a member of the Columbia Broadcasting System, it will present morning and afternoon features in the future.

"New Mother Hubbard," Elmer Grosso and his orchestra and an agricultural program are other programs new to WMAL listeners which will be heard during the morning.

Beginning at 3 o'clock this afternoon, the station will broadcast "L'Apres Midi," Herbert Soman and ensemble, musical moments with famous pianists, farm hints and an orchestra, following at 6 o'clock with dinner music and the regular evening program. At 7:30 o'clock Roxy will give his usual presentation.

An outstanding offering for the evening will be Eleanor Painter, well-known soprano, who will be the star of the Vitaphone jubilee, at 9:30 o'clock. Miss Painter is probably best known for the part she created in "Princess Pat" many years ago. She will revive some of her numbers from this operetta for the benefit of her radio audience tonight.

An old comedy drama, "A Ragged Hero," will be played by Hank Simmons and his Show Boat company at 10 o'clock tonight.

David McWilliams and his orchestra will close WMAL's day with an hour of dance music.

Julia Sanderson will be the vocal star in the Family Party at 9:30 o'clock tonight from Station WRC. Appearing with her will be Frank Crummit, who has costarred with Miss Sanderson on the musical comedy stage.

Miss Sanderson's first success in musical comedy came in "The Girl From Utah," with Donald Brian and Joseph Cawthorne. This was followed by "The Canary," "Rambler Rose," "Hitchy Koo," "Tangerine" and "Moonlight." For the last three years Miss Sanderson has played in Philadelphia and Boston in "No, No Nanette," "Oh Kay" and "Queen High."

Instrumental music for the program will be provided by an augmented novelty orchestra, and the entertainment will be of the popular vaudeville type.

A special salon arrangement of Nardini's "Barcarole" will be played by the Gypsies at 8:30 o'clock from WRC. The program will open with the "Russian and Ludmilla" overture of Glinka, and moves forward with two selections by Godowsky, "Alt Wein" and "Sylvan Tyrol." A Handel "Largo" and Toselli's "Serenade" will be heard in the same hour.

The Studebaker Champions will be introduced to radio listeners through a coast-to-coast hook-up of stations, including station WRC, at 10:15 o'clock tonight. Sponsored by the Studebaker Corporation, this hereafter will be a weekly feature.

There will be a 30-piece orchestra tonight, led by Jean Goldkette. The latter is transcribing popular songs of the day into modern symphonic arrangements and the first of these will be heard "Algalala, Little-Good-for-Nothing," an opera by DeLeone, will be broadcast in tabloid form from WRC at 11 o'clock tonight. The opera is written around an Indian girl, Algalala, daughter of the Chippewa chief Mamegos, and her love for a white man. It is seldom heard over the radio.

A Government Club meeting, lasting about two hours, will be a feature from WRC during the afternoon, followed at 4 o'clock by the United States Marine Band, directed by Capt. Taylor Branson.

Station WOL will broadcast its regular Monday program, opening at 10 o'clock with a household chat. Warner Kennedy, pianist, is scheduled for 6 o'clock, followed by a Community Chest speaker. "Amos 'n' Andy" will be heard at 7:11 o'clock, after which the station will be silent until 10 o'clock, when a program of dance music will be transmitted.

Every one in Thompkins Corners is alarmed and excited over reports of burglaries in neighboring communities. The installation of a burglar alarm in Matt's store will occupy much of the program at 9:30 o'clock from stations WJZ, WBAL and WLW. With this protection in the store, Matt, Martha and Elmer and all the rest of the good folks of the village expect to enjoy their first sound sleep in weeks. Still, you never can tell!

Jane Interprets the Mode

A smartly simple afternoon dress of black crepe de chine in which the draping and decoration of the skirt are particularly interesting. At the left, a lovely one of black shadow lace and georgette, all hand made. (Courtesy of the Maison Jenny, Paris.)

New York, Feb. 3, 1929.

SLEEVES, which have been getting longer for some time, are now also getting wider—not only in a few of the houses, but so generally that we must consider it a collective trend.

This is a rather natural accompaniment of the longer, flaring skirt, since short sleeves and tight sleeves could only look ridiculous with a full and lengthened skirt.

It is a pleasing development, for nothing could be more graceful than the flowing line of such sleeves. Its use will be limited, of course, since it is out of question for the purely practical dress.

Varying Treatments.

In some cases the width is obtained through a gradual flare, which begins at the elbow; in other cases the sleeve continues to be fitted to the wrist but is trimmed with a wide cuff. Jeanne Lanvin is one of the most active exponents of these wide-cuff treatments.

Martial et Armand obtains cuff width in another way—the sleeve is snug and the cuff is reversed, flaring toward the elbow. These cuffs are sometimes in a single piece and are sometimes of three parallel bands.

A Surprise for You!

Just what do you think we would put into what we would call a surprise leaflet? Well, I'll tell you. We would put into it all the clever little things we think of from time to time, which singly wouldn't be quite enough, in our estimation, to make a leaflet. And yet each is one of our pets, and we just know they are going to be pets of yours, too, when you send your stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Dare department of The Washington Post for the leaflet that tells you how to make them all!

* * * *

Two typical Jenny dresses, fragile, graceful, but eminently wearable. At the left such a lovely one of black shadow lace and georgette, all hand made, the lace sewed on by hand as though it would wash. Its fragile loveliness to a more durable support.

And at the right an amusing black crepe de chine trimmed with graduating circles of soutache, which make such an interesting decolletage!

* * * *

Winter sports wear always seems to be a problem. Several little ladies have written and asked for suggestions. The only suggestion possible is that you dress practically, warmly and conveniently. But be just as careful of the lines in this costume as you are of the lines of any other—by that I mean if, for instance, your hips are large, don't wear tuck-in sweaters but, instead, jackets, which come below your trousers and over your hips.

And then since color is such an important factor in togs for winter sports, wear the colors that are becoming to you, at least in your accessories, if not in your actual costume.

Animals of Long Ago

I. GIANT FISH.

SCIENTISTS say that the earth has a history which stretches back millions of years—to a time long before there were any people. The remains of thousands of animals which lived in misty times have been dug up. We can not tell exactly how long ago those creatures lived; but some of them swam or crawled probably 35,000,000 years before the present moment.

A Fish With a Mighty Mouth.

The first living things are believed to have been plants growing in warm water covering the earth. Then came tiny creatures living in the sea, some of them smaller than the head of a pin.

Larger creatures later came into being—for instance, jellyfish. One of the wonders of science is that we have remains of those early jellyfish, even though they had no bones to leave. At certain spots, mud happened to form around the dead bodies. In the course of time, the mud hardened and became rock. Thus we know something of how the early jellyfish were shaped.

The best remains from that period are of fish. Great numbers died and sank to the bottom of the sea. Mud covered them up, and their bones were saved.

North America arose out of the waters long ages ago. At first it had a far different shape than it has now. There were ocean waters in many parts which are now dry land. For instance, the sea covered large sections of the present Atlantic Coast region. It also rolled over the lower Valley of the Mississippi. Kansas is one of the States which was partly under the sea.

In the waters around North America, one of the chief kinds of fishes was the "Titanichthys." That name was made up by men of science. It means Giant Fish.

The Giant Fish left enough remains to give us at least an idea of how it looked; but we must remember that any picture an artist makes of it is partly guesswork.

It is believed that the Giant Fish sometimes grew to a length of 13 feet. The mouths of some of them could certainly open four feet wide!

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. W. A. EVANS

To the limit of space questions pertaining to hygiene and prevention of disease will be answered in this column. Personal replies will be made to inquiries, under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Dr. Evans will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual disease.

ACUTE EMPYEMA.

DR. R. E. DAVISON, speaking before the Allegheny County Medical Society, on acute empyema, gave information in which the general public has an interest at this particular time.

A fairly large proportion of the cases of pneumonia develop empyema, or more or less purulent fluid in the pleural cavity. This proportion he has known to range from one in twenty in pneumonia in children to nearly one-half the cases of epidemic influenzal pneumonias.

In every case of pneumonia empyema should be suspected if the course of the primary disease is atypical, or if the disease holds on too long, or if there continues to be an afternoon rise of temperature during the convalescence from pneumonia. However, pneumonia is only one of several causes of empyema.

While fever, cough, and sometimes pain in the chest may cause a suspicion of empyema, and while one side of the chest may seem to bulge unduly and not to move much during breathing and these signs may cause a suspicion of empyema, the only way to be certain about it is to put a needle through the chest wall. Speaking of operations on the heart itself, some one said the distance between the skin over the heart and the heart itself is less than one inch, but it took surgeons more than one thousand years to acquire the art to its precautions and using the latest methods, surgeons sometimes open into the heart itself and operate on the valves.

The distance through the skin and chest wall and into the pleural cavity is less than one inch. Ever since the days of Pasteur and Lister traveling this particular route has been regarded as a safe procedure. The introduction of a sterile needle through anesthetized skin into the pleural cavity is scarcely an operation. It is safe, simple, painless and causes no special shock. A few drops of fluid are drawn into the syringe. This is examined microscopically and bacteriologically. Thus the diagnosis is made.

If fluid is found and the case is acute, as a rule the physician follows the needling by inserting a catheter into the pleura and sucking out the pus by means of a simply arranged vacuum apparatus. This is kept up for several days. From time to time the cavity may be washed out with a chlorine solution or some other antiseptic solution.

If the suppuration continues for several weeks, the process should be regarded as chronic and one of the rib-cutting operations should be done.

ATHLETES AND VETERANS.

C. W. P. writes: I have life histories covering the period from July, 1861, to date of four soldiers of the Civil War, three of whom were trained athletes. All were in the same company, were each about 19 years of age when enlisted, and the survivor, the nonathlete, is now nearly 87 years of age, and the three athletes have been dead for three to ten years respectively, and none of the athletes enjoyed as good health since the end of the term of three years of war service as the nonathlete.

Wives of Tomorrow

By FRANCES M'DONALD

Age Speaks to Youth

DEAR Miss McDonald: I am over 50 years of age and the problem presented in your column and your request to your readers appeal to me. The letter you quote seems frank and sincere and I feel that the writer of it has concealed nothing intentionally. We have then, the problem of two young people who love each other sincerely, but during a prolonged engagement have got a little on each others nerves, perhaps, because of too frequent visit and the need of constant self-restraint lest their affection lead them along forbidden paths.

A brief separation seems to have shown that their affection for each other is not a passing whim; but lack of "promotion" and money have somewhat discouraged the young man, who lacks some of the thrift of his sweetheart, as shown by the fact that she has saved $800, while he has saved nothing.

At the risk of making this letter too long let me say that few young men save any money until they have a compelling motive for it. A wife and child will supply the motive to the right man. A young friend of mine told me that he and his sweetheart postponed their marriage because he had only $300. He went to another State to increase his fortune, lost it instead, came back and married with only $40, and the last I heard he was doing very well.

His wife gave me to understand that she was happy; that no further waiting had been decided on.

In my own case I married with about $100 and a job. The job paid me $50 a month. We spent $75 for furniture, I made a few simple articles of furniture myself to conserve our meager resources. My wife was a good manager. She did not work outside the house, except on errands of mercy for which no payment was asked. We saved money from the start, more than I had saved on a larger salary before marriage.

Our first 26 years together ended just after the close of the World War. During that period the salary received had not averaged even during the war—more than $85 a month, though it has increased since then. On this amount (less than $85 a month on the average) we reared three children. All went through high school, and the youngest had two years at college (since then the college course has been completed). Beside that we bought and paid for a modest five-room house, and my chief regret has been that we did not marry sooner.

It is only fair to say that we all had to deny ourselves some things we should have liked. But even millionaires have to do that. No one can get all he would like, unless and until he can say with a very great man, not so much known now as in former days:

"I have learned in whatsoever state I am therewith to be content."

Our modest home was, and is, some miles from the business center. I have never owned an automobile, but have never suffered from that lack, and my son has recently purchased one. If a man can save nothing on a small salary he will run in debt on a larger one.

If, then, we may suppose that our young couples are reasonably well adapted to each other in taste and temperament and education, and if they love each other well enough to make sacrifices and to deny themselves many luxuries and some comfort, I should say let them marry, say, next June.

There is, however, one important proviso. The whole matter must be talked over frankly, and the young man should, in the coming six months, have something. In six months the young man might be able to save $200 or $300. Let the girl put in a like amount, not more, into the common stock, and keep the balance $300 or $600 in the bank in her own name as "an anchor to the underward," a protection for her baby. If the young man has enough strength of character for this, I believe they will be glad in ten years that they did not delay longer.

"For they who wait for gold and gear,
For houses and for kine,
Till loves sweet spring be brown and sere
And youth and beauty, tyne,
Can never know the joy of heart,
That met without a fear,
When you had but your violin,
And I a song, my dear."

If what I have written proves any help I shall be more than repaid for the writing.

I do not always see your column, but I have found it interesting and I believe it must be a real help to those to whom it is addressed, and that is why I take the trouble to respond to your appeal.

WORK'S BRIDGE

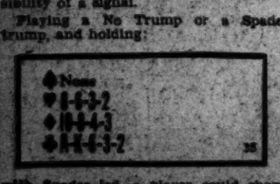
IN AUCTION BRIDGE there is nothing about the discarding that a Declarer of any ability finds difficult. He can see which cards he can part with most advantageously, and he does not have to show Dummy which suit to lead; but in the play of the adversaries, discarding is informatory and important because it indicates which suit the partner is to lead.

Various complicated systems of discarding have been used; such as the "rotary," the "odd and even," and "always discard from strength"; but all have been rejected by experts. The inexperienced player should not permit himself to be bothered by them, but should use the weakness discard which meets every possible requirement.

Using the weakness discard, a discard says, "I am weak in this suit; please do not lead it unless I discard an unnecessarily high card." Ordinarily the lowest card in hand of the suit is discarded; for example, discarding from 8-5-2, the Deuce would be the first discard and the Five the second. But if the discards are reversed (for example, first the Five and then the Deuce from the above combination) it would be a "signal." While it would be a signal to play the Five and then the Deuce, player might better play the Eight and then the Deuce from 8-5-2 to make the signal more obvious.

The signal means that the signaller wants his partner to lead the suit from which the reverse discard is made. A signal by double discard necessarily shortens the suit; when two cards of a suit can not be spared, the information frequently can be given by discarding one small card from each of the other two suits. By negative inference this indicates a preference for the remaining suit because a discard of the lowest card of a suit shows positive weakness in that suit and negatives all possibility of a signal.

Playing a No Trump or a Spade trump, and holding:



with Spades led, a player could show Clubs by discarding the Trey and then the Deuce, or the Six and then the Deuce of that suit (the former would be easier for the partner to notice), or by discarding the lowest Heart and then the lowest Diamond; the signal in Clubs, however would be a more imperative call for a Club lead than merely showing weakness in the other two suits.

"Window Shopping"

Unusual Frock and Coat.

A most unusual frock to take to the South is made of white crepe de chine, sleeveless, of course, and is topped by a cardigan made of silk, which is striped vertically in brilliant blue and yellow-green stripes, very wide and striking. The dress has two separate belts, one of the blue and the other of the green.

Gray-Green.

A dull gray-green, a shade much in vogue at present, is used to much advantage in a coat for the masculine member of the family for Southern wear. With white flannels and a necktie of green and white in a very small pattern, the effect is extremely good.

Hat for the Young Girl.

The young thing who journeys South will be correctly and becomingly hatted if her wardrobe includes a small hat made of yellow crepe de chine stitched in an all-over pattern of the same color.

New Bathing Bag.

A large bag, which will be most convenient upon the bathing beach, is covered with jersey in a series of small stripes in cream, tan, brown, &c. A bag of this sort will look extremely well with the wool bathing suit.

Traveling Clock.

Tick tock, tick tock, goes a small traveling clock of silver, oblong in shape and protected by a case of silver, which opens in the middle and forms panels on either side.

TODAY'S WOMEN

FEBRUARY 4.

ONE of the leaders in modern feminine thought, Sarah Norcliffe Cleghorn, was born this day at Norfolk, Va., 1876.

In 1907 her "A Turnpike Lady" was published. "The Spinster" was published in 1916. In the same year she collaborated with Dorothy Canfield Fisher in writing "Fellow Captains." In 1917 she wrote "Portraits and Protests."

Miss Cleghorn is noted as a pacifist, socialist and antivivisectionist. She was graduated from Burr and Burton Seminary, Manchester, Vt., in 1895, and the following year studied at Radcliffe College.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST

CHOICE.

I would rather not have been than ever have it said
I lived and failed a living trust or failed my fellow dead.

I would rather not have been than have to be and know
That I have played the cheat for gain and sold myself for show.

Though not by choice I came to earth to walk with low and high
'Tis mine to choose the sort of man
I'll be the day I die.

And none shall say I lied for gold, and none shall say of me
I ever failed my fellow man who cried for sympathy.

Let tricksters laugh behind my back and sharpers at me sneer,
I'll take a temporary loss and keep my conscience clear.

For since I'm forced to walk through life I'll walk with head erect
And, though I miss the goals I seek,
I'll keep my self-respect.

What Today Means to You

FEBRUARY 4

"AQUARIUS."

IF today is your birthday, the most propitious hours for you today are from 9 a. m. to 10:15 a. m., from noon to 1:15 p. m., from 4 p. m. to 5 p. m., and from 9:15 p. m. to 11 p. m. The danger periods are from 2 p. m. to 3 p. m., and from 6 p. m. to 7 p. m.

Beware of false hunches today, for the aspects condemn rash moves in the financial world! The person who has carefully considered and studied the details of an affair will succeed. The day is not favorable for speculation or hazard.

The child born today will be genial and clever. The stars portend that it will have great social success in later years. It will wish for companionship at all times, and it would be wise to gratify this desire as much as possible. It will be very discriminating, and care should be taken that it does not develop into a "snob."

You are neat and tidy, and carry this to extremes in your daily life. Tidiness, physically, is essential in the world of today, but you carry your penchant too far. You have earned in some circles, the name of "Fussy." You are very careful about financial matters and always strive to have money in the bank for a "rainy day." To those, who adopt the creed, "easy come, easy go," you bear an intense dislike and are never slow in condemning them as parasites. You should restrain your tongue, as it is much apt to say things which you regret.

You are very fond of travel and if the means present themselves, you will probably see a great deal of the world. Your temper is rather quick, especially in matters where your servants or inferiors have erred in doing some task, which directly affects you. Bear in mind, that to be angry about trifles is mean and childish—but to prevent and suppress rising resentment is wise and commendable. Try to be more rational and sane in your decisions, and you will find your life running much more smoothly.

HOUSES FOR SALE

A PRIVATELY BUILT STONE RESIDENCE OF OUTSTANDING ARCHITECTURAL MERIT
—Now Available on Account of Change in Plans of Owner

Unquestionably one of the finest situated homes in the entire city; a short block off 16th st., overlooking the wooded hills of Rock Creek Park, with a view of the new cathedral in the distance. The grounds, having a combined frontage of 170 ft. on two streets, with tall shade trees and artistic landscaping, provide a setting thoroughly in keeping with the beautiful lines of the house. Only your personal inspection of the home can adequately reveal the well-conceived floor plan, splendid appointments and beauty of finish that characterize the inviting interior of the house itself. Briefly, the house contains nine rooms, three baths, first-floor servants' quarters and, on the third floor, a spacious ballroom,—with, of course, electric refrigeration, all burner and the many conveniences that are a part of the present-day well-ordered home. There is garage for two cars. Offered at a very conservative figure, with the necessity of disposing of the property practically at once, this unusually desirable home presents an outstanding opportunity to acquire the type of residence that is too often held at entirely prohibitive prices.

ACTION PREDICTED DURING WEEK ON 3 CAPITAL MEASURES

Appropriation Bill, Merger Plan and Pay Act Are to Be Considered.

DISTRICT FUNDS MAY TOTAL $10,000,000

Street Car Plan Seems Sure to Be Deferred; Welch Corrections Rushed.

From a purely local standpoint this should be an interesting week on Capitol Hill. The prospect is that there will be important developments in connection with three important measures—the District of Columbia appropriation bill, the merger resolution and the bill to liberalize the Welch salary bill for Government workers.

Senator Bingham (Republican), of Connecticut, hopes to have the District appropriation bill ready to introduce some time today. It is expected to provide more money than authorized by the House and to carry a Federal appropriation of close to $10,000,000.

The Senate District committee is scheduled to meet tomorrow to take final action on the joint resolution authorizing a merger of the local street railways, and the indications are that the resolution will be favorably reported to the Senate without the Blaine amendment.

The truth is, however, that there seems to be little chance of the resolution being adopted at the short session. Senator Blaine (Republican), of Wisconsin, has indicated that unless his amendment—which provides that utilities be evaluated on the prudent investment plan—is accepted he will fight the resolution on the floor.

On the other hand, if the committee accepts the Blaine amendment, it is probable that a dozen or more senators would fight the resolution. Moreover, it is understood that the traction companies would refuse to merge if the amendment were grafted onto the resolution.

Chairman Lehlbach, of the House civil service committee, has been working for several days on the report that is to accompany the Brookhart-Lehlbach salary bill, and probably will have it ready to submit to the House early this week.

The Brookhart-Lehlbach bill, which already has been favorably reported to the House, is designed to give a large number of employes the salaries Congress intended they should get under the Welch act.

Drugs Found on Two Men Held in Robbery

Arrested early yesterday morning by Maryland State Policeman Blizzard for investigation in connection with the attempted robbery early Saturday night of a filling station at Ellicott, Md., two negroes, who gave New York City addresses, were found to have in their possession a quantity of narcotics, hypodermic needles and syringes.

The prisoners, who are being held for the Department of Justice at the Ellicott jail, gave the names of George Butler and James Stear. The men were riding in an automobile at the time of their apprehension and police are seeking to trace the ownership of it, working on the theory that it is a stolen machine.

Rib Broken in Attempt To Escape Death Cause

Gregoria Torres, 28-year-old Spanish sailor, who died at St. Elizabeths January 20 from a fractured rib, is believed to have suffered his injury during a scuffle with attendants at the hospital when he made an effort to escape January 20, following a long period of hysteria during which he is said to have "sung himself about his room."

Torres, according to hospital officials, came to the institution about January 15 from the Marine Hospital at Baltimore, Md. He was suffering from dementia praecox, officials said. His relatives live in Barcelona, Spain.

Professional Christian Assailed by Wilkinson

"Professional Christianity Is Replacing Sacrificing Christianity," Dr. B. G. Wilkinson, dean of theology of the Washington Missionary College, told an audience last night at the Arcadia.

The speaker declared: "Today church lobbying is filling the land with indescribable hypocrisy." He predicted that "unbridled crime and war on a staggering scale is on the way unless the church is again able to impress upon men the fear of sinning with such force that they would willingly die, if need be, to uphold righteousness."

Gov. Fisher to Attend Inaugural Ceremonies

Among the prominent visitors to the inaugural of Herbert Hoover will be Gov. John S. Fisher of Pennsylvania, with members of his cabinet and officers of the Pennsylvania National Guard.

Many Pennsylvania citizens also will attend, it was announced yesterday, including the entire Republican State committee. During Gov. Fisher's stay here, his official colors will hang over the Pennsylvania avenue entrance of the Willard Hotel, where the party will make its headquarters.

DISTRICT MAN HELD IN HIJACKING CASE

Thomas Croughan Caught in Act of Changing License Plates on Car.

ROBBERY IN MARYLAND

Thomas Croughan, 23 years old, of 1325 Tenth street northwest, said by police to be a member of the trio of hijackers who early yesterday morning stole a liquor-laden automobile near Hyattsville, Md., was brought in by a police dragnet established here yesterday to apprehend the hijackers.

Croughan, police say, was in the act of changing the license plates on the new light roadster used by the hijackers when he was arrested yesterday afternoon by Detective Sergts. E. E. Thompson and Thomas Nally in front of his home. Croughan's name and description had been furnished by James Lane, colored, the victim, who gave his address as 1645 Thirteenth street northwest.

Lane, police say, reported to Chief of Police C. M. Blanchard, of Hyattsville, that he was driving in a small coach with a load of corn whisky along the Baltimore pike toward Washington early yesterday morning. Near Hyattsville, he said, Croughan and his companions appeared alongside in the roadster, displayed guns and forced him to stop his automobile.

After halting Lane the trio seized both Lane's car and the liquor. Police believe that the double theft of both car and liquor led to the "squeal" to Hyattsville police by Lane, irked by the theft of his automobile.

Chief of Police Blanchard swore out a warrant for the arrest of Croughan as a fugitive from justice. He is charged in another warrant with highway robbery.

Croughan was held yesterday at the First Precinct police station pending the outcome of trial in Police Court today on the fugitive-from-justice charge. If the charge is sustained and he refuses to agree to his return to Maryland authorities, he will be remanded to jail for a period of 1 to 30 days while Chief of Police Blanchard presses extradition charges.

Celebration Slated By Patriotic Union

District Federation Plans to Observe Washington's Birth With Rites.

The District of Columbia Federation for Patriotic Observance plans to hold a celebration Friday morning, February 22, at Poli's Theater, in celebration of the 197th anniversary of the birth of George Washington.

The federation is composed of nearly 100 civic, fraternal, patriotic and social organizations in the District and has been in existance since 1924, when it was organized at the instance of Cuno H. Rudolph, at that time Commissioner.

President and Mrs. Coolidge will receive an invitation to attend the celebration, as well as other prominent officials in the Federal and District governments. Brig. Gen. George Richards, of the United States Marines, is chairman of the executive committee of the federation, while Dr. Thomas E. Green is vice chairman. Other members include Maj. Lawrence C. Crawford, Reeves T. Strickland, Harlan Wood, Edgar B. Meritt, Dr. Cloyd H. Marvin and Mrs. Henry F. Dimock.

$235 Collateral Paid by Speeders

Ten Arrested by Policemen of Thirteenth Precinct; One Posts $100.

Ten persons were arrested yesterday in the Thirteenth Precinct on charges of speeding made by Policemen E. C. Moore and A. H. Poole. A total of $235 in collateral was exacted of those arrested.

The victims and the amount of collateral were Ralph Edward Ruby, 37 years old, 1721 Twenty-first street northwest, $100; Fred Rose, 48, 1696 Kramer street northeast, $20; Charles Williams, 17, 1431 Meridian place, released to appear in court; John McPherson, 26, 3489 Holmead place, $50; Frederick Hammel, 19, Catonsville Md., $16; Frank Phelan, 23, Ludlow, Vt., $20; Lawrence Jullihn, 15, 4320 Eighth street northwest, released in custody of his father, Carl Jullihn; Albert Wheeler, jr., 17, of Baltimore, $10; Arnold Swernoss, 29, Roosevelt Hotel, released to appear in court, and Maurice McDonnell, 36, 1929 Eighteenth street, $20.

Man's Skull Fractured In Fall on Icy Step

Cold weather claimed another victim early yesterday when Raymond Nicholson, of 1424 Ives place southeast, slipped on an icy step while leaving a house on Dubois street southeast.

He was taken to Casualty Hospital, where he was treated for a fractured skull. His condition was said to be very serious.

Mrs. Wilson Visits Tomb of President

Brother Only Other Mourner in Cathedral on the Fifth Anniversary of Death.

Yesterday was the fifth anniversary of the death of Woodrow Wilson, twenty-eighth President, but there was no pilgrimage to his tomb in Washington Cathedral.

In marked contrast to the tributes from foreign lands and the United States that signalized his death on February 3, 1924, there was but one wreath and only a few visitors there yesterday.

Attendants at Bethlehem Chapel said the wreath did not bear the name of the sender and that the only persons to visit the tomb aside from sightseers were the widow of the former President and her brother.

JOINT BOARD WILL VISIT SCHOOL SITES

Congressional Committee to Make Tour of Places for New Buildings.

EXTRA MONEY POSSIBLE

A joint congressional committee, headed by Senator Bingham and Representative Simmons, who have led the fight in the Senate and House, respectively, for passage of the District appropriation bill, will make a tour of the city today for the purpose of inspecting the many sites proposed for the location of new schools by members of the Board of Education.

Today's visit to the proposed school sites will mark the first time a joint congressional committee has ever undertaken a project of this nature. The great interest certain members of the Senate and House District committees have taken in school legislation during the present session of Congress is most gratifying to members of the Board of Education and leads them to believe that a "new era" of "necessary school legislation" has come.

The joint congressional committee, it is understood, not only will inspect sites for which appropriations already have been asked but will look over prospective sites which have been considered should additional funds become available.

When the District appropriations bill is reported to the Senate, today probably, it is expected to carry a provision for the establishment of a teachers' college, with a proviso that only 50 per cent of graduates of local normal schools shall be given priority in the matter of obtaining teaching positions in the elementary schools. Heretofore, all graduates of the local normal schools have been given priority in appointment to the elementary school teaching staff. The bill as passed by the House several weeks ago contained a provision granting the first 25 per cent only priority in the matter of appointment.

School officials have felt that the local normal school graduates should be given priority unless they were given an opportunity to take a course similar to that given in a teachers' college. If the provision in the Senate bill which would establish a teachers' college here passes, then school officials are willing to open up for outside competition all jobs in the public school system.

New G Street Traffic Lights Are Turned On

The new traffic lights on G street, between Ninth and Fourteenth streets northwest, were turned on yesterday at a ceremony held at the fire station on Twelfth street, near G.

Isaac Gans pressed the button that flashed the lights on. William Harland, traffic director, and M. O. Eldridge, assistant traffic director, were present. Police were stationed at every corner along the route until motorists became accustomed to the new signals.

Auto Seized, Pair Held On Two Liquor Charges

Emmett Hutchinson, 35 years old, 1316 Belmont street, and James Ruane, 34 years old, 2006 Fourteenth street northwest, were arrested yesterday at Fourteenth and U streets northwest, on a charge of illegal possession and transporting whisky.

An automobile in which they were riding and one gallon of alleged whisky were seized. William McEwin and H. M. Smith, of the Eighth Precinct, made the arrests.

Librarian Addresses Forum.

Edward Young, of the Congressional Library, discussed the Bahai religion at a meeting yesterday afternoon of the Washington Open Forum. He described the religious belief, which originated among the East Indian race, as a "brotherhood of men." The speaker also commented on the present-day conditions in India.

GIRL WHO WON POST CONTEST IS ELATED

Miss Janet Coon Calls Keen Pleasure of Friends Her Greatest Satisfaction.

SURPRISED AT INTEREST

Reflection has convinced Miss Janet Coon, 19-year-old winner of The Washington Post-Mary Pickford contest, that she could never have won without her friends.

And it is because of these friends that she derives her greatest satisfaction in having won. "It may sound like a fairy tale," she said, but had I lost the disappointment of my friends would have hurt me more than the actual loss of the trip."

Miss Coon polled the majority of her votes among the Government departments and fraternal organizations. Then, too, the residents of Takoma Park came to her aid, and in the last weeks of the contest they conducted a campaign that was as elaborate as any political one.

Victory on Last Day.

The young girl was not certain of victory until the last day. In fact, she admitted, she was a little worried up to that time; but the last day came and with it victory. Votes began coming to her home by mail, by special messenger and private autos. Altogether she received nearly 11,000 that day, placing her several thousand votes ahead of her nearest competitor.

She was not informed of her victory until Saturday night a few minutes before The Post went on the street. She received the news at the Presbyterian Church, where she was attending a meeting of the dramatic association, "the Paint and Powder Club."

The meeting broke up and all the girls and boys went over to her home, where they painted a large sign, reading "Janet Coon Wins," which they attached to the family automobile. With much blowing of the horn they rode through downtown Washington.

Miss Coon said she had no plans for the future. Her position as secretary to the manager of the team room at Woodward & Lothrop is being held for her, she said. Several theaters have offered her engagements when she returns, she said, but sh has not accepted any as yet.

Surprised at Great Interest.

Miss Coon said she was surprised at the amount of interest the contest had created. Everywhere people talked about it—on the streets, in public buildings and on the street cars.

Since the announcement of her victory, she has received thousands of congratulatory messages. A large number of the contestants who lost have called her and extended their good wishes.

Miss Coon will leave in company with Miss Elisabeth Poe, her chaperon, Friday afternoon, at 3:10 o'clock. In the meantime, she said, she has much shopping and packing to do.

She lives at 23 Denwood street, Takoma Park, Md., with her father, Byron Coon, special attorney in the Internal Revenue Bureau; her mother, Mrs. Mary Elizabeth Coon; a brother, Paul, and a sister, Betty.

Veterans to See Dixie Ball Tonight

Mrs. Coolidge Head of List of Patrons for U. D. C. Social Events.

Mrs. Coolidge will head the list of patrons of the Dixie ball of the Robert E. Lee Chapter of the United Daughters of the Confederacy at the Mayflower Hotel this evening, Mrs. Walter A. Hutton, chairman of the ball, announced yesterday.

A special box has been reserved for Confederate veterans, who will be guests of honor. Descendants of veterans have also taken many boxes. Miss C. Blanche Sinclair, president of the chapter, will preside at the receiving line.

Among those attending will be Gen. and Mrs. Henry P. McCain, Admiral and Mrs. Washington L. Capps, Mrs. Joseph E. Thropp, and descendants of President Jefferson Davis, Gen. Robert E. Lee, Gen. "Stonewall" Jackson, Gen. John S. Marmaduke and Capt. Peyton G. Richardson. Jean Marie Weaver and Mary Beth Adams will present two dances. John Chumbley is chairman of the floor committee.

Two Bicyclists Collide With Parked Autos

Two youths were treated by Dr. Leon Gordon at Emergency Hospital last night for injuries received when the bicycles they were riding collided with parked automobiles. They were Lester Bauserman, 20 years old, of Ballston, Va., and Bernard Foss, 14 years old, of 924 Massachusetts avenue northwest.

Both suffered lacerations to the forehead, but the condition of neither is serious. Foss' bicycle collided at Eleventh street and New York avenue northwest, while Bauserman's mishap occurred on Connecticut avenue, near L street northwest.

EXCLUSION OF ALIEN IN CENSUS URGED TO BOOST PROHIBITION

Inclusion Would Affect New House Apportionment, Says Representative.

AMENDMENT PROPOSED AT DRY MASS MEETING

Foreign Populations in Cities Considered as Favorable to Fight of Wets.

Fear of the influence the alien population of the United States will have on prohibition led Representative Franklin Menges (Republican), of Pennsylvania, to urge their exclusion from the next census, in speaking yesterday afternoon at a mass meeting for law enforcement in the Luther Place Memorial Church.

The inclusion of these aliens in the next "enumeration" would swell the number of representatives from certain sections of the country where the people are opposed to the temperance movement, he asserted.

We are all aliens in a sense, he continued, but "our ancestors helped establish the Constitution and we voted for the eighteenth amendment." That the alien population may not be included in the number of persons accredited to a representative, the Pennsylvanian advocated an amendment to the Constitution.

Representative Menges further warned the drys that the antiprohibitionists will attempt to regain their lost power in the confusion of congressional reapportionment.

Seventeen States that now send more than half of all the representatives in Congress, he pointed out, will lose from one to three representatives each. The wets will try to prevent these States from being redistricted, thereby necessitating the election of representatives at large, he said.

Should this happen, the cities—the strongholds of the wets—would have the preponderance, he continued. With these victories the wets would then begin an onslaught against the eighteenth amendment, he added.

Representative Menges began his talk by pointing out that our industrial system is essentially one of mass production and that "mass consumption and rum consumption" are not congenial. He extolled Henry Ford's stand on the whisky problem and his attitude toward labor.

The speaker said the United States must make prohibition a success, as the other nations of the world are watching, and unless this country makes it a success, prohibition will never become universal. With universal prohibition a fact, the other nations could soon pay off their war debts, he said.

Clinton N. Howard followed Representative Menges. "The law," he said, "is being nullified from one ocean to the other. Homes are being converted into stills and wildcat breweries; stores of every variety are being camouflaged into places of distribution as substitute saloons.

"And yet, while America burns with alcoholic eruptions and the handwriting flashes on the wall, Congress fiddles and splits hairs over a penny-ante appropriation in defense of the Constitution."

Officers Elected By State Society

South Dakota Group Plans to Observe Anniversary of Union Entry.

At the annual meeting of the South Dakota Society at the Burlington Hotel yesterday afternoon, plans were made to celebrate the fortieth anniversary of statehood next November.

The new officers elected are W. Harry King, editor of the Merchant Fleet News, president; George Henry, Louise Phillips and Catherine Dice, vice presidents; Francis Davison, secretary; Dow Laurson, assistant secretary; Jens Ottemess, treasurer, and Harry Davison, sergant at arms. President King appointed Martin Olmem, Russell T. Edwards and Arthur Brown as members of a committee on organization for the statehood dinner.

Representative Charles A. Christopherson, of South Dakota, the retiring president, presided at the dinner at which were little bags of South Dakota sugar and pictures of the corn palace at Mitchell for place cards. The roll call during the dinner showed that Rapid City had more members present than any other locality.

BELASCO

After many years in the moth balls "Oh, Boy," a farcical musical comedy that graced the stage for several seasons, is brought back to the footlights this week by the Savoy Musical Comedy Company at the Belasco Theater. Be it said in passing, the Belasconians make of it a very likable offering.

Music by Jerome Kern, one of the real melody makers of America, the score of "Oh, Boy" has several lilting tunes that will be recalled by theatergoers immediately the orchestra tunes up; among them being "Till the Clouds Roll By." It falls to the lot of Frank Gallagher and Renee Hamilton to sing this song, and they do it to the queen's taste. Another melodious offering, "An Old-Fashioned Wife," is sung by Helen Ault, the Washington girl, who is now being featured with the company.

In the olden days of musical comedy there was an effort made to make songs understandable by having the singers so enunciate that the auditors "knew what it was all about." In recent years, one of the faults of the faster-moving shows is that they get away from this sort of thing. The Belasconians have this in their favor; the principals sing so that even those in the back row can catch the words, as well as the music—and that, in this day and generation, is something.

"Oh, Boy" without music, is straight farce and a good one. The book built by Guy Bolton and the lyrics written by P. G. Wodehouse fit like a glove into the score; or, perhaps, it's vice versa. At any rate, the thing works. It has to do, incidentally, with a young fellow and the troubles that overtake him on his marriage night.

Aside from Helen Ault, another Washington favorite of the music halls, steps into the limelight when Mary Deery, of St. Patrick Players' fame, contributes a dance.

Of course, the bulk of the honors fall to Miss Helen Ault, to Miss Renee Hamilton, to Frank Gallagher and to Bob Capron, the comedian of the company.

All told, a good evening in the theater—even if there are spots that seem somewhat slow, at times; but "Oh, Boy" should certainly improve with one or two more playings.

THE NEW WEEK'S BILLS

PALACE

"THE AWAKENING." United Artists sound-picture with songs but no dialogue, starring Vilma Banky, supported by Walter Byron and Louis Wolheim. Directed by Victor Fleming. Reviewed Saturday night.

By NELSON B. BELL.

It is a more capricious Vilma Banky than I have ever seen who pirouettes through the greater part of this her first individual starring vehicle. Indeed, it seems to have been so much the desire to make it clear that the beautiful Hungarian is at last a star in her own right, that the action almost unfailingly alternates between her own diverting but unessential coquetries and dramatic climaxes rather more violent that the preceding developments have semed to warrant. Frances Marion's drama thus becomes a vivid study in high lights and deep shadows, unrelieved by any of the softer middle tones. Marie Ducrot is either having the time of her life or is plunged in most poignant anguish.

If it had not been a successful Belasco production so many years ago, I should say that Miss Marion had fallen under the spell of "Marie Odile." The dominant characters in her play are a simple pastoral maid living peacefully in Alsace-Lorraine a year or two before the war, and Lieut. Count Karl von Hagen, in command of a detachment of Uhlan cavalry billeted in the village for spring maneuvers—or may be it was fall. At any rate, the attachment that springs up between the two is wholly misinterpreted by the yokels of the countryside, who call Lebold, Marie's bucolic fiance, to assist in smearing pitch upon her dooryard—the badge of dishonor placed upon the abodes of those who have sacrificed chastity to love.

The brutal injustice of this impulsive betrayal of distrust kills Marie's aged grandfather and drives her to the sheltering solace of a cloistered convent when every one believes her dead. It takes the war to provide opportunity for Von Hagan to demonstrate the honesty of his devotion and Lebold a chance to atone for a grievous blunder—which he does with his life.

Miss Banky, as Marie, is irresistibly lovely. She is also as convincing as Miss Marion has permitted her to be and more versatile in pantomime than the screen has ever before found her. In the opposite role of Von Hagen, Walter Byron, a newcomer from England, I believe, is handsome, graceful and impeccably groomed, but, to me, not especially forceful. A likely matinee idol, nevertheless. Louis Wolheim is effective in an exaggerated role and excellent support is accorded the principals by William Orlamond, George Davis, Carl von Hartman, Babe London and Yola d'Avril.

The scenic splendors selected for the picture's background have seldom been surpassed and music has, for once, been made a potent aid to drama. Dr. Hugo Reisenfeld's score is eminently helpful, and a Uhlan marching song by a male ensemble, and the "Ave Maria," by a feminine, are intelligently introduced and magnificently sung.

The "Barcelona" revue, staged by Boris Petroff, affords Wesley Eddy and his syncopators—including a valuable addition by the name of Billy Gilbert, violinist and comedian—a more generous outlet than usual, and introduces also Joe and Jane McKenna, comedy dancers; Ross McLean, tenor; Renee and Evelyn, Spanish dancers; Jack North, singing comedian, and the Dorothy Berke Girls.

The M-G-M and Fox Movietone newsreels and the customary organ and orchestral features complete the bill.

EARLE

"SCARLET SEAS." A First National picture, starring Richard Barthelmess, supported by Betty Compson and Loretta Young. Directed by John Francis Dillon. Reviewed Saturday night by Mary Porter Russell.

Richard Barthelmess and Betty Compson are having their tribulations on Stanley-Crandall's Thirteenth street screen this week, although ennui is not one of the afflictions from which they suffer. Neither will you if you file your way in to investigate their troubles. The statement is meant as a guarantee. "Scarlet Seas" may not be your favorite type of picture—you may not be one who dotes on seeing the hero of a wild-wave movie emerge breathless but triumphant from the combined obstacles imposed by villainy, fate and the sea—but, even at worst, you will be left with eyes wide open. So red-blooded is the story and so teeming with action that it finds no trouble in doing away with boredom. It might even cure anemia, if the patient were receptive.

You will agree that the kidnaping of an unwilling bride, followed by caveman love making at sea, is enough in itself to provide the theme of an ordinary film. Haven't we had examples of that too numerous to mention? Well, the kidnaping is only an incident at the beginning of "Scarlet Seas"—something to keep up interest until the ship burns and Betty and Dick escape in a lifeboat and pledge their love and also get religion, but nearly die of thirst before being rescued by a ship on which they become involved in a mutiny, during which Betty fights Dick and virtue, all on account of unwarranted jealousy, but finds herself happy at last in Dick's arms.

Only a small portion of the complications have been mentioned, at that! There is really enough material for three or four or five pictures, the author having seemingly worked on the premise that if a story can't be startlingly original it can at least be startlingly full.

Whatever his motive, one should be grateful to him for providing the basis for the skillful directing, acting and photography that unite to make an evening of exhilarating adventure. Any lover of sea life will enjoy the background; any admirer of Dick Barthelmess will be pleased with his very capable performance, though it is not one of his outstanding characterizations, and any one who feels as I do about Betty Compson will hope she will some day be starred again, with her name as big as Dick's own. Loretta Young and Knute Erickson do credit to supporting roles.

Two short pictures lend their vocal accomplishments as supplementaries to the silent feature film. The first, presenting Jack Norworth in "Songs and Things," is not particularly noteworthy, but the second is funny and refreshingly different. It is splendidly acted, too, though the names of the all-colored cast vanished before they could be noted for individual mention. "The Melancholy Dame" is its title.

It should be added that Mr. Breeskin and his orchestra are on hand for the major portion of the bill and that their overture, "Favorite Classics," is embellished by solo selections, notably a violin offering of rare beauty.

"If I Were King" Given By Evelyn Gurley-Kane

Dramatization of "If I Were King" was presented before a group of art and literary enthusiasts at the Willard Hotel yesterday afternoon by Evelyn Gurley-Kane, of New York City, former director of dramatic art at the Bush Temple Conservatory in Chicago.

This was the first of a series of dramatic recitations to be offered here by Miss Gurley-Kane.

METROPOLITAN

"THE REDEEMING SIN." Warner Bros. sound and dialogue picture, costarring Dolores Costello and Conrad Nagel. Directed by Howard Bretherton. Reviewed Saturday afternoon.

If analogies were necessary, it might be said that this most recent of the Warners' partially audible releases is slightly reminiscent of Victor Hugo or possibly somewhat remotely based upon the motif of Wolf-Ferrari's opera of "The Jewels of the Madonna." Its locale is Paris and its scenes shift from a Montmartre dive to the apartment of a young physician, the sewers celebrated in "Les Miserables" and the church presided over by Father Colomb, an important figure in the story of a vengeful cocotte whose "redeeming sin" was in expiation for the supposed murder of the only man she had ever loved.

Dolores Costello is cast in the vivid role of the blonde whose life is made bitter by the death of her small brother, Petit; Conrad Nagel as the doctor. These are the pivotal characters, with Lionel Belmore impersonating the parish priest and Warner Richmond and George Stone assuming the sinister parts of Jetteur, expert knife thrower and leader of the underworld plunderers, and "Monkey Face," most adroit of the pickpocketa, respectively. None contributes anything distinguished, either in action or dialogue, to the development of an interesting but unimportant picture.

Miss Costello plays with rather more variety of expression than usual, and Mr. Nagel, of course, dominates the spoken portions of the play with his splendid microphone voice. Warner Richmond is highly satisfactory to the eye, but lacks impressiveness of voice, which can not at all be said of Mr. Belmore, a veteran of classic drama, who gains appreciably by becoming audible. Master Phillipe De Lacey is, as always, charming in the brief role of Petit.

Rather better than the feature, all things considered, is the all-talking comedy, "The Eligible Mr. Bangs," presented as foremost of the auxiliary offerings, with Edward Everett Horton, Johnny Arthur, Ann Forrest and a feminine player whose name eluded me, comprising the competent cast. This abbreviated drawing-room comedy proved cleverly amusing and extremely well done.

Another Vitaphone short subject that met with favor was supplied by Sam Coslow, popular song writer, and June Clyde, a capable blonde assistant, in a cycle of Mr. Coslow's most recent compositions.

The Pathe Sound News disclosed vast improvement in recording in unreeling a considerable succession of events prominent in the week's headlines, and Fannie Brice furnished no little amusement in a trailer for "My Man," which turned out to be more than a mere announcement of the theater's next attraction. COLUMBIA

"ALIAS JIMMY VALENTINE." Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer sound-picture with dialogue and music. Directed by Jack Conway, with William Haines, supported by Lionel Barrymore, Leila Hyams, Karl Dane and Tully Marshall. Reviewed Sunday afternoon by C. Ransom.

The camera, with the benefit of a cast that might as well be called "all-star" as anything soberer, revives and invigorates a good old melodrama that had its heyday almost 20 years ago, when crooks were just as crooked and went straight as sympathetically as they do on the screen today. The result is lively and amusing entertainment, with the satisfaction of intelligent direction and clever photography, leading to a stirring dramatic climax that is heightened by one of the most successful talking sequences so far produced.

The only objection to Jimmy Valentine as he is screened is that he is too much alias William Haines. History does not record that Jimmy was one of those offensive "fresh guys" so often celebrated by this smart young player, but it seems that William must be William, even if Jimmy is made over. William proves, however, that he can act, vocally as well as actively, and he certainly needs assurance enough in Jimmy's fascinating battle of wits with Doyle the detective.

This scene with Doyle again brings Lionel Barrymore's voice to the screen, and the work of this veteran artist, even in so brief a passage, is enough to make the episode noteworthy.

Jimmy Valentine, as the world knows, is a young crook with a genius in his fingertips for opening safes, who turns straight and becomes a bank cashier, all for the love of the banker's daughter. The detective, Doyle, finds out where he is and comes to arrest him. Jimmy's job is to make the banker believe Doyle is all wrong, and he ends by almost convincing even the detective. Then his sweetheart's little sister gets locked in the vault, nobody knows the combination, and, what do you suppose that noble Jimmy does?

Leila Hyams is surely among the most beautiful of all bankers' daughters and has only to be herself to untwist the crooked Jimmy. Karl Dane and Tully Marshall, as Jimmy's colaborers in the looting profession, are richly amusing, as nice criminals should be.

The Columbia has a remarkable secondary feature this week in the film record of the Graf Zeppelin's Atlantic voyage, with sound effects and an explanatory talk by Lady Drummond Hay, the only woman passenger, who tells most charmingly of her adventures.

The Fox Movietone News and an M-G-M newsreel, both interesting, complete the excellent program.

NATIONAL

A charming melange illustrating the admixture of modern German business efficiency with the quaintness of an ancient civilization was presented by E. M. Newman in the third of his series of Traveltalks at the National yesterday. The lecturer explained that "to understand the Germany of today it is necessary to forget the Germany that was."

Doubtless, he had in mind the absence of military uniforms on the streets of Berlin and the absence of the tinsel courts of the various former princelings in other parts of the reich. But to one member of the audience, at least, the most pleasing parts of his lecture and the most charming of his pictures were those that dealt with "the Germany that was." It is much easier to become interested in the magnificence of an ancient Gothic cathedral, in the masterpieces of art and sculpture—all of which modern Germany inherited from her monarchical predecessors—than in barnlike railroad stations or moderate sized office buildings housing new German business organizations. The latter can be seen duplicated or excelled in any American city of more than 100,000.

Outstanding among the views exhibited by Mr. Newman in this particular lecture are the glimpses he gives of those parts of Bavaria unspoiled by the encroachments of a more rapid but less charming age. His views of Oberammergau, famed for its Passion Play, of the palaces erected by the so-called mad King Ludwig II, and the scenes in the famous Black Forest, are the things that will remain with his listeners. All in all, yesterday's offering was quite up to the high standard set in the previous Traveltalks and the capacity house which greeted the lecturer augurs well for the future of such affairs.

FOX

"THE LITTLE WILDCAT." Warner Bros. sound-picture with dialogue sequences, featuring Doris Dawson, Audrey Ferris, George Fawcett and Robert Edeson. Directed by Ray Enright. Reviewed Sunday afternoon.

The most impressive bit disclosed at the Fox this week is the Movietone News' brief visualization of Abraham Lincoln's farewell to his fellow townspeople of Springfield, Ill., upon leaving them for his first inauguration in Washington. George Billings, who played the part in the feature-length production, "Abraham Lincoln," appears in the role of Lincoln and manages to get into the few lines allotted him something of the feeling the great emancipator must have felt upon that solemn occasion.

Next in merit I should rate Prof. Robert Benchley's utterly nonsensical lecture upon "The Sex Life of the Polyp," a slightly daring excursion into the intimacies of existence as encountered by the little-known polyp, with which Prof. Benchley seems to have become strangely and inexplicably familiar. There are many laughs here—not so many as in "The Treasurer's Report," but more than in "Carving the Thanksgiving Turkey."

"The Little Wildcat," I presume, might be given third place with the "Fox Vanities," stage revue, falling into the fourth notch. This is the tamest wildcat I have ever seen. It begins nowhere in particular and ends about the same place after unmeasured reels of attenuated comedy that might easily be condensed into two or three spools of fairly breezy farce.

It is all about two aged veterans of the Civil War and the two charming granddaughters of one of them. Some of the old gentleman's land for a municipal airport is involved, too, and his abiding hatred of planes and aviators. George Fawcett is cast as the grandad, and sputters and puffs and gesticulates his way through many futile silent sequences and several intervals of audible dialogue. He is a millionaire, and Robert Edeson, his captain in the war between the States, is his hired man with all of the privileges of an old friend. Doris Dawson and Audrey Ferris are two charming young girls who have not as yet learned how to read their lines effectively and, Hallam Cooley and James Murray appear as the harassed suitors for their favor. As far as I am concerned, Mr. Murray, who achieved momentary prominence in "The Crowd," may go right back to taking tickets at the Capitol Theater in New York.

The "Fox Vanities" is in the nature of a tap-dancing carnival. Everybody does it, including—unless, in the absence of announcement of any kind, I have confused identities—The Fox Boys and Girls, "Sunshine Sammy" Morrison, of "Our Gang" comedy fame, and his two brothers; the Latheop brothers, Elray and Cooper and Frankel O'Dell and Davis. Hines and Leonard, two girls with a miniature piano, harmonize tunefully and Chas Chase does his habitually crazy stunt of eating cigars, cigarettes, lighted matches, his shirt front and any other tasty morsel he finds convenient.

Melodies by Tschaikowski comprise the overture. N. B. B.

THE STRAND

There is another double bill at the Strand Theater this week, running under the title of "Jazztime Revue."

Following the example set last week, there is part of the show devoted to the "Darktown Strutters." Kitty Madison is featured player.

Harry Evanson, the comedian, scores in a boob creation. There is a good juvenile, Frank McKay, and a straight man, Lew Harris.

George Rehn helps out in the comedy situations.

Among the feminine contingent are Madgy Brandon, Babe Abbott and Bina Moore, a blues singer.

There are some 70 entertainers in all, striving for success in both shows.

Spanish Dictatorship Called "Mixed Evil"

The military directorship of Spain by Gen. Primo de Rivera, Spanish dictator, who is now conferring with King Alfonso to crush a revolt in Valencia, is a mixed evil, Prof. Alton E. Hodgkins, of the University of Baltimore, told members of the Washington Secular League open forum meeting at Musicians Hall, 1006 E street northwest, last night.

Prof. Hodgkins recently returned from a visit in Spain. The country's decline, he said, was due to "war and religion—the concentration of intellect and energy into these two channels which militated against both political and mental liberty and initiative. Motoring in Spain is about as difficult as it was in Arizona 30 years ago."
